ORIGIN OF FIRES.—Saw Dust on Floors Mr. Baker, the fire-marshel in New York, has just made an interesting semi-annual report, in which he makes some valuable suggestions as to the origin of fires; for instauce, he says of saw dust, not suspected by persons employing it, is the use of saw.dust for packing, or covering floors. Thus saw-dust and oil when thrown together in a body, will infallibly produce combustion. It is but recently that an oil warehouse was near being destroyed from the accidental combination of Travers, dec'd, on open account, note and judgthese substances.
