A SPLENDID MEETING.

Governor Warfield is Given a Royal Welcome to Kent and His Presence and Speech Will do Much Toward Accomplishing a Democratic Victory.

Not for many years has such a large and representative audience greeted a political speaker, as accorded such a royal welcome and splendid reception to Governor Edwin Warfield on Monday afternoon in Stam's Hall. The size of the audience is all the more remarkable for many reasons. The day was terribly stormy, the daily papers had stated that the Governor would probably attend Jndge McSherry's funeral, and his enemies in Kent who pass as Democrats were circulating all sorts of rumors that he would not be here, and the boat could not land at Tolchester, and the meeting had been post-poned until four o'clock, etc, ete, but when the Governor reached the hall a little after two o'clock he found a magnificient audience of more than four hundred people gathered from all parts of the county, from Sassafras to Eastern Neck Island. Had it been a clear day the hall would not have held the people, and there would have been still greater wailing and gnashing of teeth among the Governor's enemies who did everything they could possibly do to discourage rather than encourage the meeting. Upon the Governor's arrival in town he, accompanied by a Sun staff correspondent, was escorted to the Pippin Hotel where he was given a royal welcome, and where many Democrats called to pay their respects. The speech of Governor Warfield was a remarkable effort, and has been pronounced by many to have been the best speech ever heard in the hall. He began his address by complimenting the Democracy of the county on the splendid reception he had received, and paid his respects to the ladies, about 50 of whom were in the audience. The Governor spoke for nearly a half hour in behalf of the state and county tickets, urging all Democrats to put away factionalism and vote the Democratic ticket from top to bottom. Nearly all of the local candidates were seated upon the stage with the Governor and he spoke of each candidate, giving to each his heartiest endorsement, and urging the Democracy to support every one of them. He paid a beautiful compliment to Judge Crothers, whom he appointed to the bench, and said that he was satisfied that Judge Crothers would be the Governor of all the people, and that he would carry out the policies of his administration. The Governor gave a plain and straight forward discussion of the platform, and aroused a storm of applause when he put himself so squarely up against the buying and selling of votes at primary and general elections. He said that he wanted the vote of no man who had to be bought to vote for him, and that if he had to buy his election to any office, he did not want it. Another important feature of the Governor's speech was his manly and courageous explanation of his position on the Poe Amendment. He explained to the satisfaction of the audience his reasons for opposing the amendment, and made a ringing hit when he said that while he was just as much in favor of disfranchising the negro as those who accuse him to the contrary, he could never be induced to sign a bill that would have taken away his political liberty, or that of any white man. He said that he was Governor of all the people and not the politicians and as he had taken an oath to administer the affairs of the state faithfully and honestly, he could not be induced to sign any bill that would take away the political rights of a vast army of his fellow citizens. It was a great speech and was so well received that many who went into the hall lukewarm towards the governor came out thoroughly convinced of his honesty and integrity, and many openly pledged him their support in his fight for the United State's Senate. Governor Warfield regretted very much that in his hurry he omitted to say a word for the Judges on the ticket. After he left the stage, however, he thought of the omission and he urged those in the hall to vote for Adkins and Hopper because he knows them to be clean, upright and capable men. He said he would be proud to learn that Kent county has given a handsome democratic majority on Nov. 5, and he believed she would. The Governor left Chestertown at four o'clock delighted with the reception he received, charmed with the audience, and convinced that his visit here had done some good for the Democratic ticket. He also left here with the impression lingering in the minds of hundreds of Democrats that he will fill the bill as United States Senator. It was a great meeting and a compliment to those who arranged the reception to the Governor.

A Fine Game.

Washington College foot ball team went to Westminister last Saturday to play the first of the Intercollegiate foot ball games. It was one of the best games ever seen on the visitors' field, and for two full 30-minute halves both teams fought like beavers to win the laurels. Neither side was able to score, and the game ended in a tie, score 0 to 0. The friends of the college team are very much elated over the showing of the boys, and they are hoping that the team will be able to take the game today from St. John's. A special excursion will be run to Annapolis on the Steamer Love Point leaving Chestertown this morning at 7.30 o'clock. The fare for the Round trip will be $1.25. The steamer will leave Annapolis at 5.30 P. M., giving the excursionists ample time to see the Naval Academy, State House and other interesting sights of the ancient city after the game. We hope the college will have a big crowd of rooters to help bring home the game. Children's tickets will be sold for 75 cents round trip.

DEMOCRATS! ATTENTION!

All Democrats are urged to vote in the Senatorial Primary on Nov. 5th. It is a great, a Democratic step toward the real rule of the people—it is Democracy in practice. Vote for Governor Edwin Warfield for Senator: for he was the father of this reform; he has given Maryland the best financial administration since the war; he is opposed to graft, bribery and bossism; he has been the governor of all the people, not a puppet of the politicians; he represents clean politics and higher citizenship; he has been tried and found faithful; he is a credit to his party and an honor to the State; so, as honors belong to the honorable, he has won the Senatorial toga by his good services, his clean record and his able statesmanship. Warfield will win. Vote For Edwin Warfield.

WARFIELD AS PRESIDENT

Governor's Friends Propose Him as National Leader.

WATCHING SENATORIAL FIGHT.

Men Prominent in National Politics Write That Higher Honors Might Follow Election to Senate.

An interesting phase of the campaign for the United States Senatorial nomination asserted itself on Monday when it became known that friends of Governor Warfield in working for his election to the Senate hope to have him placed upon the list of eligibles for nomination by the Democratic party for President of the United States.

While the Governor has been mentioned several times as a probable nominee for the Vice-Presidency, the idea of his leading the national ticket has not heretofore been pressed. The fact that Democratic sentiment has crystalized about no one and the scarcity of Presidential timber has spurred on the friends of the Governor to take advantage of the opportunity presented by the Senatorial contest to have him, by getting the Senatorship, made a factor in the fight. That his speeches at the Jamestown Exposition have been widely read in the South where they say he is especially strong, and that his career as Governor will stamp him as an able executive, are relied upon by his friends as placing him upon an equal, if not superior, footing with any Democrat in the North or West.

Gov. Warfield is fully qualified to fill the office of President, and his election to the Presidency would be the highest honor that could be conferred upon the State. The Governor has made himself a national figure by his admirable administration of the State's affairs, and his election to the United States Senate will do much towards concentrating the strength of National Democracy upon him as the best man for the presidency. Elect him to the Senate.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Circuit Court for Kent county reconvened on Monday after a postponement on account of the death of Judge McSherry, chief judge of the Court of appeals, with Associate Judges Adkins and Hopper on the bench. An adjournment of one hour was taken on account of the funeral of Judge McSherry. The first case called in the afternoon was the case of State vs. Joseph Francis for the murder of Alfred Blake at Galena on September 1. Jury trial. Verdict of murder in second degree was returned by the jury at an evening session. Sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary. Beck for state; H. W. Vickers, Jr., for accused.

TUESDAY'S SESSION.

Court convened at 9.30 o'clock. First case called was that of state vs. Harrison Tilghman for larceny. Court trial; verdict guilty. Sentenced to 12 months in House of Correction. Beck for state; Urie for defense.

AFTERNOON.

Case of state vs. Henry Johnson for violation of local option law. Jury trial, verdict not guilty. Beck for state; H. H. Vickers, Jr., for defense.

A memorial service to the late Richard D. Hynson, one of our most highly esteemed and prominent members of the bar was held at which the following resolutions were adopted and ordered by the court to be spread upon the minutes of the court:—

WHEREAS, Richard Dunn Hynson, a member of the Kent county Bar has ended his career on earth, and we his brothers in the profession which he for many years has ennobled and adorned, desire to give expression of our most affectionate remembrance. Therefore be it

Resolved, That we deplore the early demise of our deceased brother and cherish his memory as one who was beloved by all as a citizen, neighbor and friend. In his honorable practice at the bar he was recognized as a lawyer of acute intellect and profound knowledge of the law. A faithful and skillful advocate, he was ever kind and tolerant. The courtesies of his life were broad and generous, and will recall with pride this conspicuous ability and unblemished integrity of his professional career.

M. DEK. SMITH,
WM. W. BECK,
LEWIN W. WICKES.

Appropriate eulogies upon the life and character of the deceased were delivered by Messrs. Marion Dek. Smith, Lewin W. Wickes and Wm. W. Beck, the committee which drafted the resolutions. Feeling responses were made by Judges Adkins and Hopper. Judge Pearce was prevented from attending because of business at the Court of Appeals.

The Grand Jury for Kent county, Oct. Term, 1907, beg to report that it has been in session two days, and has examined 37 witnesses including the constables, have examined 12 cases, found 5 presentments, 5 true bills and dismissed 7 cases. We have examined the jail and found it in good condition. We recommend that a water closet be put in the iron cell on 2nd floor of the jail.

ISAAC GIBBS, foreman.

Court adjourned until this morning at 9 o'clock when registration appeal cases will be heard.
