SATURDAY, NOV. 30, 1907.

E. H. BROWN, JR. ESQ., has been appointed counsel and Mr. Madison B. Bordley elected clerk to the Board of County Commissioners of Queen Annes county. Good appointments.

ATTORNEY - GENERAL - ELECT Isaac Lobe Strauss will call a conference of Democratic leaders early in December to discuss the provision of a disfranchising amendment which the party is pledged to submit two years hence.

MR. JOHN M. AKER, former editor and owner of the Queenstown News, and one of the best known men in Queen Anne's county, died at his home in Queenstown on Sunday morning. He was the father of Mr. M. W. Aker, the present editor of the News.

GOVERNOR-ELECT CROTHERS has gone to Atlantic City to recuperate his health. After his return he will spend a few days the guest of Governor Warfield. He was accompanied to Atlantic City by his nephew, Mr. Emerson Crothers, who will likely be his private secretary.

THE Cecil Whig and the Cecil Democrat are still calling each other names. The editor of the Whig is a former minister of the gospel, and the editor of the Democrat occupies a position second only to that of a preacher—an editor—and they should set a better example than they are doing through the columnt of their papers. Brace up, brethren, and go duck shooting.

IT IS POOR financiering on the part of somebody when the United States government has $240,000,000 locked up in its treasury vaults and is compelled to borrow $150,000,000 to meet a deficiency in the money market caused by reckless and unlawful speculation on Wall street. It looks either like President Roosevelt is saving that $240,000,000 to build more big battle ships at the people's expense, or that Wall street stock gamblers have the United States government by the throat.

THE RECORD of Police Justice Samuel Hicks during the past four years has been such as not only he should look upon with pride, but which the entire community commends. Justice Hicks has conducted the business of his office with legal ability and in the most satisfactory manner, always guarding well the wellfare of the community and with a determination to protect its interests. Justice Hicks has been a lifelong Democrat; he has worked for the welfare of the party in season and out of season. Such officers should not be dismissed from office for purely factional reasons. We hope he will be retained, as he has made an exceptionally good official of the law.

Pennsy Retrenching.

Pennsylvania's railroad officers are determined upon a retrenchment policy and operating and all other expenses are to be cut down to a medium. Such action is taken, it is said, because of a sudden and unexpected falling off in the freight traffic of the road which has decreased greatly this month from that of last month.

In accordance with directions issued by the road committee of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania, President McCrea this week gave specific orders to all the heads of the different departments to effect stringent economies and to save every dollar possible. It is said that the heaviest retrenchment will be made in the opperating department and that track gangs will be reduced, that shop work will be curtailed to absolute necessities and locomotive car cleaning forces will be reduced.

Sunday School Convention.

The annual county Sunday School Convention was held in the Chestertown M. E. and M. P. Churches on Wednesday. The programme as advertised in last week's TRANSCRIPT was very interesting. President M. A. Toulson presided and introduced the speakers. All the addresses were well received and were productive of serious consideration of the topics discussed, but the principal feature of the session were the talks of Dr. Roads the State Secretary. Dr. Roads is a broadminded man, full of the knowledge of how to conduct Sunday Schools and the best methods in Sunday School work, and his strong address in Christ M. P. Church at night was a powerful plea for an awakening interest in the Sunday School. The sessions were not half so well attended as they should have been.

Subscription to the Transcript $1.00 per annum.

WHERE DO YOU STAND TO-DAY?

WRITTEN FOR THE TRANSCRIPT.

Oh wandering ones, the Master is calling,
Won't you straighten your course for home;
For all these years you've wandered in darkness,
Then why will you longer roam.

For God in his wisdom will call us all,
When through with our earthly stay;
Then are you prepaired to enter the gate?
Oh where do you stand today?

Are your hopes built on the solid rock?
Are you striving to win the great goal?
Are you trying to enlarge God's Kingdom,
By winning some precious soul?

Oh, no, you speed on in darkness,
Your life is wasting away;
And soon the night of death will approach
Oh, where do you stand today?

Are you living for the cruisfied Savior?
Who suffered and died for us all;
Are you prepared at any time
To respond to the Master's call.

Just think how the time is passing,
And yet you are too carless to pray;
Remember the term of life is short,
Then where do you stand today?

Oh, carless one, oh, foolish one,
Will you not leave the broad road?
And return to God with your burdens,
And He will lighten your load.

For perhaps you have stood by the bed-side,
When a loved one has passed away;
And promised to meet them in heaven,
But where do you stand today?

Oh, wanderer will you scarn the message?
Written by the Apostles hand;
Or will join the mighty army,
And go marching to the better land.

For the wheels of nature speed on their cearse,
And mortal powers will decry;
Then stop and think of this question.
Where do you stand today?

COLLEGE GRADUATE IN NEW ROLL.

The Picture of a Washington College Man is the God of Thousands of Zulus.

An exchange says that the photograph of Harry Pringle Ford, of Philadelphia, a graduate of Washington College, class of '76, and an elder in the Holland Memorial Presbyterian Church, is the god of thousands of Zulus of the Matabele country in South Africa. Fourteen years ago he befriended the son of the potentate of Zululand. He found him cast out by his manager after the Chicago world's fair and sent him back home, paying all his expenses. With him this prince of Zululand, Hosano Corinto by name, took a photo of Mr. Ford. He showed it to his father and told him of Mr. Ford's kind offices. The potentate put the picture on a shrine in the temple and ordered that it be worshiped by his subjects. Corinto visited Mr. Ford the other day on his way South, where he will enter a college for colored people.

[It makes no difference where they go, or in what they engage the Washington College man is bound to be on top.—Eds.]
