STILL POND CHURCH BURNED.

Pretty Edifice Damaged to The Extent of Several Hundred Dollars by Fire on Saturday Afternoon.

Still Pond Methodist Episcopal Church, one of the handsomest and oldest churches in the county, was damaged by fire on Saturday afternoon. The flames started from an overheated furnace in the cellar, shortly after the sexton had kindled the fire. The entire first floor was burned and the interior of the Sunday school room and auditorium were damaged by smoke and water, causing a loss of about five hundred dollars, which is fully covered by insurance in the Kent Mutual of this county, and the same Company of Dover, Del.

Still Pond church is one of the oldest in the county, having been erected in 1853. It was rebuilt and handsomely furnished in 1895 at a cost of $12,000 and for years its congregation has been one of the strongest and most influential in the county. The volunteer firemen, led by county commissioner Harry Davis, succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before the entire structure was consumed. The congregation worshipped in the auditorium of the church on Sunday, and a strange feature in connection with the fire was that Rev. E. H. Collins had previously announced that his subject for Sunday would be "The Judgment Day." The damage will be repaired as soon as the insurance is adjusted.

OBITUARY.

RICHARD SPENCER WICKES.

[Communicated.]

Mr. Richard Spencer Wickes died at his home on Eastern Neck Island on Monday, Nov. 25, of organic heart trouble, aged 54 years. The deceased was born at Wickliffe, and was a son of the late James P. Wickes. He was widely known, and highly esteemed by all who knew him, for his integrity, and kindly genial disposition. He will be sadly missed by his relatives and many friends by whom he was greatly beloved. He is survived by four sisters and one brother, namely: Mrs. T. Romie Strong, Mrs. Mary A. Bogle, Miss Mattie S. Wickes, Mrs. J. H. Ruth, the latter residing in Washington, and Mr. Robert Wickes. Funeral services were held in St. Paul's Church, on Thursday, Nov. 28th, conducted by Rev. S. N. S. Gray. The pall-bearers were: Dr. J. Page Strong, Messrs. Elwood S. Strong, Notley Wilson, Frank Sappington, Howard Reese and Wickes Sappington. Interment it St. Paul's cemetery.

SAMUEL M. LAWDER.

Mr. Samuel M. Lawder, who until his retirement a few years ago was one of the best-known commission men on the wharf, in Baltimore, died Saturday of Bright's disease at his home, Gwynn Oak and Penhurst avenues, West Arlington.

Mr. Lawder was born in East Baltimore and spent nearly all his life in that section. For more than 50 years he was in business on Pratt street or in that neighborhood, and his acquaintance among farmers and others with whom he came in contact was wide. Twenty-five year ago he practically handled all the oysters that came to Baltimore. He also controlled at one time the pineapple trade of the port.

He was 75 years old and a lifelong Democrat. Besides his widow, Mrs. Gertrude L. Lawder, he is survived by the following children: Mrs. Mary R. Sands, West Indies, and Messrs. R. Frank, Percy M., W. Ward, Samuel W. and Miltenburger Lawder.

ELBRIDGE S. JOHNSON.

Mr. Elbridge S. Johnson, one of the best known business men on the Eastern Shore, died at his home 2726 St. Paul street, Baltimore, on Friday. The deceased was vice-president of the Farmer's Trust, Banking and Deposit Company, of Baltimore, of which the former Galena Bank was a branch. He was well-known in Baltimore business circles and throughout the entire Eastern Shore. He was born in Dorchester.

NELSON J. SENEY.

Nelson J. son of John G. and Laura V. Seney, died at the home of his parents in Philadelphia, of scarlet fever, on Sunday last. Aged 8 years 4 months and 9 days. Interment was made in Kennedyville cemetery. The deceased's parents formerly resided near Kennedyville.

R. T. LARRIMORE.

Mr. R. T. Larrimore died at his home 629 N. Fulton avenue, Baltimore, on Tuesday morning of Bright's disease. He was 74 years old, and the father of Mr. T. D. Larrimore, formerly superintendent of the Chestertown overall plant, and now a resident of Baltimore city. The deceased was a member of the Methodist Protestant Church.

MISS ELIZABETH WEER.

Miss Elizabeth Weer, 87 years of age, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Lizzie Chew, in Philadelphia, last week. The remains were brought to Crumpton and intered in the cemetery there last Saturday. The deceased was an aunt of Messrs. James E. and Joseph H. Weer, of Kennedyville.

MR. JAMES J. HALL.

Mr. James J. Hall, a wellknown and prosperous farmer, died at his home, near Fredericktown, Cecil county, on Tuesday of last week. He is survived by a son, Charles Hall, and a daughter, Mrs. Dituran, of Baltimore.

*†*The public schools of the county will close for the Christmas holidays on Friday, Dec. 20th, and will reopen on Monday, January 6.

Wedding Bells.

HILL—HEFLEBOWER.

A very interesting and attractively arranged wedding which took place on Wednesday evening was that of Miss Emily Turnbull Heflebower, daughter of Mrs. John Nunn Heflebower of Baltimore, to Mr. Norman Alan Hill, of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hill, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock at Christ Protestant Episcopal Church by Rev. John G. Sadtler, rector of the Church of Our Saviour, and a brother-in-law of the groom, assisted by the rector of Christ Church, Rev. Edwin Barnes Niver. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon satin trimmed with rose point and duchess lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a presentation bouquet of Bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She entered with and was given away by her venerable uncle, Mr. John Turnbull, Jr., who upon the occasion celebrated his ninety-third birthday. Miss Anina Heflebower, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a robe of princess lace over white silk and chiffon, with bouquet of Golden Gate roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Porter, of Michigan City, Ind.; Miss Mary Barker, of Ebensburg, Pa.; Miss Dora Wilds, of Dover, Del., and Miss Elinor Foster, of Baltimore. Their gowns were of white chiffon cloth and point de venise lace over pink silk, and they carried bouquets of Bridesmaid roses.

The two little nieces of the bride, Misses Miriam and Katherine Brown, were flower girls, in dainty short frocks of white muslin and valenciennes lace, with pink sashes and baskets of pink roses. Mr. Malcolm Westcott Hill, of Alexandria, Va., brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Burkloe Brown, of Baltimore, and Mr. Craig Mitchell, Mr. Warren Humphries, Mr. William Hughes, Mr. James Hayes, and Mr. Howard Shelley, all of Philadelphia. A reception for the bridal party and the members of the two families only followed at the residence of Mrs. Heflebower, 2117 Maryland avenue. Here the general color scheme of pink and white was prettily carried out in the decorations, a profusion of pink roses, with palms and smilax, being used in the drawing-room, with white roses and maidenhair ferns in the supper-room, and tall vases of great white and pink chrysanthemums grouped in the corners of the different apartments and about the hall. During the later evening the bride and groom left on a wedding trip, after which they will make their future home in Philadelphia.

MOORE—GOODING.

The Methodist Episcopal Church at Betterton was the scene of a pretty wedding last Thursday, December 12th, when Hannah Latimer, youngest daughter of Mrs. Hannah Gooding, became the bride of Harvey Brice, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Moore. The church, darkened for the occasion, had been elaborately trimmed in evergreens by friends of the young people and upon entering, one naturally admired the taste which made the beautiful setting for the ceremony which took place at high noon. Grouped near the front were the former pupils of the bride and none in the church manifested more genuine interest in the proceeding than they. The ushers—Messrs. Eugene Gooding, a brother of the bride, Jesse Medders, James Brice, and G. H. Moore—preceded the groom, who was attended by the best man, his brother, Mr. Carleton Moore. The groom, best man, and ushers wore white vests, gloves and ties harmonizing with the bride's gown.

Becomingly attired in pink silk and carrying pink carnations and ferns, the maid of honor, Miss Mary Kathleen, her sister, preceded the bride who came in leaning upon the arm of her brother, Mr. John Hugh Gooding, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white chiffon batiste and lace with veil caught with orange blossoms enhanced her sweet, girlish beauty and many loving thoughts followed the impressive service in which the Rev. W. L. White, of the Chestertown Methodist Church, officiated. Her flowers were white carnations and asparagus sprengerii. After they had been pronounced husband and wife, the happy couple with their immediate relatives retired to the home of the bride's mother, where a reception was held. The bride's going-away gown was of dark blue broadcloth. Amid a shower of rice and confetti, and the good wishes of many friends, Mr. and Mrs. Moore took the afternoon train for Washington and other points of interest. After January first they will be at home to their friends on their farm near Kennedyville.

HUGHES—SHEPPARD.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at Emmanuel rectory by the rector, Rev. Dr. H. B. Martin, on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock when Miss Maude B. Sheppard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sheppard, of Chicago, and granddaughter of Col. and Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort, became the bride of Mr. John H. Hughes, a prominent young business man. Owing to the recent death of the groom's father, the wedding was extremely quiet, none but the bride's grandparents, the grooms brother and Mr. W. Newnam, being present. The bride was becomingly attired in a tailor made suit of blue cloth with hat and gloves to match. Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes took the afternoon train for a short wedding tour, after which they will return to Chestertown for a short time, when they will remove to New York, where the groom will engage in business with his brother.

COOPER—ROBINSON.

Miss Ruth E. Robinson, daughter of Mr. John Robinson, Sr., and Mr. Wm. H. Cooper, Jr. were married at the home of the bride's parents in Still Pond, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. The bride wore a handsome traveling suit of brown with hat and gloves to match. The groom wore the conventional black. Promptly at the appointed hour, to the strains of Mendlesshon's wedding march played by Mrs. Kate McKee, the bride and groom entered the parlor, and beneath a large wedding bell were united in marriage by Rev. E. H. Collins. A sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to the guests at five o'clock in the afternoon, and immediately after the ceremony a reception was held. Many handsome presents of cut glass, silver and other useful things were received. They will reside on a farm in the Sixth District.

FINE MEMORIALS.

Mr. J. W. Kirby, Proprietor of the Chestertown Monumental Works, Has Erected a Number in the Various Cemeteries of the County Recently.

Mr. J. W. Kirby, the hustling and accomplished proprietor of the Chestertown Monumental Works, has erected the following fine memorials in the various cemeteries of the county recently to the memory of the dead:

Mrs. Emma Hessey, of Hanesville, to the memory of her husband, Dr. J. H. Hessey, and her son, Franklin W., a large and handsome Barre Granite Sarcophagus with markers and posts of same granite in Chester cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown, of Quaker Neck, to the memory of their daughter, Elizabeth T., a fine Westerly granite marker in Chester cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Walker, of Worton, to the memory of her husband, S. W. Walker, a fine marble tomb in St. James cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Quick, of Rock Hall to the memory of her husband, James Quick, a fine marble tomb in Wesley Chapel cemetery.

Mr. R. F. Cole, of Church Hill, to the memory of his son, Carroll, a handsome marble tomb in Church Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Hynson, of Rock Hall, to the memory of her daughter, Emma Reed, a fine tomb in the family burying ground.

Mr. Kirby's reputation as a skilful sculptor is not confined to Chestertown and Kent county. He was one of the carvers who did the handsome carving and ornamental stone work on the imposing B. & O. building in Baltimore, and upon which one of the editors of the TRANSCRIPT had the pleasure to stand for a half hour and watch him work. He was also one of the chief sculptors upon the new Custom House, Baltimore, the Philadelphia mint, and a number of other large buildings, all of which attest his great skill as an engraver and decorator. He did the work on the large monument erected by the King David Lodge, of Baltimore, to the memory of Queen Victoria. The recent memorials erected in our cemeteries are specimens of his skill.

H. S. T. A. Officers.

At a business meeting of the High School Teachers Association held in connection with their annual meeting in Baltimore last week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Mr. Amon Burgee, principal of Frederick Male High School.

Vice President—Mr William Stedman, principal of Belair High School.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Clara Estelle Rose, vice principal of Centreville High School.

The Manual Training Teacher's Association of Maryland held its regular autumnal meeting Friday at the Maryland State Normal School. Nearly all of the members were present and took part in the discussion of the problems of this line of school work. The association was invited to attend the meeting of the county superintendents also in session at the Normal School. At this meeting the teachers participated in the discussion as to the proper distribution of the manual training and industrial funds.

Mr. Carroll Edgar, of Elkton, spoke on "The Relation of Industrial Education to Manual Training." Mr. W. J. Holloway, of the Maryland State Normal School, had for his theme "The Part Manual Training Should Play in the Teaching of Agriculture in the Elementary Schools." Mr. E. A. Hidey, of Wesminster, spoke on "The Social Aim versus the Industrial Aim in Manual Training," and Mr. R. W. Strawbridge, of Havre de Grace, on "Woodwork when the Social Aim is Paramount; when the Industrial Aim is Paramount—The First Model in Each Case."

State legislation for the manual training schools was discussed at some length.

The following committee of five was appointed to effect greater uniformity in manual training work:

Messrs.—D. Fred Shamberger, Sparrows Point; Carroll Edgar, Elkton; Luther Forsythe, Hagerstown; George Gaither, Baltimore; W. J. Holloway, Baltimore.

The association adjourned to meet in the spring at Annapolis upon invitation of Dr. M. Bates Stephens, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Advertise Your Goods.

The merchant who does not advertise is like a stranger who moves into a community—no one knows anything about him or his goods. To be successful in any kind of business, a man must let the people known what he has to sell. The merchant, bank, or business man who advertises most freely in the TRANSCRIPT is the most successful, because the paper circulates largely among those people in the town and county who do a cash business—which is most profitable to business men generally. The paper is the best advertising medium in the county to-day because of its valuable circulation. Ask any of our patrons for the truth of these statements. Make a contract with the TRANSCRIPT for next year and see what the result will be in your business.
