Wedding Bells.

WILKINS—WICKES.

Emmanuel P. E. Church, Chestertown, was the scene of a beautiful wedding on Thursday at 12 o'clock, when Miss Josephine Rebecca Wickes, daughter of Hon. Joseph A. Wickes, became the bride of Dr. Thomas H. Wilkins, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Va. The church was beautifully decorated with chrysathemums and potted plants, the altar and chancel being illuminated with candles. Promptly at the appointed hour, to the strains of Mendelssohon's wedding march, skilfully rendered by Mrs. Mary Roberts, the bridal party entered the church, in the following manner—the ushers, Maid of Honor, flower girl, and the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. The bride was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. John S. Harwood, Jr., of Richmond, Va. The bride was handsomely attired in a white satin gown en train with tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley, Her Maid of Honor, Miss Adelaide Groome Kennard, a neice, of Baltimore, wore a beautiful costume of white crepe de chene, with large picture hat, and carried white chrysanthemums, while the flower girl, Miss Gladys Robinson Wickes, a sister of the bride, wore white mulle with lace and ribbon trimmings, and carried pink chrysanthemums. The ushers were Messrs. E. P. Wilkins, Portsmouth, Va., brother of the groom, Dr. T. S. Cooke, Portsmouth, Va., Dr. E. T. Hargrave, Norfolk, Va., Joseph Wickes, of Baltimore, Lewin W. Wickes and Thomas W. Perkins, of Chestertown. They, with the groom and best man wore frock coats, gray trousers, steel gloves and ties, and high silk hats. The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Dr. Henry B. Martin, rector of the church. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception to the immediate families, close friends and out of town guests was given at the home of the bride, after which Dr. and Mrs. Wilkins left on the afternoon train for an extended wedding tour. The dining room was beautifully decorated the color scheme being green and white. Dr. and Mrs. Wilkins will reside in Portsmouth, Va. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents, including handsome silver, cut glass, rare china, etc. The gift of the venerable father to the bride was a beautiful silver service, the only decoration being the bride's monogram. The out of town guests were Mrs. Thos. L. Hines, Mrs. Carrie B. Kennard and daughter, Miss Adelaide Groome Kennard, of Baltimore; Mr. C. H. Cromwell, wife and child, of Ellicott City; Mrs. E. V. Wilkins, mother of the groom, and Miss Hattie Winters, of Portsmouth, Va.; Mrs. Kay, of Philadelphia; Miss Edith Adams, of Howard county; Mrs. J. M. Corcoran, Centreville; Miss Janvier and Miss Willson, of Kent; Mr. E. P. Wilkins and Dr. T. S. Cooke, Portsmouth, Va.; J. S. Harwood, Jr., of Richmond, Dr. E. T. Hargrave, of Norfolk, Va., and Mr. Joseph Wickes, of Baltimore. The bride's going-away gown was blue cheviot, with hat and gloves to match.

WILLIAMS—VANDYKE.

"Castle Carey," the home of Mrs. Thomas VanDyke, of near Locust Grove, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, when Miss Anna Isabelle VanDyke became the bride of Mr. George T. Williams. The home of the bride was very prettily decorated for the happy occasion and the ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. J. M. Mitchell, of Galena. Immediately following the ceremony, a luncheon was served to the immediate families, after which Mr. and Mrs. Williams left on the afternoon train for a wedding tour for Washington and other points of interest. After their return they will reside near Worton Station, where the groom is engaged in farming. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and valuable presents.

RICKORDS—JAMISON.

At Trinity, Wilmington, Del., M. E. Parsonage, 2219 Pine street, on Monday evening, Clifford M. Rickords and Miss Lillian B. Jamison, both of Wilmington, were married by Rev. B. F. Jester. The groom was formerly of Little Creek, and the bride formerly of Warwick, Cecil county, Md. The couple have gone to spend a few days at the home of the groom's parents, at Little Creek. They will return to Wilmington, where the groom is employed as a railway conductor.

Given 18 Years.

Chief Judge Pearce held a special session of court on Wednesday morning when Horace Hynson, convicted of the murder of Capt. J. E. Walmsley, at Morgnec, on Dec. 27, 1905, was sentenced. The sentence pronounced by Judge Pearce was very impressive and those in the court room were moved by the solemn words. When Hynson was arraigned, he said, "I'm not guilty. I did not kill the poor old man." He was sentenced to 18 years in the Maryland Penitentiary. The crime for which Hynson was convicted was one of the most brutal ever perpetrated in the county. Capt. Walmsley owned a store in Morgnec and it was known that he had considerable money about him at times. His store was a sort of meeting place for the colored people in the village and many of them knew that the Captain had money. It was brought out at the trial that Hynson made the statement to one of the witnesses, Major Robinson, that he knew Captain Walmsley had money, and he was going to set fire to the house, pour coal oil over the old man, and burn him up. The fire and murder occurred on Dec. 27, 1905, and the crime was traced to Hynson. He will be taken to the Penitentiary next week, along with other prisoners.

THE DAMASK ROSE.

The Jac-Minot Rose with blood red heart
Smiles to the summer sky,
And crimson ramblers in gorgeous blooms,
All around are clustering high.

The giant of battles in flaming red
Bends to the welcome showers,
"American beauties" and the "Belles of France,"
Are queens among the flowers.

"Hybrid Teas" in bright array
Make fascinating show,
While "Mareschal Niels and Glorias"
Reflect the sunset's glow.

Not the "Malmaison," nor the "Bon Silene,"
Nor the radiant solfitaire
Can equal the rose of the olden times,
That my grandmother wore in her hair.

Not all the rose of eastern lands
Nor Araby's roses sweet,
Not the "eglantine" nor the "Cherokee blooms,"
With the damask rose could compete.

Its color was pink as the blush on her cheek—
Its fragrance, with none could vie,
And I loved to watch her beautiful face,
When she sang of the days gone by.

When she sang sweet songs of days agone,
Of her true-love blithe and fair,
When he came from the wars to claim his bride—
So brave, so debonair.

Then she told of the day, the nuptial day,
When robed in her bridal white,
He placed on her hair a crown of pink—
Of the damask roses bright.

And when upon her red, red lips,
Her true-love pressed his own,
The blushes on her lovely cheeks,
The rose-crown far out shone.

Now June with all the splendid charms
Of roses new and rare,
Has none, so dear as the damask rose,
That my grandmother wore in her hair.
