SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1908.

IT IS reported that the Republican State Central Committee has endorsed Mrs. Joseph Mallalieu for postmaster at Millington.

SPEAKER JOSEPH CANNON and President-elect Taft are at loggerheads over the revision of the tariff. Now see if Uncle Joe doesn't win the fight.

DO NOT fail to read the splendid addresses of School Commissioner John N. Bennett, and Miss Caroline Schreitz, of the Kennedyville Grange, on the public schools, and the work of the Grange. They will be found on page 6 of this issue.

BROTHER CHARLES P. TAFT gave $110,000 to the Republican campaign fund in exchange for a seat in the United States Senate, as a representative from Ohio. Who is worse, Mr. Foraker, because he represented in his capacity as a lawyer the Standard Oil Company, or Bro. Charlie, who has to buy his way into the Senate?

ANDREW CARNEGIE, who has amassed millions of dollars under the protection of a high tariff system, says the country has reached a point where the manufacturers need no protection, and that there should be a tariff for revenue only. At the same time it may be said that Mr. Carnegie is doing a world of good in distributing his money in gifts where it will do the most good.

THE statements of the treasurers of the campaign funds, published elsewhere in this issue, show that the Corrupt Practices Act was faithfully observed in the recent election. It cost the Democrats less than $600 to carry the county by over 200, when in past years it had been costing both parties nearly $3,000 to carry the county by 50 majority either way. Such reform is well worthy of support, whether in a primary contest or in a general election, and it is to be hoped that public sentiment will cause the law to be all the more rightly enforced in the future.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to establish experimental farms all along the Delaware Peninsula, and to place in charge of these farms the very best farming talent which can be secured in this or any other country. President McCrea has determined that the railroad shall take its part of the responsibility for the cultivation of the farming and trucking lands of the peninsula. The object of the railroad company is to demonstrate to farmers and truckers the best and most profitable crops to grow on their different lands, and to establish a closer union with the farmers and truckers of the peninsula, to confer with them as to the best craps to grow and to help them in the selection of the best markets for the shipment of their produce.

STATE QUARANTINES AGAINST CATTLE.

Maryland Bars Importation of Pennsylvania and New York Stock.

Maryland has placed an embargo against all cattle from Pennsylvania and New York, where the hoof and mouth disease, professionally known as aphthous fever, has appeared.

The Live Stock Sanitary Board of this State has directed all the railroads running into the State not to receive as freight animals from Pennsylvania or New York.

No effort, it is said, will be spared in keeping the State clear of the disease, for with its appearance the port of Baltimore will be closed to the exportation of cattle, which is a factor in the commercial life of the city.

Veterinarians throughout the State have been asked to watch for the appearance of the dread malady and notify the Live Stock Board. Not a single case has yet been found in Maryland.

Dr. Mackey, a veterinarian who is a member of the Board, said to-day:

"The hoof and mouth disease was unknown in this country until four years ago, when it made its appearance in Massachusetts. It was stamped out then without much loss.

"It is a very contagious malady, even more contagious than measles among children. It is peculiar to animals with a cloven hoof. Ulcers appear in the mouth and just over the hoofs of animals, and these ulcers break and run. It is seldom, if ever, fatal, but the cheapest way of getting rid of it is to kill the animals afflicted and quarantine localities in which it exists, so far as the movements of cattle are concerned.

"So contagious is the disease that there is danger in using hay with which the infected animals might have been in contact, and they catch it from one another by drinking out of the same trough."
