Tuberculosis Campaign.

Arrangements are now complete for the public meetings which are to be held in Chestertown next week in the interest of the campaign against tuberculosis. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at eight o'clock an open air demonstration will take place on the public square. This demonstration will consist of a popular lecture illustrated with stereopticon views. A different lecture will be given each evening. By these lectures, it is hoped to be able to make plain some of the most important facts concerning the nature of tuberculosis, how it is spread from one person to another, how it is being cured, and what steps are necessary for its prevention. The speaker make no pretense at oratory, but endeavor to present hard, cold facts in an intelligent manner.

Everybody should attend these lectures. Those who have this great campaign in charge are conferring a great blessing upon humanity, and they should be encouraged in their noble efforts against this greatest of all plagues.

Normal School's Woman Principal.

At a meeting of the State Board of Education, held Thursday in the office of the Governer, at Baltimore, Miss Sarah E. Richmond, vice principal of the State Normal School, was elected principal, succeeding Dr. George W. Ward, who resigned, and whose resignation was accepted. Dr. Ward tendered his resignation at last meeting, but the board refrained from giving it out, to stave off the numerous applications which would be sure to follow, it having been practically decided to name Miss Richmond as his successor.

Miss Richmond, who succeeds him, is the first woman to serve as principal of the Normal School. She was one of the first graduates of the instution and has been identified with the school since it was organized. She has been vice principal 20 years. The salary of the principal is $2 500.
