BIG WEEK AT CAMP.

The camp meeting is now in full swing. Last Sunday afternoon a temperance rally was held. The opening remarks were made by Evangelist R. T. Baer, president of the conference. Mrs. Amy C. Weech, national lecturer of the W. C. T. U., spoke on the Gospel of Temperance, raising the standard of temperance to the plane of love as the great protector of men and women.

Dr. H. N. Sisco gave facts and statistics on the sociological and physiological phase of the subject showing how alcohol lessens one's chances in life and health. Dr. Bourdeau-Sisco followed on "Stepping Appetite." Mr. O. B. Kuhn, representing the Washington, D. C., sanitarium, presented the relation of patent medicines to intemperance. The last address was by Pastor S. B. Horton on the necessity of uniting with all movements of State and national legislation prohibiting the manufacture, sale and promiscuous use of intoxicating drinks.

The Seventh Day Adventists believe in medical missionary work as the right arm of the gospel, and have 104 sanitariums and hospitals in operation in all the world. Rational methods of treatment are used in preference to harmful drugs. They are vegetarians not because of religious requirements, but because of the physiological relation between health of body and mental and spiritual development.

The reports in the conference sessions show the greatest growth in the history of the conference. More members have been added and more churches built than in any previous year. Prof. G. B. Wilkinson represents the educational phase of the movement. The 702 schools, academies and colleges of the denomination with their 25,000 students form the recruiting ground of this movement. The distribution of literature is another large part of their work. Last year over $2,000,000 worth of literature printed by their 37 publishing houses in 71 languages was distributed.

Tuesday evening Prof. B. G. Wilkinson, president, and S. B. Horton, secretary of the Columbia Religious Liberty Association, and Profs. C. S. Longacre and A. J. S. Bourdeau, of the American Religious Liberty Association, addressed the P. O. S. of A.

Thursday night Prof. C. S. Longacre spoke in the big tent on Religious Liberty.

Subject for Saturday evening, Sept. 27, is "True Love is Obedience."

Sunday, Sept. 28, 11 A. M., "Court Week in Heaven."

A public baptism will be held in the Chester river near the bridge at 4 P. M. At 7.45 P. M. "The Message of Christ for the Generation."

The Beacom Business College in Salisbury is enlarging its quarters to accommodate the large enrollment. This makes the third time the school has added to its quarters in as many years. As soon as the addition is completed the college will be able to seat about 150 students. Prof. Wilbur Hirons, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hirons, of this town, is the principal of this flourishing school.
