FINE SPRING CONCERT.

The Chestertown Choral and Dramatic Club maintained its reputation for fine singing last Wednesday evening when they gave their third annual spring concert in the Lyceum. The program was well-executed throughout, and each number brought hearty response from the appreciative audience. Prof. Martin Ten Hoor, the new director of the club, conducted the chorus and orchestra with skill, and his efforts bore a splendid response from a well-trained and evenly balanced class. The features of the program were—"The Bridal Chorus," "Hark, Hark, My Soul," "Greeting to Spring" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny"—each of which was splendidly rendered, especially the latter, whose sweet melody and harmony caught the audience. The soloists, Misses Virginia Cain, Helen Boyd, Mrs. W. Frank Jarrell, Mrs. Fred G. Usilton and Mr. Mor zani, proved their ability as singers, and greatly pleased the audience with their sweet voices. But after all the sustaining and supporting feature of the entire program was the fine orchestra. Scarcely has a Chestertown audience been treated to finer music than was rendered by the orchestra, both in its accompaniments and its individual and quartette work. Their music would do credit to professionals, and its fine accompaniment was the sustaining and most helpful influence to the chorus. Altogether, the work of the club on Wednesday evening was most creditable, and the singers and orchestra received, as they very much merited, the commendation of an appreciative audience, numbering about one hundred and seventy-five people, probably the largest audience that has atteded the spring concerts, which assures its financial success. The program was as follows:
