POETRY.

SEASONS.

BY CHRISTINI G. ROSETTI.

Oh, the cheerful Budding time!
When thorn-hedges turn to green,
When new leaves of elm and lime
Cleve and shed their winter screen;
Tender lambs are born and "baa,"
North wind finds no snow to bring,
Vigorous nature laughs, "Ha, ha,"
In the miracle of Spring.

Oh, the gorgeous Blossom-days!
When broad flag-flowers drink and blow,
In and out in summer-blaze
Dragon-flies flash to and fro;
Ashen branches hang out keys,
Oaks put forth the rosy shoot,
Wandering herds wax sleek at ease,
Lovely blossoms end in fruit!

Oh, the shouting Harvest-weeks!
Mother earth grown fat with sheaves
Thrifty gleaner finds who seeks;
Russet-golden pomp of leaves
Crown the woods, to fall at length;
Bracing winds are felt to stir,
Ocean gathers up her strength,
Beasts renew their dwindled fur.

Oh, the starving Winter-lapse!
Ice-bound, hunger-pinched and dim;
Dormant roots recall their saps,
Empty nests show black and grim.
Short-lived sunshine gives no heat,
Under buds are nipped by frost,
Snow sets forth a winding sheet,
And all hope of life seems lost.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Too Much for Him.

A young man who actually desired wealth was visited by his Satanic majesty, who tempted him to dispose of his soul for eternity if he could be supplied on earth with all the money he could use. The bargain was concluded; the devil was to supply the money, and was at last to have the soul, unless the young man could spend more money than the devil could furnish. Years passed away; the man married, was extravagant in his living, built palaces, speculated wildly, lost and gave away fortunes, and yet his coffers were always full. He turned politician and bribed his way to power and fame without reducing his pile of gold. He became a filibuster and fitted out ships and armies, but his banker honored all his drafts. He came to New York to live, and paid the usual rate of interest for all the money he could borrow; but though the devil made faces when he came to pay the bills, yet they were all paid. One expedient after another failed. The devil counted the time, only two years, that he must wait for the soul; and he mocked the efforts of the despairing man. [illegible] on- dev the mo dea So sou

But "mamma's little pet" got into a very bad scrape the other day, whereby he got badly pickeled. Having made his way to the pantry, and observing a large jar of pickles, the little fellow thought he would have at least what big folks call a square meal, so in went the head in the jar of pickles, but out the head couldn't get, and as a consequence, the "darlin" set up a very lively and interesting noise, which attracted the frightened mother, who found the young hopeful just in the fix described. Amid screams and cries, the jar had to be broken before the baby's head could be extricated, which being done, "Little Pickle" as he is now called, cast sly looks at his ma and then at the pickles, exclaiming,—

"O, mamma, I's never doin' to det pickled aden."

Trichina Spiralis

Six cases of the dread disease known as trichina spiralis have occured in Springfield, Mass. The Republican says that on the 26th ult, the family of Ransley Hall, living at 49 Hickory street, were the victims, and the disease is traceable to a ham, which was purchased a few weeks ago, at a grocery store in ward 7. The family ate freely of this ham in its raw state, no part of it being cooked, and in a few days unpleasant symptoms began to manifest themselves. On the second of March. Mr. Hall, feeling very unwell, summoned a physician, and about the same time his son Cornelius was attacked in the same way, but not so severely. On the following Saturday, his daughter Ida, aged seventeen, was taken sick with the same disease; the next Tuesday, her sister Laura, two years younger; the next Saturday, Mrs Hall, and subsequently, Mrs. Hall's father, Mr. Church. It is noticeable that Ida, who was the fondest of the ham and ate the most freely of it, was the sickest of the family; and after a singular illness of a little more than two weeks, she died, yesterday afternoon, about 2 o'clock. The others were ill almost in proportion to the amount of ham they had eaten, but it is hoped that all the survivors will recover. The illest one now is Mrs. Hall, whose case is still critical, but the others are cosidered out of danger.—Mr. Church, has stoutly refused to be considered sick and has taken no medicine, but his limbs are so badly swollen that his boots cannot be removed from his feet. Mrs. T. H. Dillaber, nee Miss Olive Robinson, was with the family when the ham was eaten, and helped to eat it. She went from there to Albany, where she had been sick previously with the same simptoms. This pork disease, caused by minute worms preying upon the muscles, is the one which has proved fatal in thousands of cases in Germany, and has also appeared in some of our western cities. In the case of Mr Hall's family, the symptoms were quite uniform, varying only in degree of intensity. The first one was a violent pain through the eyes, which soon became swollen and bloody. This was followed by pains in the stomach and bowels, with vomiting and a very offensive billious and mucuous diarrhoea. There was at the same time and subsequently the most profuse perspiration and urination, and the face and limbs became badly swollen. After the swelling and bloody appearance in the eyes had disappeared, which occurred at about the end of the third day, the limbs became rigid. When lying perfectly at ease the patient would feel no pain, but the least movement of the limbs would cause terrible agony, and touching them in certain places would also cause great pain Ida, the young lady who died, could only lie with her lower limbs perfectly straight; the least change from that positson caused her dreadful suffering. During her illness her pulse was never slower than 130 or 140 a minute, while during the last four days it was too quick to be counted. During the first part of that time, her hands and feet were cold and clammy, while the rest of her body retained its natural warmth. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning she fell asleep and never awoke. The physician in attendance was not fully satisfied as to the actual disease until yesterday; but his treatment was the same that is laid down in the books for trichina spirallis, and with with the exception of the copious urination, the symptoms were mainly the same, The cases have excited great interests in the medical profession, and it is to be hoped that a microscopic examination of a muscle will be made to ascertain whether trichina are really present, and thus confirm or disprove theory held with regard to these singular cases.

Recent investigations have placed beyond all doubt the fact that trichinesis made its appearance at Ionia, Mich. [illegible] ons of muscle from the bodies of [illegible] the children of the Haight famiwho recently died, as was suspected, disease, have been placed under roscope, and found to contain over 0 of the trichina spiralis to the inch.

Fancy Dancing.

exchange cautions young men n't dance fancy dances, not to go ll with a young lady who can, dds a few suggestions as fol-e ever have any children we shall them to dance the fancy dances to neglect of their catechism. Not that they will enjoy the hopping around first on one foot, then on the other, then on both; but they will have a good chance to hug other folks' wives and sweethearts! This is the secret of dancing. No one could object then; but if a fellow were to sit by the side of his own wife, even in a ball room, and hug her half as hard—well wouldn't there be remarks? Guess not. (We speak ironically.) Talk about going sparking by moonlight, sitting on the stoop Sunday evening and stealing a kiss every time a star shoots, (that's the nicest game,) riding by the side of a rosy cheeked girl, or eating happiness with a gold spoon—all, all these sink into insignificance when fancy dancing comes on. But then, if a fellow don't know how, and takes to a party a girl that does, he has to sit on a cold bench and see another doing the sweet hugging of that angelic creature that he paid his ticket for, it's awful! Just sit and see another's arms where yours ought to be, her head where it should not be, and—well, don't take a girl to a dancing party unless you know the ropes.

The First Battle of Bull Run.

The first battle of Bull Run, though almost insignificant when compared with fifty engagements that followed, nevertheless will occupy in history equal prominence, perhaps, with any battle which marked the unhappy strife; because it was the first serious encounter between the two sections, and because it greatly depressed the north, and correspondingly elated the South. In its ultimate results, however, this battle really proved more beneficial to the vanquished than to the victors. while the North was depressed it put forth new and herculean efforts, and nerved itself as it had not done before to put down the rebellion The defeat of the Federals, however, filled the South with an overweening confidence in its ability, and in the end was productive of more harm than good to the Southern cause.

General Joseph Johnston has recently published a long letter, in which he corrects some wrong impressions which have prevailed at the South concerning this battle. He and General Beauregard have both been censured because the victory was not followed up by an attack on Washington. But he affirms that it was impossible to do this. There were, he says, twenty-five thousand fresh Union troops to counteract such a movement on their part. When the cavalry did press forward in the direction of Alexandria, they 'were driven back by the solid resistance of the United States Infantry.' 'We could not,' he asserts, 'have carried the intrenchments and had none of the means to besiege them; our assault would have been repulsed, and the enemy, then become victorious, would have resumed their march to Richmond. But if we had captured the entrenchments, a river, a mile wide, between them and Washington, commanded by the heavy guns of a Federal fleet.' The Federal 'masses,' he says, 'were less disorganized by defeat than our army by triumph.' This assertion bears out the Northern statements made at the time, to the effect that victors and vanquished were equally punished; that the retreating soldiers, though depressed and disheartened, were in reality not a whit more demoralized than those who remained in possession of the field of strife. As a proof of the disorganization which followed in the Southern army, General Johnston speaks of 'thousands who went home in the belief that their victory had terminated the war'—The 'substantial fruits of the victory,' General Johnston asserts, 'was the preservation of the Confederacy,' and no more could or should be hoped for. He adds: 'The defeat of the Confederate army would have involved the immediate overthrow of the Confederacy.'—The Confederate forces at Bull Run, he says, amounted to thirty-two thousand, including the eleven thousand reinforcements from Winchester Eighteen hundred and ninety-three men were lost in the battle. The total losses by desertion and otherwise, however, were about five thousand, which more than counterbalanced the total Union losses, including killed, wounded and prisoners. It has generally been supposed at the South that the number of reinforcements received soon after the battle brought up the strength of the Confederate army to sixty thousand men, and General Johnston has consequently been censured that he did not then make a forward movement into Maryland. But he now states that the total of his reinforcements amounted to only six thousand troops.

Why Women Cannot be Masons.

When King Soloman was still a young man he had married his seventh wife. She was a beautiful young Ammonites, with locks as black as a raven's wing, and eyes as bright as the eagle's. It was believed that she was the favored fair one among all the sultanas of the Great King; for his affections were not divided then as they afterwards became. She knew her power and used it unsparingly. In addition to her other qualities, she was as inquisitive as was ever a woman on this earth.

One evening King Solomon attended Lodge, on some grand occasion, and stayed out somewhat late. When he returned home, he found the fair Ammonitess in the dumps, and pouting just as do the dear wives of masons do sometimes now when their lords stay out too late at Lodge. She upbraided him with neglecting her, insinuated that he hadn't been to the Lodge as he pretended, and insisted that in the future he—should give proof that he went there by having herself initiated, so that she might go there and watch him

"Daughter of Ammon," replied the King 'thou hast behaved thyself as one of the foolish women, in presuming to question thy lord and master. Thou art not so angry with me as thou pretendest to be; for the true reason of this behavior is thy insatiable curiosity, in which thou excellest Eve herself. Know then that I hereby ordain that neither thou, nor any of thy inquisitive sex after thee, ever enter the portals of a Masonic Lodge; but I shall enjoin the Tyler to pierce through with his drawn sword any woman that shall attempt to enter a Lodge: aye, even the Queen of Israel though thou be.' And that ordinance of the wisest of monarchs has continued in force to this day.

We hope, now, that we have satisfied the curiosity of our fair readers as fully as did King Solomon that of his Queen.—Norfolk Journal.

Curtain Lecture.

Been out all night again. I'd like to know where you keep yourself until this time in the morning; it's not ten minutes since I heard the clock strike four. You didn't hear it? No of course you didn't. You wouldn't hear the last trump—the noise would have to travel through an acre or two of beer before it would get to your hearing. Had to go among your friends? Had to go!—I'd like to know how you had to go.—Some folks are very willing to 'had' to go. Yes, I know it's coming on election times; that's a good excuse to get away from your family and home. I wish there was no election in the whole country—it would be much better off if we hadn't any. Who did you elect?—Who did you see? Theater and dance. Now turn over here. Oh, Lord! am I in a hog-yard or a distillery, or where am I? What have you got outside of you? Didn't drink much? You must have got into a beer barrel, then, for it's coming out all over you, and how it smells! You danced, eh? You must have cut a pretty figure—guess it was a large reel. Do you think I'll stand this going off to dance all night? Who did you dance with? I'll bet she was as homely as a pumpkin with two holes in it. Look here! you needn't pretend to sleep; I want to have a little domestic conversation with you. I am your better half, and your better half proposes to discuss matters a little. Late How do you know it's late? It's early enough to give you a piece of a woman's tongue. Tonguey? Yes I am tonguey—that's part of a woman's prerogative, and I am going to use some of it on you. Let you alone? Did you say that to the girl you danced with? Oh, no! nothing of the sort; it was Miss, shall I have the pleasure of your beautiful person for the next cotillion? I wish I could see her—I'd take the beautiful out of her at a jerk. Can get no peace? Yes you can get plenty of it—go to the theatre, go electioneering; dance with the girls till morning, and come home and I'll give you peace by the long measure—I'll give you a piece of my mind. Come back here, where are you going? Get into another bed? Not exactly; this bed has been large enough heretofore and has not grown any smaller lately. You danced did you? I'd like to see you dance with me. I'm too old, I suppose. I ain't too old to give you fits, you can bet your life on that, fellow, if you don't conduct yourself properly hereafter.

A Noble Act.

A praiseworthy action of the day previous came into our possession yesterday morning which it gives us pleasure to record.

A mere lad, probably a resident of the vicinity, in walking along the track of the Illinois Central, near Council Hill, on Friday morning discovered the end of a rail thrown out of the "chair" in such a manner as to form a Y at the point of the displacement. Scarcely he made the discovery, when he heard the morning train thundering along with almost lightning speed toward the terrible place. The little fellow fully realized the position, and with eager steps he ran toward the train, waving a tiny red handkerchief, which he luckily had in his pocket, as a warning of the danger ahead. The train was speeding swiftly on a down grade. Fortunately, the engineer saw the boy's signal, whistled his "down breaks," and the precious invoice of human fright was stopped on the very verge—it may have been of destruction.

Without alarming the passengers, the rail was replaced, the boy's name secured by the conductor, and the train moved on. It was not until the train had nearly reached the Dubuque station, that their narrow escape from injuries and death, and the brave boy's act, was learned by the passengers. Then they would gladly give him a memento of their gratitude, but the conductor declined to disclose his name, and they were left to feel the gratitude they would have expressed in pecuniary reward

Undoubtedly, the conductor's motive for concealment was, that he preferred his company should reward the noble lad, than that those whose lives and limbs he saved should do it. That he will be rewarded, who can doubt? We shall watch diligently among our exchanges for his name, if we should otherwise fail to procure it. Such a boy's name is deserving of 'honorable mention.'—Dubuque Times.

The Countryman's Answer.

A grant and learned Atheist once met a plain countryman going to church.—He asked him:

'Where are you going?'

'To church, sir.'

'What to do there?'

'To worship God.'

'Pray, whether is your God a great or a little God?'

'He is both, sir.'

'How can he be both?'

'He is so great, sir, that the Heaven of heavens cannot contain Him, and so little that he can dwell in my poor heart.'

The Atheist declared that this simple answer of the countryman had more effect upon his mind than all the volumes the learned doctors had written upon the subject.

☞ A bachelor and a young lady bought some tickets in partnership in a lottery at the recent Sanitary Fair at Milwaukee, agreeing to divide the proceeds equitably. They drew a double bedstead, a baby-crib and a lunch-basket, and the question is how to divide them, or whether they shall not use them jointly.

YOUNG MEN

Especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call upon me with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of Physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., speedily cured

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

Immediately Cured and Full Vigor Restored.

This Dreadful Disease—which renders Life miserable and Marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise.—The system becomes Deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, a Wasting of the Frame, Coughs, Consumption, &c.

The Doctor's DIPLOMA hangs in his office

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with a derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgences and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsy, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded—Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

THOUSANDS of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption.

DR. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

By this great and important remedy, Weakness of the Organs is speedily cured, and full vigor restored.

Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Trembling, Weakness or Exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Dr Johnston.

YOUNG MEN

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons MUST, before contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisition to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholly reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability can alone befriend him. He falls into the hands of ignorant and designing pretenders, who, incapable of curing, filch his pecuniary substance, keep him trifling month after month, or as long as the smallest fee can be obtained, and in despair leave him with ruined health to sigh over his galling disappointment; or, by the use of that deadly poison, Mercury, hasten the constitutional symptoms of this terrible disease, such as affection of the Head, Throat, Nose, Skin, etc., progressing with frightful rapidity till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings by sending him to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveller returns.

ENDORSEMENT OF THE PRESS

The many thousands cured at this Institution within the last eighteen years, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston witnessed by the reporters of the "Sun" and many other papers, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, besides his standing as a gentleman of character and responsibility, is a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted.

Skin Diseases Speedily Cured.

Persons writing should send that portion of the Advertisement which describes Symptoms; also, be particular to enclose a Postage Stamp to be used on the reply and direct in the following manner Dr. J. M. JOHNSTON, of the Baltimore Lock Hospital, Baltimore, Maryland. May 23, '66.—y

The Great Destroyer has come!

Appearance of the Asiatic Cholera in the United States!

THE ZINGARI BITTERS

The Only Sure Antidote for Disease!

As a Preventative it is Infallible! As a Cure it is Certain!

The appearance of the Asiatic Cholera in the United States has given rise to the just apprehensions of all classes. The National Congress has appointed a special committee to ascertain what measures are necessary to insure the proper quarantine at all the ports on the Atlantic coast while the authorities in the great commercial cities on the seaboard are actively engaged in enforcing such sanitary measures as will secure the cleanliness and promote the healthfulness of the communities in their charge. These proceedings are all laudable. Cleanliness and temperance are the first great essentials necessary to safely guard against attacks from the Cholera, but greater than all these efforts of Congress, more potent than the proceedings of municipal bodies, and infallible beyond all doubt is the Great Zingari Bitters,

as a sure preventative of Cholera. The discoverer of the component part of this Bitters, an eminent Egyptian physician, had much experience in Egypt, where the Cholera rages with tremendous virulence. He had long soon and felt the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of the disease and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family has been compelled to endure from this scourge. The result of his thoughts and labors at length presented themselves in the production of the wonderful

ZINGARI BITTERS.

It was not long before this Bitters was recognized and accepted in all parts along the Mediterranean coast, in the south of Europe, among the semi civilized tribes of Africa, and by the ablest practitioners of the old world, as the only sure and certain preventative or cure for the Cholera. The ZINGARI BITTERS acts on the organs of excretion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. It is composed entirely of roots and herbs, so nicely concocted that every organ is effected upon and put in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

For travelers who are subject to all the changes of climate and water the ZINGARI BITTERS is a companion that should never be left behind. It is for sale by all the druggists in the United States.

It is 22 miles from Alexandria, and the house is within three minutes walk of the Station. The location is one of the most healthful in Fairfax County, Virginia or indeed in the State.

The Dwelling House contains 8 Rooms, an ample Hall, good Pantries, and a large Cellar. There is also a Kitchen containing four Rooms, a Tenant House with four Rooms, two large Barns, a Stone Dairy House, 2 fine Springs of excellent Water, two Corn Cribs, capable of storing 250 barrels of Corn; a Tool House, Smoke House, Stables, Sheds, &c. This desirable and valuable property will be sold for $12,000, one-third in cash, and the balance in three annual installment, with interest.
