THANKSGIVING.

Thursday last, Thanksgiving Day, passed off quietly in this county as far as we have been able to learn. The day was observed by many by going to church, by some going gunning, by others indulging in various kinds of pleasures and by some who were compelled to work most of the day.

Surely every one must have had moments for serious thoughts during the day and must have realized their many blessings during the past year and have taken time to thank their God for them.

CHURCH NOTES

Mr. Davidson held special Thanksgiving services in Christ M. P. Church on Thanksgiving Day at 11 a. m. The two Methodist churches worshipped together, the choirs rendering some good music. Mrs. Miriam Sheppard Davidson rendered a sweet solo during the services. An experience meeting was also held, which added to the interest of the occasion.

Thanksgiving services were held in Emmanuel P. E. Church at 11 a. m. The offering of money, fruits and vegetables were sent to the Home for Friendless Children, which is supported by the Diocese of Easton.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Rock Hall, Md., Nov. 26, 1917

Editor Transcript, Chestertown, Md.

Dear Sir—No student of conditions, even the most optimistic, can see an early conclusion of the war. The sacrifices that we are all making now are as nothing compared with what we shall be called upon to make in a year's time. Retrenchment in every line that is not absolutely a war measure is the patriotic duty of every good American.

At one of our recent meetings a member said that "the three B's, (Bread, Beef and Brains) were the main essentials for the speedy conclusion of the war."

This was tersely put and was followed by a very strong address but, like many other catch phrases, left a very indefinite impression as to essential policies on the lay mind. All the brains in the world used in raising bread and beef would have no effect on present conditions without an equal amount of brains applied to the problem of moving the same bread and beef to the points of greatest utility.

It is unfortunately true that in many sections the acreage under cultivation will be considerably reduced in 1918.. This is almost a calamity but is unavoidable. There are, however, reasons for this condition that can be overcome.

Lack of labor is one feature and probably the one that calls for most attention and is hardest of solution, but the lack of transportation facilities is certainly a very close second, if not prior, in importance as a deterrent to full production.

There is absolutely no doubt that the good roads of the British Isles has been the most important factor in preventing local hardship and in allowing the full production and movement of all commodities.

It is hard to estimate what effect road conditions in Central Europe, such as this country suffers from would have had on the present situation, but it is safe to say that the excellent rural and main roads throughout France and Germany have been a very big factor in this struggle. In the same way the effect of poor roads is easily discernible in Eastern Europe.

Time is always a very important factor in the farmer's life, and in proportion as the scarcity of labor becomes more acute so does the necesity of saving the farmer's time become more important.

The conditions of the railroads, with their necessary temporary embargoes on different items, makes the quick movement to central shipping points of perishable and semi-perishable crops a matter of the greatest importance.

I apoligize for pointing out to you what is undoubtedly obvious and fully realized by you, but too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the fact that the poor condition of the rural roads, not only in Maryland but throughout the United States, is, under present conditions, a very grave menace to the whole of America as well as to our Allies.

A broad constructive policy with regard to good road construction is the patriotic duty of Maryland. Maryland lead in supplying volunteers to Uncle Sam's army and navy; she supplied willingly and eagerly her full quota to the draft; the Liberty Loan; the Red Cross; the Y. M. C. A., and now let her lead the way with a broad, wise, patriotic policy of good road construction. We don't want pleasure roads at this time. They are to be earned after the war by sacrifices during the war; but essential roads in farming sections. Roads to save time for a class of man who is doing his bit and to enable him to move the product of the soil, the porduct that he has literally raised by the sweat of his brow.

The Eastern Shore concedes precedent to none in true patriotism and Kent county concedes it to no part of the Eastern Shore. We as a whole are for the true Democracy and freedom of the world; and the Fifth District of Kent, with that one thought uppermost in our mind, cannot at the same time help a feeling of local pride in what we have done. Without in any case the help of outside spellbinders (a condition in which we are alone) we lead the county in the number of subscriptions and the amount subscribed to the Liberty Loan, in contributions and constructive work for the Red Cross, in work for the Y. M. C. A., and finally, in the percentage of tillable acreage prepared for cultivation of the 1918 crops.

We have done and are doing these things in the confident anticipation that the State of Maryland in particular, and the whole of the United States of America in general, are going to do their bit as well. We are prepared to raise the crops and need the facilities for moving same. Give us roads, particularly give us a road from the end of the present State road to the Rock Hall steamboat wharf and give it to us now. The time of party and inter-party strife and bickering is swamped in the one great issue.

We are all Americans first and politicians after. We are no longer pro-French or anti-British, organization or anti-organization, but all American and all for America. We are not fighting France's battles or England's battles, we are not fighting against Germany. We are Americans fighting for a principle, and it is what we do, not what we say, and the motive behind what we do, that counts at all times, and especially at times like these.

Let us keep Maryland in her proud place in the vanguard of all progress, and with due regard to the very essential policy of economy, let us be lavish in our war measure expenditures. Grow wheat, save bread, raise meat and conserve it and above all be so prepared that what we grow and raise is available for Uncle Sam when the need arises. Let us have it and be able to deliver the goods. Give us good roads.

Yours very truly,

D. RUSSELL DOWNEY.
