POETRY.

THE DEATH OF SUMMER.

By the length'ning twilight hours;
By the chill and fragrant showers;
By the flow'rets pale and faded;
By the leaves with russet shaded;
By the gray and clouded morn;
By the drooping ears of corn;
By the meadows overspread
With the spider's wavy thread;
By the soft and shadowy sky;
By the thousand tears that lie
Every weeping bough beneath—
Summer, we perceive thy death!

Summer, all thy charms are past;
Summer, thou are wasting fast;
Scarcely one of all thy roses
On thy faded brow reposes.
Thrush and nightingale have long
Ceased to woo thee with their song;
And, on every lonely height
Swallows gather for their flight;
While the wild wind's dreary tone,
Sweeping through the valleys lone,
Sadly sighs, with mournful breath,
Requiems for sweet Summer's death.

Wedding out West.

They have some affecting weddings out in that flat country, beyond the trees. Take Indian weddings for instance Or Duch. However, to facts:—In the semi-rural districts of Winona on the Minnessota side of the Mississippi river, lives, among several people, a jolly good fellow of a justice of the peace whose idea of matters is very much like the waters of a deep river. Once started it is hard to turn them On a fair day last week, after the 10 by 12 law dispensary had been swept, after chairs had been set in a row against the side of the office, and sundry whipped quids of tobacco and mutilated cigar stumps had been kicked under the stove, there was a wooden step on the stairs, and a vigorous rap at the door.

'Come in,' said the justice, as he settled in a legal look so befitting a man of law.

A handsome, black-eyed, Spanish looking woman entered. It was a clear case of a senorita of the New Mexican brand. She had on a short woolen dress—wooden-soled shoes—sported red checks, black hair, and eyes that snapped like the lock of a shot gun. In a Spanish accent, and in the worst possible English, she said:

'You make justicia aqui? You law man?'

'Yes, madam; be seated—'

'Want paper. Want paper to take man!'

Just then a stout French half-bred entered the room. He was unable to speak half a dozen words, and looked scared or bashful. The judge saw at once that there was some marriage to come off, and said to the woman, who stood with compressed lips watching the Justice and the door:—

'Want paper to take this man?'

'Yes; want paper. Me teach him. (Nice woman, thought the justice;)—He no good man, me no take him so quick as can.'

'All right, my covies; fix you in the jerk of a lamb's tail,' said the justice, as he turned to the man and said,—'You know this woman; can you take her?'

The man shook his head and muttered unintelligible words.

'Ah! I see. Can't talk English.—Well, never mind.'

He ran into the street, invited a few friends up stairs, and on returning with them, said to the woman:

You want to take this man for better or for worse?'

'Yes; me want to take him; me pay!'

'All right!'

Then turning to the man who stood trembling:

'You take this woman for better or for worse, and promise to keep her,' &c., &c.

'Umph!' and several nods of the head.

'Then in the name of the law, and by virtue of the authority in me vested, I pronounce you man and wife' And he stepped forward before the woman could say a word and kissed her lips.

'Slap' came her hand in his face and she clutched his hair. The new husband jumped in to take the woman away and to protect her, as the man supposed, when in self-preservation the justice gave him a rap on the nose. The woman pitched into the new husband, who in turn pitched into her and for about five minutes there was a splendid display of legs, garters, and things decidedly astonishing.

At last the parties were separated, when the man and woman took another turn at each other, the blood and hair flying in all directions. Down came the stove, over went the table, clatter went the chairs, and into the street like mad went the justice, with a black eye and the bosom of his shirt looking like a warranty deed covered with red seals.

A crowd rushed up stairs and found the man and woman lying on the floor, hugging each other like young bruins, their arms and legs mixed up worse than tomato-vines, the woman on top, pommelling her newly-made husband with a hearty will.

The newly-married couple were separated, when through the aid of two interpreters it was discovered that the night before the parties occupying adjoining shanties in the lower part of the town had got into a dispute about some stove-pipe, which was claimed by both, and from words they had come to blows. Each party had hastened to the justice's office in the morning for a warrant for the other, with the result as stated above.

The last news from there was that the parties had gone in search of another justice to unmarry them, while the genial cause of their terrible squabble was 'setting up the boys,' and bathing his bunged eye in camphor and whiskey.—For an actual fact, it is the richest within our knowledge.—Ex.

Remarkable Superstition.

The Monongahela Republican has the following: Not long ago the young and beautiful wife of one of our citizens was called to her final account, leaving her husband disconsolate, sad, bereft. She was buried in the adjacent cemetery, and the husband returned to his desolate home—but not to forget the loved one. She was present with him by day in spirit and in his dreams at night. One peculiarity of his dreams, and one that haunted him, being repeated night after night, was this, that the spirit of his wife came to his bedside and told him that the undertaker had not removed from her face the square piece of muslin or napkin which had been used to cover her face after death, but had screwed down her coffin lid with it upon her; that she could not breathe in her grave, but was unrest on account of the napkin. He tried to drive the dream away, but it bided with him by night and troubled him by day. He sought the consolation of religion; his pastor prayed with and assured him that it was wicked to indulge such morbid fancy.—It was the subject of his petition before the Throne of Grace, but still the spirit came and told anew the story of her suffocation. In despair he sought the undertaker, Mr Dickey, who told him that the napkin had not been removed, but urged him to forget the circumst as it could not be any possible an ance to inanimate clay. While the tlemen acknowledged this, he cou avoid the apparition, and the con stress upon his mind began to tell his health. At length he deter to have the body disinterred, and ed the undertaker, for the purpo Here he was met with the same and persuasion, and convinced more of his folly, the haunted ma turned to his home. That night, vivid than ever, more terribly rea before, she came to his bedside, an braided him for his want of affe and would not leave him until he promised to remove the cause of all suff-ring. The next night, w friend, he repaired to the sexton, was prevailed upon to accompany them, and there, by the light of the cold, round moon, the body was lifted from its narrow bed, the coffin lid unscrewed, and the napkin removed from the face of the corpse. That night she came to his bedside once more, but for the last time. Thanking him for his kindness, she pressed her cold lips to his cheek, and came again no more. Reader, this is a true story; can you explain the mysteries of dreams?

A Model Merchant.

A merchant of New York, during the late war, made a contract with a mechanic to supply him with a quantity of tin cans. Not long after this the price of tin rose so much that the contractor must lose money by completing the work at the price agreed upon. owever, he said nothing, but went on delivering the cans. When the first bill for pay of the cans was received, the employer called upon him and said:

'I understand you are losing money on this job.'

'Yes,' replied the contractor, 'but I can stand it; a contract is a contract, you know.'

'How much will you lose?' asked the gentleman

'Oh! no matter,' was the reply; 'I don't complain, and you ought not to.'

'I insist on knowing.'

'Well, since you desire it, I shall lose so much a hundred,' naming the amount.

'Well, sir,' said the noble hearted man, 'you must not loose this—it would not be right. I shall add the amount to your bill, and, as the price of material may still rise, I will advance you the money for the whole contract, which, no doubt, you can now use to advantage.'

The difference thus paid, to which the contractor had no claim, amounted to five hundred dollars. That was something more than business honesty; it was Christian principle carried out in business The world needs just such examples to convince it of the truth of religion.

Romance.

One of those incidents came to light at Milwaukee last week, which belong to the realms of fiction, but which now and then intrude upon the domains of fact.

Alice Lee was a ballet dancer. Her mother had been an actress, and had kept her as far as possible from the stage and its influences. But the mother became a victim to disease, her scant earnings were soon expended, and Alice, obliged to support herself and invalid mother, joined a travelling ballet troupe as a dancer. While performing in Chicago, a young 'Captain Tom,' a hero of the late war, a son of a well known clergyman and editor of Chicago, fell in love with the girl He was struck, we are told, with her modesty, simple manners, and the air of purity which surrounded her. Like a frank open hearted fellow as he was, he mentioned his love and his intentions to his parents. They, of course, were shocked—it was useless to plead with them—they threatened to disown him, and appealed to his family pride.

Captain Tom left his parents angrily, went directly to the ballet girl, and offered to make her his wife. To his astonishment the strong-minded ballet girl, who fully reciprocated his affection, said—'no' very emphatically. She declined to wed him against his parents consent, and under circumstances which would bring him and his family into disgrace. He pleaded hard, but she refused firmly and granted no appeal.—The mother of the young man called soon after, and was informed by Alice of her decision. She was pleased and offered her presents, which she proudly refused

After the troupe left Chicago Captain Tom became gloomy, melancholy, and careless in business. They forced him into society, but found it all useless.—They were sensible parents, and accordingly came to sensible conclusion.

The people of Milwaukee in the meantime noticed a young girl among the dancers at Music Hall, who modestly retired from view whenever her duties would permit her. She would edge behind her companions, and retire from sight as often as possible. Last Friday night, at the end of the third act, the manager informed her that, as she was not very well, she might go back to the hotel, and he would see that her place was supplied. He led her to a carriage, and when she arrived at her hotel, she hurried to her room and lay down to rest. She was in low spirits, and was having a good cry, when she was called to the parlor to meet a gentleman.—She declined at first; but was informed of the urgency of the case, dried her eyes and went down. Of course she met Captain Tom. He clasped her in few who can receive the honors of a college, but all are graduates of the hearth. The learning of the university may fade from the recollection, its classic lore may moulder in the halls of memory, but the simple lessons of home, enameled upon the heart of childhood, defy the rust of years and outlive the more mature, but less vivid picture of after years. So deep, so lasting, indeed, are the impressions of early life, that you often see a man in the imbecility of age, holding fresh in his recollection the events of childhood, while all the wide space between that and the present hour is a blasted and forgotten waste. You have, perchance, seen an old iterated portrait, and in the attempt to have it cleaned and restored, you may have seen it fade away, while a brighter and more perfect picture, painted beneath, is revealed to view. This portrait, first, drawn upon canvass, is no faint illustration of youth; and though it may be concealed by some after design, still the original traits will shine through the outward picture, giving it tone while fresh and surviving it in decay. Such is the fireside—the great institution for the education of man.

Gallantry of President Jackson.

During a visit of the hero of New Orleans to Philadelphia, while he was President, a hale, buxom young widow greeted him with a shake of both hands, at the same instant exclaiming:

'My dear General, I am delighted to see you; I have walked six miles this morning to enjoy this rare felicity.'

To this the President replied, with an air of dignified gallantry—

'Madam, I regret that I had not known your wishes earlier; I certainly would have walked half way to meet you'

☞ A schoolmistress, while taking down the names and ages of her pupils, and of their parents, at the beginning of the term, asked one little fellow:—'What's your father's name?' 'O, you needn't take down his name; he's too old to go to school to a woman,' was the innocent reply.

YOUNG MEN

Especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call upon me with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of Physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., speedily cured

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

Immediately Cured and Full Vigor Restored.

This Dreadful Disease—which renders Life miserable and Marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise.—The system becomes Deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, a Wasting of the Frame, Coughs, Consumption, &c.

The Doctor's DIPLOMA hangs in his office

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with a derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgences and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded—Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

THOUSANDS of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated; having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption.

A DISEASE OF THE SKIN.

DR JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

By this great and important remedy, Weakness of the Organs is speedily cured, and full vigor restored.

Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Trembling, Weakness or Exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Dr Johnston.

YOUNG MEN

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately

What a pity that a young man the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons MUST, before contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisition to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect keenly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE!

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability can alone befriend him. He falls into the hands of ignorant and designing pretenders, who, incapable of curing, fleich his pecuniary substance, keep him trifling month after month, or as long as the smallest fee can be obtained, and in despair leave him with ruined health to sigh over his galling disappointment; or, by the use of that deadly poison Mercury, hasten the constitutional symptoms of this terrible disease, such as affection of the Head, Throat, Nose, Skin, etc., progressing with frightful rapidity till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings by sending him to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveller returns.

ENDORSEMENT OF THE PRESS

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last eighteen years, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston, witnessed by the reporters of the "Sun" and many other papers, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, besides his standing as a gentleman of character and responsibility, is a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted.

Skin Diseases Speedily Cured.

Persons writing should send that portion of the Advertisement which describes Symptoms; also, be particular to enclose a Postage Stamp to be used on the reply and direct in the following manner Dr. J. M. JOHNSTON, of the Baltimore Lock Hospital Baltimore, Maryland May 23, '68,—y

Shriver's Bitter Wine of Iron.

AN exquisite combination of Calisay Bark, Citrate of Iron and Dry Spanish Wine. It has a Vinous flavor very grateful to the palate, with very little chalybeate taste, and will not discolor the teeth; it excites feeble appetite, improves digestion, increases the strength, removes the pallor of debility, gives firmness to the action of the nervous system with power to endure fatigue and resist disease.

Calisay's Bark has no equal as a strengthener or restorative, nor rival as an antiperiodic—and in this preparation all the virtues of the Bark are preserved in an eminent degree. Sold at SHRIVER'S West End Drug Store, Westminster, Md. June 27

SOMETHING NEW TO SMOKERS!

ADVANTAGES OF THE

PATENT GRANULATED

SMOKING TOBACCO.

IT has the flavor of the best Havana Cigar. It has the flavor because it is manufactured from the finest part of the leaf, and of the choicest Tobacco, previously reduced to a condominuted state.

Owing to its "Granulated" state, the ashes of this tobacco never rises up in the pipe; while the ashes of all other smoking tobacco does, often falling on, burning, or soiling the clothes.

A pipe full of the "Granulated" will last longer in smoking than any other form of tobacco.

The flavor of the last inhalation is as pure as the first; its "Granulated" condition prevents the tobacco in the bowl and the pipe from becoming impregnated by the smoke, as it is drawn through it.

The "Granulated" does not foul the pipe or stem nearly so much as any other tobacco; nor does it leave any unpleasant taste or foulness in the mouth, so usual and strongly marked, after smoking other forms of tobacco.

The above advantages of the "Granulated" (are not vague and theoretical, but) are simple and practical points which may be tested and proved by actual trial. Let each one verify for himself the important advantages claimed.

Intending to make a speciality of the Segar and Tobacco trade in connexion with the Watch, Clock and Jewelry business.—We invite those fond of a Good Segar to give us a call, promising them something nice in that line. Also, the Patent Granulated Smoking Tobacco, warranted to be superior to any Tobacco in market, always on hand. WM. MOORE.

The Great Destroyer has come!

Appearance of the Asiatic Cholera in the United States!

THE ZINGARI BITTERS

The Only Sure Antidote for Disease!

As a Preventative it is Infallible!

As a Cure it is Certain!

The appearance of the Asiatic Cholera in the United States has given rise to the just apprehensions of all classes. The National Congress has appointed a special committee to ascertain what means are necessary to insure the proper quarantine at all the ports on the Atlantic coast, while the authorities in the great commercial cities on the sea-board are actively engaged in enforcing such sanitary measures as will secure the cleanliness and promote the healthfulness of the communities in their charge. These proceedings are all laudable. Cleanliness and temperance are the first great essentials necessary to safely guard against attacks from the Cholera, but greater than all these efforts of Congress, more potent than the proceedings of municipal bodies, and infallible beyond all doubt is the Great Zingari Bitters,

as a sure preventative of Cholera. The discoverer of the component part of this Bitters, an eminent Egyptian physician, had much experience in Egypt, where the Cholera rages with tremendous virulence. He had long seen and felt the want of some remedy which would strike at the root of the disease, and so prevent much of the suffering which the human family has been compelled to endure from this scourge. The result of his thoughts and labors at length presented themselves in the production of the wonderful

ZINGARI BITTERS.

It was not long before this Bitters was recognized and accepted in all parts along the Mediterranean coast, in the south of Europe, among the semi-civilized tribes of Africa, and by the ablest practitioners of the old world, as the only sure and certain preventatives or cure for the Cholera. The ZINGARI BITTERS acts on the organs of excretion and secretion, keeping up a perfect balance between them. It is composed entirely of roots and herbs, so nicely concocted that every organ is acted upon and put in tone. Its taste is pleasant and its effects prompt and lasting.

For travelers who are subject to all the changes of climate and water, the ZINGARI BITTERS is a companion that should never be left behind. It is for sale by all the druggists in the United States.
