MODEL "4" EXCEEDS 100 MILES A GALLON

Willys-Overland Pacific Co. Stages Stock Fuel Economy Run on State Road Secures 106.4 Miles to Gallon of Standard Fuel.

Model "4," the new light Willys-Overland car, now presents itself as the holder of an impressive ecenomy record. One of this line, a stock model according to affidavits, early this month completed the distance from Selma, Cal., to a point beyond and then back to Bakersfield, exactly 106.4 miles on 1 measured gallon of gasoline. The total time required was 7 hours, 21 minutes.

Thereby the little car not only established a new name for itself, but, more particularly, lived up to the enthusiastic opinion of it which is held by E. B. Wilson, manager at Los Angeles for the Willys-Overland Pacific Co., an opinion which Wilson frequently devises unusual stunts for the car to prove. But, as it was pointed out in local circles, where gasoline has been none too plentiful for the past few weeks, the performance also brought out a few hints to the driver who would make his car go farther on its fuel, since much credit for the performance is given to C. H. Amon, service manager for the branch, for the careful way in which he nursed the miles.

Though it is freely admitted by the company that ordinary drivers may not expect to equal this record in their casual use of the car, every evidence is offered that there was no aid to the performance which is not available without extra expense to the owner of any other stock model "4". The Los Angeles representative of the Standard Oil Co. signed an affidavit to the effect that the gasoline furnished was the regular quality that is furnished at any of the company's filling stations in the state.

H. S. Mason, who is both the vice-president of the California Automobile Trades Assn., and representative of the Electric Equipment Co., affirms that the Tillotson carbureter and the Electric Auto-Lite equipment were regular stock models, with only the adjustments which any owner could make on his own equipment and with no mechanical changes. Harry A. Malloy, Los Angeles representative for the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corp., likewise affirms that the speedometer which was on the car, and which measured the distance, was tested out by him and found to be correct. Wherefore, the Los Angeles Overland branch makes the sweeping promise that "you can better your own record. Come in and let us show you how."

While coasting entered into the performance, it was coasting of a carefully calculated nature, and not due to a down-hill course being selected for the test. In fact, although various authorities, measuring from different points within the cities, disagree as to the exact altitude of the respective starting points, it is generally acknowledged that Fresno, near which the start was made, is a little more than 300 feet up from sea level, while Bakersfield is more than 400 feet high. Thus the grade, while on a practically level state road, was in fact slightly mounting in the rough proportion of a foot to a mile.

Driver Amon attributes his feat, which he expects to be able to better under an officially sanctioned A. A. A. test, to his moderation in the use of his speeds. As soon as the car was rolling at 25 miles per hour, Amon threw out his clutch and shut off his engine, coasting over the practically level road until the car had slowed down to the minimum speed at which the clutch could be thrown in again and the engine started in high gear. This speed was from four to eight miles per hour, depending on the time of the day, and consequently on the temperature. Though the roads were reasonably free from traffic, for the most part, in passing through Bakersfield certain allowances for traffic had to be made, and after getting beyond that city, there was a distinct upgrade along which the course led for a few miles before the turn back to the city was made. The car was stopped on its own brakes with its engine still running.

BUSINESS CHANGES

Mr. C. C. Jones Purchases Mr. Davis' Interest In Firm of Davis & Satterfield—Will Sell Shoe Business

Mr. C. C. Jones on Tuesday purchased the interest of Mr. John C. Davis in the large farm implement and black smithing business of Davis & Satterfield. Possession will be given Mr. Jones January 1. Mr. Jones is a hustler and will, without a doubt, make a big success in his new work.

The retirement of Mr. Davis from the firm almost marks an epoch in the business life of the community. For a number of years he has been associated in this business with Mr. Chas. N. Satterfield and is well and also favorably known to every farmer and almost every person in the county. Always fair and patient in his dealings with customers, ever willing and glad to show all his wares, careful to the most minute detail—to deal with Mr. Davis has always been a decided pleasure to the many patrons of the firm. Mr. Davis will devote his time to his other interests.

His successor, Mr. C. C. Jones, is also well and favorably known. He succeeded Mr. Thomas G. Wroth in the shoe business in the postoffice building about fifteen years ago and made a decided success of the same. He is a courteous and successful young business man and possesses many of the characteristics of Mr. Davis which made dealing with him so satisfactory. In Mr. Jones, Mr. Satterfield has a partner who will make a worthy successor of Mr. Davis.

In this issue, Mr. C. C. Jones, one of the leading shoe firms of the county for many years, is advertising his closing out sale, he having purchased Mr. Davis' interest in the firm of Davis & Satterfield, as noted above. Mr. Jones is offering some unusual bargains in footwear. He also gives notice that he will sell the business as a whole.

His remains were brought to Worton Wednesday morning and interment made in Union cemetery. Undertaker C. L. Dodd. The deceased leaves a widow, a sister, Mrs. Eben Carsner, of Trenton, N. J., also a brother, Mr. James LeCates, of Chestertown; also two step children, Charles A. and Frank Smith. The pall bearers were: Charles and Clarence LeCates, Frank Smith, Allen Joiner, Harrison Cornelius, Wm. E. Wood.

Mr. William P. Gould, father of Dr. Clarence P. Gould, president of Washington College, and Rev. Dunbar Gould, of Cambridge, died at the residence of his son, Rev. Dunbar Gould, in Cambridge, on Tuesday, July 20, after a short illness of acute indigestion. Mr. Gould lived for many years in Church Hill, where he was engaged in business. For the past number of years he has resided in Baltimore, where he conducted a large real estate business.

After a sickness of about a year, Rose L. Duyer, widow of the late John Duyer, formerly of Chestertown, but who for several years past has been residing with her daughters and her grandson in Baltimore, died on Wednesday, aged 85 years. She leaves three sons, Messrs. Frank T., William T. and Laurence M. Duyer, of Chestertown, Maryland, and two daughters, Misses Belle and Elizabeth Duyer, of Baltimore. Mrs. Duyer was born in England and came to this country when a girl. She was a lady of particular charm. She was of a friendly and pleasant disposition and was in a good humor at all times and always had a kind and friendly word for all. It was always a pleasure to be in her company. The body was brought to Chestertown on the Ford on Thursday and rested at the home of her son, Mr. Frank E. Duyer.

The funeral was held on Friday at 8.30 a. m., conducted by Father Urner, interment in Chester cemetery. Undertaker C. L. Dodd. The pall bearers were her three sons and Messrs. J. T. Dixon, H. L. Dodd and Joseph Woodall.

BASE BALL NEWS

(Other Baseball News on page 7)

Centreville Wins An Exciting Contest.—The most exciting contest of the season went to Centreville on Wednesday afternoon on Washington Field before about five hundred fans, the score being 5 to 3. Centreville, with the record of games standing 3 to 1 against them, "imported" a battery, which worked good, and which was backed up by a strong defense on their part. They were here determined to win the game at all odds and they put up an unusual game, both at bat and in the field. Centreville tallied in the third inning and Chestertown did the same, but Centreville took the lead by one point again in the fourth inning and increased it to three runs in the sixth. Chestertown threatened to tie the score in the sixth, when they pushed two runs across the plate and cut down Centreville's lead to one run. In the eighth inning Centreville increased their lead to two runs, which Chestertown was unable to overcome. Wright was on the mound for Chestertown and was supported in a style far below the usual standard of the team, while the Centreville twirler was given good support, Wallace and Horsey making plays at opportune times that helped to keep the home team from scoring. The work of Usilton, for Chestertown, and Wallace, Brown and Horsey, for Centreville, were the features of the game. The score by innings:

Centreville	0	0	1	1	0	2	0	1	0	—5
Chestertown	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	0	0	—3

Hits, off Reynolds 7, off Wright 9; two base hits, Centreville 4, Chestertown 2; struck out, by Wright 5; by Reynolds 1; base on balls, off Wright 1. Umpire Cloak.

Schedule For Next Week—The baseball schedule for next week is as follows: Tuesday, Chestertown at Centreville; Wednesday, Chestertown at Hurlock; Saturday, Centreville at Chestertown.

THE JOHN McCAULEY WILL CASE

Much interest has been manifested not only in Chestertown but throughout Kent County, concerning the large and valuable real and personal estate of John McCauley, who died Tuesday, June 22, 1920. Mr. McCauley was a well-known citizen of Kennedyville, tall, with dark hair and eyes, a well-informed man, who kept abreast of the times. He started in business in a small way in Kennedyville over a half century ago. He never married and lived a retired life, saving and thrifty, and accumulated by his frugal habits a fortune approaching $100,000, consisting principally of cash in bank and one of the finest farms, lying on the public road from Kennedyville to Turner's Creek, which was owned by the late John D. Welch at the time of his death about 1877. It has for many years been tenanted by Mr. William M. Hurlock.

On his death diligent search was made for a will, many claiming he had said he had drawn a will. All efforts were unavailing. On Friday morning, July 16, in the 7 o'clock mail, a large envelope was found addressed to the "Judges of the Orphans Court." In it was a single sheet of large paper, purporting to be Mr. McCauley's last will and testament. No note accompanied it and no one knows who mailed it. The front page contained the will and the back page simply had the words "Will of John McCauley, Witnessed by us June 7th, 1912, Tilghman Shafer, John R. Bennett." A great many people have examined the paper, many claiming it is a forgery, and those who were well acquainted with the hand writing of Tilghman Shafer in his life time say that his signature is not genuine. Mr. John N. Bennett, son of John R. Bennett, whose name was on the back of the will, states that the signature is not the hand writing of his father, who recently died. Those who know the signature of Mr. Shafer and Mr. Bennett as well as John McCauley, state they are not genuine.

On the other hand, a number of people claim that all three of the signatures are genuine; that the body of the will is in the proper hand writing of John McCauley; that they know the signatures and know they are genuine.

The will leaves this valuable estate: the farm to Madam Hessner, the widow of the late Charles Hessner, and the personal estate to Madam Hessner's children and to the brother of John McCauley, who lived in Philadelphia, and who died about four years ago. Messrs. William McCauley and Daniel McCauley at once filed notices of a caveat in the Orphans Court on Tuesday last. This will require the decision of a jury in the Circuit Court before the will can be probated. The mystery surrounding the appearance of the will and the failure of the person who had it in possession to take it to the Orphans Court and personally deposit it, as is always customary, and the enclosure of same in an envelope, after the declaration by everyone interested denying that he had ever seen the will or paper or knew anything about its mailing, have created genuine interest and the case will be watched with much interest by the public. On Tuesday last a third nephew of Mr. John McCauley appeared, William McCauley, son of his brother Bernard, which brother died some 47 years ago. This at once complicated the situation and added threads to a story which it will take a Conan Doyle to unravel.

Hope H. Barroll, Esq., represents the McCauley heirs and R. Groome Parks, Esq., the Hessner heirs.

WHEAT YIELDS

Kent Farmers Are Now Threshing Out The Golden Grain

Kent farmers this week began to thresh out the wheat crop in earnest. The average yield of the county will not be quite as high as predicted earlier in the season, but will be a good one. A number of the wheat yields follow.

Mr. Bonn Towner, of Morgnec, got about 18 bushels to the acre from 45 acres.

Mr. Joseph C. Quinn got 1325 bushels.

Mr. William Maslin, of Quaker Neck, averaged about 16 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Robert Moffett averaged about 20 bushels to the acre from his small farm in Queen Annes, tenanted by Mr. Romie Younger.

Mr. Emory Bonwill, of near Still Pond, got 1145 bushels of fine wheat from his 40-acre of fallow ground.

Mr. Isaac Gibbs, of near Massey, got an average of 20 bushels per acre from his farm, getting a total of 2500 bushels.

Mr. James Allen averaged about 20 bushels from Mr. Walter T. Bramble's farm, near Chestertown.

Mr. James P. Newnam, Jr., of Quaker Neck, got 22 bushels per acre from his corn ground.

The first wheat to go down the Chester this year was carried to Baltimore by Messrs. C. W. Kibler & Sons' boat, the Cambridge, on Thursday.

Mr. Claude F. Parks got 1370 bushels of wheat from about 100 acres off

Mr. W. T. H. Whiteley got 1500 bushels of wheat from 75 acres on the Stewart farm near Chestertown.
