SOMETIMES in the history of the Nation the people rise above party ties and prejudices and with one accord put into office the man of their choice in spite of the action of wire workers and politicians. The Campaign of 1840 was a notable instance of this kind when with the Log Cabin, Hard Cider and Tippecanoe songs, the people arose regardless of party and fairly sung Harrison into the Presidential chair, he having received nearly four-fifths of the Electoral Vote.

Another instance was in 1864 when Lincoln ran for the second time, the people again rose up regardless of party, Whigs, Democrats, Republicans, Americans, Abolitionists, Union men of every sort joined hands for the nominee of the people and swelled his grand majority to a vote of more than nine-tenths of the Electors.

Grant has been nominated in the same way that the others of which we have spoken were nominated. The same unanimity of action has been manifested and the same satisfaction has been shown by the people. While the Democracy are quibling and quarrelling over a candidate, some vowing that they won't vote for a "traitor" like Pendleton, while others are equally positive in their opposition to a "galvanized Democrat" like Hancock or Chase; the words of cheer for Grant begin to sound on all sides.

Every few days we hear of accessions to our ranks. Democratic Committee men deserting their standard and numbers of the rank and file coming over to Grant seems to be the order of the day. The ball is rolling onward, the battle for Liberty, Justice and Right is drawing near; we see the dawn of another day glimmering through the mists of Ignorance and Oppression. Freemen are rallying to the fight; true men are everywhere preparing to join in the onward march to victory, and when the bright November sun shall rise, it will dawn upon one of the greatest struggles the world has ever seen but when it shall set, its expiring beams will shed a halo around one of the grandest victories for Truth and Right that history has ever shown; and the blood-red flag of Treason and Injustice will lie prone in the dust before the pure white flag of Peace of our noble standard bearer. The fiat of the people has gone forth, their determination is fixed, their will is set. Whosoever shall oppose that will shall be broken, whosoever shall strive against it shall be crushed.

ALREADY the Democracy are preparing for emergencies, and passing resolutions looking to a fight in the event of the success of Grant and Colfax. This war party in time of peace, and peace party in time of war, have through their leading journals and in many of their public meetings declared that that they "will never consent to the inauguration of any candidate whose election shall be accomplished by the votes of the Southern States." This is exactly the way they talked before the election of Lincoln the first time, and the way they will continue to talk so long as there are men whom they can brow-beat and frighten into voting with them. Let the true men of the country take warning, and with overwhelming majorities crush these snarling curs who would, for party success, plunge the country again into civil war. We have had enough of war in all conscience, enough of bloodshed, enough of sorrow for the last ones. In the language of the greatest Captain of the age "Let us have Peace."

ANOTHER murder by the Ku Kluk has taken place in South Carolina. This time one white Union man and two negroes have been killed and a white woman and one negro wounded. The Rebel papers talk about it as if it was a big joke. Such is the result of Democratic reconstruction.

E. A. Rollins, Commissioner of Internal Revenue has resigned, assigning as a reason that so many good officers have been removed and so many incompetent and dishonest ones have been appointed without his consent and approval that he finds it impossible to execute the laws properly.

CHIEF Justice Chase is out in a letter in which he says that he does not expect or desire to be a candidate for office again.

A DIFFERENCE of opinion seems to exist among the Democratic leaders, an honest difference of course because everything they do is honest (?) about their candidates for the Presidency. While the West and a great portion of the Southern press are proclaiming for Pendleton and denouncing "political nondescripts," like Hancock, the latter's friends are equally determined on their side. The New York Citizen, the mouth-piece of the Conservatives speaks thus:

We say distinctly, positively, and unchangeably as the law of the Medes and Persians, that never will those, for whom we speak, help, directly or indirectly, by assertion or silence, by action or idleness, the election of the utter Copperhead and false hearted Northerner, G. H. Pendleton. Until water runs up hill, until trees grow with leaves under ground and roots above, until the moon gives heat and the sun loose its fire; until beasts become men and angels turn to devils; until ice shall burn and fire shall freeze; until everything that is impossible becomes possible, and not then, will War Democrats vote for the man, who was false not only to his country but who was conspicuous as a degrading example of possible Northern meanness, and who, by his indirect support to their foes, slew our sons and brothers. Rather, a thousand times, would they see the loyal soldier and moderate Republican, General Grant, in the Presidential chair, a person who, if not agreeing with them in all their views, is much more nearly their representative than a Copperhead whose prudence kept him from being a traitor.

But on the other side the Chicago Times, the leading organ of the Democracy of the North-west says that Gen. Hancock will not answer for Presidential candidate. Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, it maintains, are to decide the battle, and "let not the South nor any part of it step in and undertake to say that somebody—that some political nondescript—would be stronger in these States than George H. Pendleton."

All this looks to us very much like a back down or a split somewhere. The Richmond Dispatch says that the Pendleton men would rather vote for Grant than Hancock. It seems to be a sort of "dog eat dog" arrangement, while we look on with feelings very much akin to those of the old woman whose husband was fighting with the bear, "we don't care which whips."

A CANDID OPPONENT.

In these days of wilful misrepresentation and gross abuse of political opponents it is refreshing to find even one man who will speak fairly of one whose claims he opposes. Of our ticket the Annapolis' Republican, of Saturday week, one of the strongest and best democratic papers in the State, says:

The gentlemen selected are, perhaps, the best and strongest that could have been chosen as standard-bearers of the party. * * * * * * * * * * Grant has been educated a soldier and much of his life devoted to that profession. Not exactly inclining towards military life as entirely tasteful, we find him resigning it to embark in other enterprises. When the war broke out, however, like thousands of others, animated, we doubt not, by patriotic motives, he again entered the service. Fortune was upon his side and favored by its inexplicable turns, or those unforseen chances which bring renown, he rose to honor and distinction. It would be futile and adverse to absolute fact; indicative, too, of weakness in judgment, were we to argue against the popular sentiment which has settled in favor of General Grant's military prowess.—Those who fought with him and supported the cause he espoused will honor his name and deeds despite all opposition. Expecting them to do otherwise would be simply ridiculous. When men's affections and admiration become interwoven with the name and character of a military hero, whom they believe was instrumental in achieving victory to their cause it requires no ordinary circumstance to alienate those feelings. They are naturally inclined to embrace the first favorable opportunity of manifesting that peculiarity of human nature, to add fresh laurels to those already won. This they esteem a debt of gratitude. General Grant has the credit how much may be due to accident or merit we will not pretend to say—of successfully leading the Federal armies to victory and of subduing the late rebellion. For this alone, all those who believed the cause in which he was engaged a righteous one, will continue to do him honor, revere his name and aid in securing his election to the Presidency. Though without absolute fitness for so exalted a civic position, compared with others, yet this will be lost sight of in the overshadowing halo that clusters around and illumines the pathway of so noted a warrior It is useless to gainsay this fact, and, therefore in the coming contest, better acknowledge whatever of merit may be due the Republican Candidate, without attempting to detract therefrom by misrepresentation, or villification, which will not be believed, and meet the great issue upon other grounds. There is an old but truthful adage which teaches, "it is folly to gnaw at a file." Personalities and misrepresentations—or even truths—instituted merely for the purpose of detracting from General Grant's character and wide spread reputation, will be more likely to harm those who attempt it than him. We hope, therefore to see him fairly and magnanimously dealt with, given credit where credit is due.

Hon. Mr. Colfax, nominated for the Vice Presidency, has the reputation of being a high toned gentleman and an able statesman

WE have received from the American Publishing Company a fac-similie of Gen. Grant's business card, printed in 1859. It reads as follows:

H. Boggs. U. S. Grant.
Boggs & Grant
General Agents,
Collect Rents, Negotiate Loans Buy and Sell Real Estate, Etc., Etc.
No. 35 Pine street,
Between Second and Third,
Saint Louis, Mo.

THEIR AGES.—Grant and Colfax will come into political power in the zenith of their lives, the former at forty-seven years of age, and the latter at forty-six. Grant was born on the 27th of April, 1822, and Colfax on the 23rd of March, 1823.—Thus the strength and prime of their manhood will be given to the country in their four years of service in the highest offices in the gift of the people.

REPORTS from Kentucky say that the tide is drifting in Grant's favor very strongly.

WE acknowledge our indebtedness to Hon. Francis Thomas for Report of the Department of Agriculture.

WE have noticed in the proceedings of the Democratic-Rebel State Convention which met in Baltimore on the 3rd inst., that John Smith of Carroll county, (known as Wakefield John) made a great noise and confusion in that body, and among others, said hard things of the Union men. Mr. Wakefield John is very irresponsible politically. During the war he was loud and fierce is his denunciations of the Rebels and those cowards who contributed nothing to the "lost cause" but sympathy. This lion of the Rebel Democracy said, on a public occasion at a church, before or about the close of the Rebellion, which he is now striving to "glorify," that the hemp to make ropes to hang the rebels and rebel sympathizers had already been grown. Now, he says, he is prepared to join with any man to put down the very men with whom he acted, and the very doctrines which he advocated during the war.

The Baron of Wakefield is an uncle of Judge John E. Smith, whose name adorns our Electoral Ticket for the state at large, but we are proud to say that, the Judge is made over a different last, and of mettle of a different ring. When the storm of revolution threatened the very existence of the nation, the Judge took his position at the outpost, and although the traitors Swann and Johnson deserted their Country's cause for a mess of Captain Ritchie's pottage, Judge Smith stood by the flag of his country and the cause of righteousness and humanity, never yielding, never wavering; and this fall the rich eloquence of his silvery voice will be heard in the portrayal of the wrongs done to the country by the leaders of the rebellion and their servile followers and grow richer in the advocacy of the claims of the country's immortal hero to the confidence and support of the American people.—Frederick Republican.

THE Democratic Conservative National Convention which meets in New York city on the 4th of July next, will have a delicate and responsible duty to perform. The following combination of candidates have been proposed in various sections of the Union:

Fillmore and Pierce.
Pendleton and Thomas H. Seymour.
Hancock and Adams.
Johnson and Evarts.
Chase and Dix.
Doolittle and Dixon.
McClellan and Pendleton.
Horatio Seymour and Judge Sharkey.
Hendricks and Hoffman.
Thomas Ewing and Governor English
Robt. C. Winthrop and Aug. C. Dodge.
James R. Stanberry and Gov. Odin Bowie.
Gen. Frank Blair and Wm. B. Reed.
Gov. Haight and Hon. Wm. Allen.

Besides the above, the names of ex-Gov. Wm. Bigler, of Penna., Jeremiah S. Black, Daniel W. Voorhees, ex-Gov. Joel Parker, of New Jersey, Governor Swann, and numerous others, have been mentioned in connection with the first or second office in the gift of the American people. With the above array of talent and capacity, the Convention will be at no loss to make a "judicious" and "available" selection of standard-bearers.—Frederick Union.

They certainly should be able to make a "judicious" selection out of such an array. If they do not it will not be because they have not enough to choose from.—But our brother has forgotten Jeff Davis and Old Nick, in his list. It is hard to tell which, of all this crowd, we wouldn't want most.

WE clip the following from a correspondence from Hanover to the Baltimore American:

The people of this region are earnestly agitating at this time the construction of a railroad which will give them direct connection with Frederick City and Northwestern Maryland. The road will be an extension of the Hanover Branch and the Littlestown Railroads, which now connect with the Northern Central Railroad.—Both of the corporations owning these railroads have taken an active interest in the enterprise. They have undertaken to build the road to the Pennsylvania State line, and the Hanover Railroad Company has agreed to subscribe twenty thousand dollars to the stock of the Frederick City and Maryland Line Railroad, chartered by the Maryland Legislature in 1866, which is to build the line to Frederick.—The route proposed for the road will strike the Maryland State line beyond Littlestown, pass through Taneytown Woodsborough, and follow the Monocacy Valley down to Frederick. The country thus penetrated is a good agricultural region, with fine and fertile soil, but owing to its absolute privation of railroad facilities and bad roads, it is fifty years behind the neighboring counties of Adams and York, in Pennsylvania. Land of the same natural fertility, which in these latter counties will sell at from one to two hundred dollars per acre, will not bring in the adjoining counties of Maryland more than one-third or one-half that price.

This road would be about thirty miles long and running through a country presenting but slight enginering difficulties. It would cross the line of the Western Md. Railroad, thus putting us in connection with Frederick on the South and Hanover on the North.

EMMITTSBURG RAILROAD.—It is officially announced that books will be opened on the 19th and 20th instant, in Emmittsburg, for subscriptions to the stock of this road. The charter authorizes the building of a railroad from Emmittsburg to the Western Maryland Railroad, immediately west of Monocacy river. The length of this road will be about seven miles, passing through a fine section of country, and bringing those ancient and celebrated institutions of learning, Mount St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, located at Emmittsburg, in close proximity to Baltimore.

THE U. S. Senate has passed the bill for the admission of North Carolina and the other reconstructed States which have adopted their Constitutions.

As a matter of interest to base-ballists we note the victories of the Athletics of Philadelphia over the Louisville Club and the Actives of Indianapolis.

HON. Wm. M. Converse of Connecticut, a member of the Democratic National Committee, has announced his purpose to vote for General Grant for President.

HON. Reverdy Johnson has been appointed by the President and unanimously confirmed by the Senate as Minister to England.

A CONVENTION of Editors of the State of Maryland is called to meet in Baltimore, on Thursday, June 25th, to consider "matters of importance to the interest of newspaper publishers."

THE First Anniversary of the Western Maryland College takes place this evening.

A COMMITTEE of City Council made a tour of inspection around town last week and we understand that they intend having the pavements and crossings fixed up speedily.

LUTHER Welsh, Esq., has been appointed Commissioner of Slave Statistics for this County in place of Jno. W. Harden, who failed to qualify. This is the third appointment to this office since the passage of the Law, but it does not appear popular for the appointees won't stick.

MOST every one who has ever visited our County Alms House will be sorry to hear of the death of old "Aunt Dinah." This antiquated fixture of this establishment was quite a singular character, and afforded a great deal of amusement by her conversation. She was believed to be upwards of a hundred years of age.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION AND ENTERTAINMENT.—The Examination of the Pupils of Miss Maggie I. Martin's school at Harmony Hall, Reisterstown, will take place on Tuesday, the 30th of June. The exercises will be followed in the evening, with tableaux, dialogues, music, &c.

The public are respectfully invited to attend.

WE attended the entertainment given on Monday night by the Irving Literary Society of the Western Md. College. The exercises were very interesting and reflected great credit on those engaged in them. The Amphions furnished music for the occasion. After the Literary exercises were over we were invited to partake of refreshments which had been prepared.

THE City Council have given in to the pressure brought to bear on them, and have repealed the ordinance prohibiting cows from running at large. This is one step backward for the new Board. We are willing to let them run however, and see how our citizens like it. If they don't get tired of it before Harvest we will acknowledgee ourself a false prophet.

THE 4th of July, the 92d anniversary of our National Independence and the 5th of the victories of Gettysburg and Vicksburg, is fast approaching but we have as yet heard no whisper of any public recognition of the day among our citizens. We hope they will not let this anniversary pass, as has so often been the case, without some demonstration on the part of our people to show that the fires of Liberty still burn within their breasts. Who will take the lead in this matter?

THE reports received by us of the prospect of good crops this harvest are encouraging. The Corn and Oats look well and although somewhat backward give promise of a fair yield of grain. Wheat and Rye are progressing favorably. The Grass and Clover were beaten down to a certain extent by the late rain but the chances are that there will not be much loss of the abundant crop in the Harvest which has commenced.

We learn also that the Peach crop is likely to turn out well, but that we have not so good a prospect for Apples.

THE ELLINGER & FOOTE TROUPE.—We notice that this troupe, which some months ago exhibited in Odd Fellows Hall, met with an accident on the 14th ult., in New Philadelphia, Ohio. While the carriage containing Col. Small, Miss Eliza Nostelle and Commodore Foote, was being driven around the streets, the ponies became unmanageable, threw the driver off, ran away and upset the carriage. Col. Small, who had an outside seat upon the rear of the carriage, was thrown off, striking his head against a stable and very seriously and dangerously injuring him. Commodore Foote escaped injury, but his sister had her beauty spoiled by a bruise over the right eye.

ROBBERY.—On Tuesday morning of last week, some of the parties connected with the Store of Matthias & Garrett, in Bachman's Valley, discovered that the store had been robbed during the previous night. It appears that the thief had gained an entrance through a window and had succeeded in carrying off about $150 worth of goods. Circumstances caused them to suspect a man named George Green, a workman in the Ore Bank in that vicinity, and after a search he was discovered lying in a fence corner with the goods in his possession. When the parties approached he left the goods and took to his heels which were not nimble enough to save him, as Constable Morelock brought him to Westminster before Justice Neal who sent him to Jail to await the action of the Grand Jury at its next session. All the goods stolen have been recovered.

ON Tuesday the country people flocked into town to see the Circus. Young men and maidens, old men, women and babies by the score. The town was quite lively all day.

AT the Fair recently held at Union Bridge, for the benefit of the M. E. Church of that place the receipts amounted to $730 of which $620 was cleared over and above expenses. Ladies from Westminster, Hagerstown and Baltimore had tables at the Fair. One of the notable incidents was the presentation by the ladies of a beautiful boquet of Wax flowers with globe covering and stand, to the Rev. Chas. D. Smith. We are glad that our friend, the Rev. Charles, has been the happy recipient of so handsome a memento but we would like him to let us into the secret which is the "open Sesamie," to the favor of the fair sex. Reverend Gentleman, who only strive "in the Spirit" with the cloven footed individual down below, seem bountifully bestowed with beauty's smiles, while Editors who have to wrangle with "the world, the flesh and the devil," particularly the latter whom we meet in propria personae, every day, receive those blessings like angels' visits, few and far between.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MELVILLE, MD.,
June 12th, 1868.

MR. EDITOR:

I know of no sin more dark and damning than ingratitude, and yet I find it has become very natural to forget a good deed. I remember a few years ago when the thunder of the Guns on the walls of "Fort Sumpter" bid defiance to the Navy of the United States, and when the old "Ship" that had breasted the storm for many years, was trembling before the hosts that sprung from the plains and swamps of the sunny South with the cry of States rights, I was one of the many who mingled together in the Hall of Justice in the City of Westminster, and it seems to me I can hear even now sounding in the air the eloquent appeals that were made by the speakers that day in behalf of our suffering country.—I remember also how they pledged and promised they would do, if the "Bone and Sinew" of the Country would but leave Home, Family and Friends, and strike a blow for "God and our Native Land," Forget them? No, never! As soon think of asking the Sun at noonday to reverse its course, as think that one of the Patriotic Speech makers, or Union Shriekers there assembled would ever forget to do honor to the memory of the Boys they asked to leave their homes on that eventful day. A few days later I was one of the Hundred and Four, that formed a line of march for the Depot, there to bid good bye to the people of Carroll, and well do I remember the tears that were shed by many friends when the Iron Horse was heard approaching.

At the time I was a stranger to most of that assembled multitude, and as I looked for no particular one to wish me God Speed, I naturally took up my position as a looker on; having been only called once by the voice of fair woman to shake hands good bye The scene is printed indellibly on memory's pages, I am very sorry a few years should make so great a change—Have the men of Westminster forgotten the graves of our murdered Comrades who sleep in the Cemetry of your town, or is it unmanly to pay so fitting a tribute of respect to the memory of the Loyal dead, as that which a few of your Ladies engaged in on Saturday, May 30th. Earnest prayers from many a Loyal heart will be offered in gratitude to the Ladies who did not forget the duty we owe the sleeping Braves. Now Mr. Editor, the "Boys who wore the Blue," and who were so fortunate as to return to their home alive, though many of them are but "the wreck of what once was a man," ask but few favors at the hands of the people of Westminster, only give us an equal chance in the race of Life with any of your brawn fisted stay at home Veterans, and we will be content, and though there are no more Shoulder Straps to win or political aspirations to be gratified, for the sake of the thousands who died that our country might live, let it not be said that the "officers" under whom they served as well as Soldiers and citizens of Westminster District have forgoten to pay due homage to the memory of the Sons of Carroll who died in the cause of Freedom.—With the hope that no such dark stain may ever again rest upon the people of Westminster, I am respectfully yours.
