THE TRANSCRIPT

Entered at the Postoffice at Chestertown, Md., as Second Class Matter.

THE farmers of Frederick County at several meetings held in Frederick City have declared for economy in the management of county and state business affairs. Among the recommendations are:

Abolishing the office of county truant officer.

Adopting a tax schedule on stocks and bonds equal to the tax on mortgages.

To discontinue providing public school books free of charge.

Elections to be held every four years.

A poll tax for every citizen of the county and state.

SPORTING NOTES

BASEBALL STARS OF PAST AND PRESENT OF WASH. COL.—OTHER NOTES OF INTEREST TO LOVERS OF SPORT

Washington College has sent a number of men to the big leagues in the years that have past. It will be remembered that Hawke went from this college away back there when baseball was in its "childhood" days and established a record that stood for a decade or more. Hawke pitched the first no-hit game in the big leagues. Then Zearfoss scampered away to the big leagues, and it is doubtful if there has ever been a better catcher back of the bat in the history of the great national game. Zearfoss' weakness was with the stick, but his wonderful catching keep him in big league baseball for ten years or more. Burris followed in Zearfoss' footsteps, but was never able to "hold on," although there are fans to this day who declare that he was the best pitcher that ever flung a ball at the College. Smoot then left second base at Washington College and took up his abode in the big leagues, camping at St. Louis for several years and leading the National League in batting with a mark of something like 365. Smoot went to the outfield for the St. Louis team and held on for several years and then was relegated to the minors. Jack Townsend, one of the swiftest pitchers that ever twirled a ball, was the next light that flickered on the local baseball horizon and went from here to Philadelphia, where he twirled for the Athletics for a season and then went to Washington, then drifted back to the minors and then out of the game. He pitched the swiftest ball in his league and had he had the control of Burris it is likely he would have been one of the most superb twirlers of his day. Many years elapsed before another star made his appearance here. Frank Jarman was a good pitcher, and went to the Eastern League, while Jack Enright shone for a while and went to the same league. Now Gordy has risen from an awkward school boy athlete to a giant mound artist in almost a single bound, possessing speed, head, curve, strength and natural make-up to become a powerful mound artist. His record against players of ordinary ability, with an ordinary team to back him, has been little short of wonderful. In June he goes to Washington, against fast teams, with a fast team behind him. Will he make good? We can but turn the pages of baseball history, scan the long list of those who have made the game illustrous and write the name of Gordy at the foot of the list. Whether it stays there and becomes a prominent figure on the sporting page, or whether the finger of time erases it irreverently and permanently from the scroll, remains to be seen.

The Hopkins baseball team looks for a hard game when they clash with Coach Kiblers boys in the near future. Now that the University of Maryland has no game with Hopkins, they consider the Washington College game the big event of the year. An excursion to Baltimore on this date would not be a bad idea.

The baseball season opens here on Saturday, April 8, with the Army-Navy School. This team will likely be easy pickings for the home team.

The Washington College boys expect to win the state championship this year without any trouble. They have perhaps the best team ever assembled in the history of the college and the title will doubtless be theirs.

One of the biggest foxhunts of the year took place in the Fifth District last Monday. Mr. Harvey Brice entertained the hunters on Monday and he always shows the visitors a good time. Mr. Brice is a hunter of unusual ability and has a fine pack of dogs that make the quarry step some to get away from them. Monday they pushed the foxes so hard that the hunters were compelled to break the dogs several times in order to keep them from picking up the fox. Among those present with their packs were: Mr. Harvey Brice, Mr. Elwood Vansant, Mr. Arthur Burris, Mr. H. D. Richardson.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight continues to hold the center of sporting interest. Tex Rickard will stage the fight somewhere July 4, and it will be the biggest event of its kind in the history of boxing,—not because the men are matched evenly, however, but because of the press advertising that Carpentier has received. Carpentier is elusive and shifty—against fighters like Beckett and Levinsky—but what a surprise he will get when he goes up against the champion! Let history demonstrate the fact.

Frank Baker will help compose one of the greatest baseball teams that ever played this year. With such men as Ruth, Baker and a host of others in the line-up, it seems that the Yanks are almost a sure winner at this stage.

Gordy's work this spring so far argues well for his condition later, when great things are expected of him. His work will be watched with particular interest this year, as he goes with Washington at the end of the college term.

—Mr. Edward Blackway is ahead in the pool tournament at the Monarch Pool Parlor, having won five games and lost none.

Mr. Edward Blackway's baseball team of all-stars, consisting of Capt. Kibler, Horsey, Blackway, Gibbs and others, will line up against the Washington College team today at Washington College, if the weather permits. Horsey will start on the mound for the All-Stars. The game should be a good one with Washington the winner.

Mr. W. O. Anderson, of near Melitota, lost a valuable fox hound from poisoning this week. The dog was was one of the best and fastest in the county and was Mr. Anderson's best dog.

This Farm for many years past has been owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Schutt, and is now, and for the past sixteen years has been tenanted by Daniel Webb Hill, who at present resides on said farm. It adjoins the lands of Mrs. William T. Baxter, and the lands of William T. Lusby, now tenanted by James H. Groves. This farm contains

260 Acres of Land,

It lies convenient to the Railroad Stations at Black and at Kennedyville, schools, churches and villages are near at hand. It lies within two miles of the village of Chesterville. The size of this farm, its superior location and the excellence and fertility of the soil makes it one of the most desirable places for a home in Kent County.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third of the purchase money cash and the residue in two equal installments payable in one and two years, with interest on all unpaid purchase money from the day of sale. The wheat crop is reserved. The purchaser gets the landlord's share in all other crops grown on said farm in 1921, including one-half of the proceeds of the garden.
