Fordson

FARM TRACTOR

On the farm, just as in the big factories in the city, the machine way of doing things is quicker, easier, better. The Fordson way is the machine way of farming. It will help you to raise more per acre, thus increasing your income. It will help you to do more work in a day. It will lighten your work; and make your work easier for you.

The Fordson doesn't stop with the field work. It is a flexible, all around power plant, ready for use during the entire year, and at a remarkably low cost of upkeep. And there's work for the Fordson on every farm every day in the year.

The Fordson is very simple to operate—a school-boy can drive it.

We will be glad to explain it to you, and tell you why it is a profitable investment. Come in and see us.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, who departed this life July 6, 1920—Catherine W. Ireland—gone, but not forgotten.

Her loving forearm is stilled,
Her gentle voice is hushed,
Help us to bear our burden, Lord,
Our hearts with sorrow crushed.

Our heart is sad and lonely now,
Our grief too deep to tell,
But time will come, we care not when,
That we may with you dwell.

Why should we mourn for you, dear mother,
When we know its all in vain,
Just a few more troubles and trials here on earth,
Then we will be with you above, to live forever again.

By Her Loving Son, James T., Jr.

Just eight months ago today our dear loving mother passed away. A truer or kinder mother you could not find.

We miss you from our place, dear mother,
We miss your smiling face,
Our home is lonely without you,
We miss you everywhere.

The golden gates were opened,
And a gentle voice said come,
And she bade us all good-bye and
Calmly entered home.

We do not know why our mother was taken from us,
Some day we will understand,
The dear Lord knows what is best,
And took her home to rest.

By Her Loving Daughter, Anna W.

She has gone far up and left us,
Toiling on in a world of care,
And we hope some day to meet her,
In that city over there.

By Her Loving Son, Wm. B.

BASEBALL STARS OF THE PRESENT AND FUTURE AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE—OTHER SPORTING EVENTS OF PASSING INTEREST

Last week we recounted the deeds on the diamond of Burriss, Zearfoss, Townsend, Smoot, Jarman, and others who have made the baseball history of Washington College glow with a glamor that will never grow dim with the passing years. This week we want to tell of the stars of the present and of the future, upon whom will imposed the duty of keeping the star of the old institution burning with a luster in the sky of baseball that will not be dim when we compare it with the one of past.

If we would be called upon to select the brightest stars that now glitter in local baseball sky, we would, of course, immediately select the names of the two twirlers—Gordy and Wright, or Wright and Gordy, whichever way you chose to put it. In these two men repose the prospects of the best season in the history of the sport at the college. With Gordy using the speed of a Walter Johnson and the control of a Mathewson, and with Wright handing the batters curves almost equal to a Plank and with control almost equal to Alexander, it is little wonder that the state championship is a likely possibility. These two mound men stand without a peer in the history of baseball on the Shore in twenty years or more, and it is doubtless if there have been two superior mound men developed in the state in a decade. But even the heruculean efforts of these men would not be sufficient to write the year's history large were it not for the team which is behind them.

Writers of the future who will recount the work of the 1921 Washington College team will tell you of how Usilton fielded at first, batted consistently and surely—the greatest defender of the bag in the history of the sport here; the historian will tell you how Robbins fielded and Bounds covered short and Johnson third; he will recount the stellar work in the outfield of Wade Bounds, of Duffy and of Seigenfuse; then he will pause and write in letters large and clear the name of Davis, the 1921 catcher—the greatest backstop in the history of the game here, with the exception of Zearfoss, about 22 years ago. Yes, the historian of the past wrote the name of Washington large in the baseball annals. And the historian of the future may write it, because of this year's players, in letters which will never grow dim.

Captain Edward Blackway's All-Stars were defeated by the Washington College team Saturday under conditions which were more favorable to football than baseball. The score was 13 to 7. Wright, Schelberg and Gordy twirled in succession, each using only easy balls. Edward Robinson and Horsey twirled for the All-Stars.

The Army-Navy School, of Baltimore played the W. C. nine here yesterday, Friday, afternoon.

Coach Kibler team starts on a trip south on Monday. On Tuesday they play the University of Maryland at College Park; on Wednesday, Virginia Military Inst. at Lexington, Va.; on Thursday Washington and Lee University at Lexington; on Friday Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg and on Saturday the same team. On the following Wednesday they play Johns Hopkins in Baltimore.

Although Blackway pitched a wonderful game for his All-Stars Wednesday afternoon last at Washington College, the Collegians won the contest by the score of 5 to 3. Blackway had not twirled a game for about nine months, but he held the strong Colgian team to five scattered hits, and would have won the game had he been given good support. Gordy started the game for the Collegians and not one of the All-Star aggregation reached first while he was on the mound. Then Schelberg went to the mound for three innings, when the local boys scored their runs. Wright followed for three sessions and the All Stars were helpless before his pitching. Flowers was at short in place of Bounds, who was in left field. Clarence Usilton, in right field for the All-Stars, made the feature play of the game, catching a hard liner from the bat of Duffy, while Horsey made a one-hand catch of a fly ball which was a good one. Coach Kibler umpired a good game, many close decisions being decided in a highly satisfactory manner.

The W. C. team: Bounds, rf; Johnson, 3b; Duffy, cf; Davis, c; H. Usilton, 1b; Flowers, ss; Seigenfuse, rf; Robbins, 2b; Gordy, Schelberg and Wright, pitchers.

The All-Star team: C. Usilton, rf; Horsey, 2b; Gibbs, 1b; Ford, cf; Armstrong, 3b; Kennedy, lf; Robinson, ss; Bankard, c; Blackway, p.

Training Of Our Future Citizens

Children trained to extend justice, kindness and mercy to animals become more just, kind and considerate toward each other. Character training along these lines when the children are young will result in their being better men and women, with broader sympathies, more humane, law-abiding, and in every respect more valuable citizens.

A thousand cases of cruelty can be prevented by humane education for everyone that can be prevented by prosecution. Far better the fence at the top of the precipice than the ambulance at the bottom.

"It costs far less," said Cavour, the great Italian statesman, "to give good direction to a hundred boys than to repair the ills of a single man not having the benefits of education and instruction.

PEOPLES COLUMN

Dear Editors:

What has happened to the men of this county? Is it only a virulent outbreak of party-itis? If so, something should be done to protect the rest of us from "catching" it. The men responsible for the outbreak should be first segregated, so that the tender NEW voters may be protected and not subjected to the ravages of this disease. If those already affected could be quarantined, all friends and newspapers barred, and subjected to a course of treatment consisting of innoculations of "anti-spite," which can be obtained through Brotherhood and Common Sense, the rest of the community would be safe. If some of the cases are so hardened and the virus is very bitter, the nurse should see that the patient is kept in hot water, with a plentiful supply of soft soap, so that they may become softened, when the anti-spite serum can have a chance to work.

It is about time the School for Scandal had closed its doors, as being old-fashioned and out of date, and the new schools ready to train voters. We are hoping that everyone will be vaccinated for a plentiful supply of voccine ought to be available from the way things look. This will immunize the people from further attacks of party-itis, and while it might make them a little sore for a while, will make them immune forever.

The women voters are hoping they may be permitted to help stamp out this disease, and by careful diet and attention, get the men back where they really belong. They will then be able to work with a clear, unbiased mind, and will accomplish much for our mutual good. While they are mad and all "het up," they cannot do very much good work, and unless there is a radical change for the better pretty soon, some of us will insist that they be quarantined, and the homes placarded, as party-itis is the most contagious and infectious disease known to man or beast, and innocent persons must be protected.

A NEW VOTER.
