
A Common Sense Planter

One of the things you will like best about the INTERNATIONAL CORN PLANTER is the practical, common sense way it goes about its work.

When you see it in action, you note the accuracy with which the kernals are dropped, how they are placed in the bottom of the furrow, how easy it is to adjust the tongue for teams of different heights, keeping the boots level and making the hills easy to cross cultivate.

The change from checking to drilling can be made at any time by pressing down a small foot lever. Fertilizer attachments if you want them.

These are features that make a corn planter valuable and desirable. There are other good features, too, that we can show you if you will come in and see us before you buy your planter this year.

Runaway Horse Causes Stir On High Street—What looked to be a most serious thing, for a few minutes, occurred on High Street, Chestertown, last Saturday night. The evening was an ideal one and the largest crowd of the year was on the streets. At about nine o'clock a horse, owned by a Church Hill colored man, broke loose from his harness, while hitched in front of Abe Robinson's Restaurant, on High street, and made a dash straight down the pavement toward the river. The crowd on the pavement made a path for him down which he thundered, narrowly missing many as they scurried to the sidewalks. When in front of Mr. Frank Hurlock's store, the iron hoofs of the frightened animal came dangerously near being hurled upon the prostrate form of the little five-year-old daughter of Mrs.George Hendrickson, who had, for a second, left her mother's side. This accident was averted by the prompt and thoughtful act of Mr. Medford Brooks, who picked the child from the pavement when the animal was right upon them both. Mr. Brooks, undoubtedly, saved the child from serious injury. The horse kept on down the lane that opened before him until he reached the wharf and no one was hurt.

DO YOUR DUTY TO YOUR HOME TOWN

There is a great and truly good movement sweeping the land. Its claim to greatness is justified by the fact, that through its instrumentality and only through it can communities such as ours hope to cope with the commercial retrogression attendant upon the ungrateful and foolish habit some people have of purchasing from "mail order houses."

Some one once said: "The sunshine of publicity destroys the ptomaines of fraud," and the folly and disastrous results of the pernicious habit will be indelibly impressed upon the minds of the people by the thinking few who have given the question an analytical study. Various communities have organized Commercial Protective Associations, and are giving the widest publicity to the methods employed by these mail order concerns to misrepresent and mislead.

The idea is a great and much needed one, and will elicit the admiration and receive the heartiest endorsement of every loyal citizen of this community.

Buy at home and keep your home town distinctly in the line of evolution. Evolution means development, progress, growth, expansion and individual and community betterment.

Low prices and unsatisfactory goods go hand in hand—Economy is not a matter of buying Class B necessities. To buy simply and solely because the price is low, is tadpole economics. Buy at home. Extravagant people buy elsewhere, but those who appreciate standardized trade marked articles of merit, and the best in quality at a reasonable price, are the firm friends and supporters of your own home town—The Local Merchants. Home is the bulwark of personal and community safety and thrift.

The local merchant who spends thousands of dollars in handling goods of known and proven quality and worth, is deserving of all the honors, and the fair and honorable profits that come to him, for he is establishing a standard. A transaction with him imparts a feeling of absolute confidence that is never experienced in dealing with mail order houses. Any transaction a local merchant makes that is unprofitable to the patron he considers a calamity to himself, and he is ever on the alert to please, satisfy and deserve the confidence you repose in him.

Commercial progress is only a synonym of buying at home.

Practice and preach co-operation and reciprocity and you are doing your duty to your home town, your neighbor and yourself. You are worship-shipping at the shrine of a mighty and noble purpose when you buy at home. Mail order houses will not pave your streets, maintain your schools, insure employment to the bread earners nor help your town to progress. These essentials are only made possible by loyalty to your home town. Buy at home and save yourself from the stigma of disloyalty. Buying from mail order houses is like playing solitaire and cheating. You and yours personally get the worst of it.

What The Business Men's Club is Doing

The Business Men's Club, of Chestertown, appointed the following delegation to appear before the Public Service Commission in Baltimore on Tuesday to protest against the increased rates of the Chestertown Electrict Light Co.: P. M. Brooks, A. S. Turner, C. N. Satterfield, H. R. Graham, Edward Newsoem, C. A. Goodwin, Laurence Brown, J. N. Bennett

The delegation was much pelased with their reception by the Commission and feel very much encouraged over the prospect of preventing the increased rates which the Electric Light Co. are asking.

TO THE PUBLIC

In response to the query which appeared in the columns of the public press, "Will you tell us who asked the teachers to pass resolutions and why they were published without any signatures?"

While we, the teachers of Kent Co., deplore entering into what has become a political controversy, yet we feel that we would be unjust to ourselves if we did not answer this question.

The resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the Kent County Teachers' Association, which meeting was regularly called by the President of that Association. Further, the resolutions were drawn up and presented by a member, who is a teacher in good standing, and one who is in no wise afraid to acknowledge his name. No name was signed as the resolutions were unanimously adopted by the association, and the association, as a whole, wishes to assume the responsibility for them. The association also wishes to affirm that the resolutions were not instigated by the County Commissioners or County Superintendent and that, further, they had no knowledge of them, prior to their adoption.

We do not wish to enter any controversy, but we do intend to demand that our services be properly recognized and compensated. We are before the puplic to ask that public, irrespective of party or creed, that they endorse the stand taken by this association—an honest and efficient teacher and then an honest efficient compensation—one that will enable the teacher to look all men in the face with a feeling of self-respect.

We ask the public to endorse our position, because it is just and not for political reasons.

We ask the public to divorce our resolutions from any political controversy and concede them on their merit—and we do declare that truth, justice and the dignity that belongs to those who are moulding the manhood and womanhood of the coming generation. Signed:
