MAGAZINE NOTICES.

The April number of The Century closes the thirty-fifth half-yearly volume. The first article is by Edward L. Wilson, the well-known photographer, and is descriptive of the natural and other features of Palestine "From Dan to Beersheba." The article has a great number of illustrations, mainly from photographs, and will be of special interest to the teachers and students of the International Sunday-School Lessons. Theodore Rosevelt, in this number describes, with the aid of Mr. Remington's well-informed pencil, that decidedly American institution, "The Round-up." The present installment of the Life of Lincoln is on "The National Uprising" for the preservation of the Union; the political and military relation of Baltimore to the situation is also fully described. A further chapter is devoted to the condition of things in Washington itself at the outbreak of the Rebellion. In the chapter on the city of Washington occurs a most pathetic passage describing Lincoln's anguish of mind at the extraordinary dangers menacing the country and the capital. "Memoranda of the Civil War" contains short articles on "The Opening of the Atlanta Campaign," by Colonel William C. P. Breckinridge; "Kershaw's Brigade at Fredericksburg," by General J. B. Kershaw; an extraordinary account of "The Last Victim of the War," by Judge W. M. Dickson; an unpublished letter by General Hooker on the Chancellorsville Campaign; and a note on the "Strength of the Confederate Army at Chickamauga."

Harper's Magazine for April is not only full of interesting and instructive matter in type and illustrations, as usual, but its tone has a note of lightness in it most proper for a spring-time Number. The opening article is about Algiers, its people, its climate, and its customs, and was written by F. A. Bridgman, the artist. The poetry of the Number includes two reprints: Wordsworth's "The Shepherd, looking Eastward, softly said," and the old English song, "Sweet Nelly, my Heart's Delight." Charles Dudley Warner gives his impressions of Minnesota and Wisconsin in his second article on the Great West. The beauties of St. Paul, Milwaukee, and Madison receive due notice, and the intelligent progress in the science of Farming in Wisconsin especially, is dwelt upon at length. Names are mentioned occasionally, and credit is given where credit is due. Mr. Warner's observations in regard to the tendency of "practical" education will doubtless be widely objected to. Captain Charles King, U. S. A., describes, under the title of "The Leavenworth School," the efforts of the United States Government to give to infantry and cavalry officers of the army the benefits of advanced education similar to those enjoyed now by the engineers and artillery in institutions at Willet's Point and Old Point Comfort.

The April St. Nicholas has a seasonable frontispiece by Fenn, two toddlers under an umbrella, on "An April Day." This introduces the opening article "What Makes it Rain?" by George P. Merrill. There is also a charming "Rhyme for a Rainy Day" by Julia M. Colton, artistically framed by Katherine Pyle. Louisa M. Alcott, in "Trudel's Siege," relates the efforts of a brave little Dutchwoman to tide her parents over a time of trial and shows how she succeeded through 'patience, courage, and trust in God.' "The Tables Turned" is a true account of sheep who chased wolves, illustrated by Monks. A novelty is "'Ham' Estabrook's Can-Opener," by George P. Whittlesey, which contains, in an interesting story, a clear account of every step necessary to secure Letters Patent. "The Wreck of the 'Lizzie J. Clark,'" by Louie Lyndon, is a true story of the freezing in of a schooner on the coast of Massachusetts. There is one of the "Aztec Fragments," by J. G. Francis, and charming poems, verses, or songs by M. M. D., Alice Wellington Rollins, Emilie Poulsson, and Alice P. Carter; "Handiwork for Girls," wise little "Jack in-the-Pulpit," "The Letter-box," "The Riddle-box," another prank of the "Brownies"—all illustrated—also help to increase the number's attractiveness.

Peterson's Magazine for April comes, as usual, among the very earliest of the month's periodicals, and is one of the most interesting and welcome. The steel-plate, wood-engravings, and dress-patterns are all of superior merit, and the literary portion of the magazine deserves the highest praise. This friend of countless house holds for so many years is still as thoroughly to be depended on as when it began its popular career. It never fails, each twelvemonth, to bring forward new attractions in its literary, fashion, and household departments. While retaining old favorites, "Peterson" constantly finds new writers of promise; and, in all matters connected with dress and needlework, it contrives to render itself more and more indispensable to ladies. It is a live first-class magazine, up to the needs of the time in every respect, and this is the secret of its ever-growing popularity. Terms: Two Dollars a year. Address Peterson's Magazine, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

One of the greatest literary hints of the season is the story of "Baby Bunting; or, the Alphabet of Love," by Laura Jean Libby, which is at present being published in the columns of The New York Family Story Paper. The paper containing the opening chapters of this wonderfully popular romance appeared on the news stand this morning. The tremendous rush for that number by the young ladies of the town shows clearly that the publishers have struck a bonanza. The Family Story Paper is for sale by all newsdealers, or will be sent to any address four months, postage free, for $1.00. Norman L. Munro, Publisher, 24 and 26 Vandewater Street, New York.

* * *

The arrangements for the reunion of the survivors of the Army of the Potomac with the survivors of the Army of Northern Virginia are progressing satisfactorily. The Hon. George William Curtis will deliver the oration; George Parsons Lathrop the poem, and Bishop Horatio Potter, of New York, the address of welcome. Some distinguished Confederate will be elected to make the reply to the address of welcome. The reunion will be on the first, second an third of July next at Gettysburg, an will conclude with a grand banque President Cleveland, Gen. Sherman, Gen Sheridan and many others will be pres ent.
