Less Latin And More Civic Pride

A little less Latin and more civic pride should be taught our children. They receive their education through the taxation of the home merchants and citizens. And no mail order houses contribute to their welfare. So they are never too young to be shown the folly of mail order buying or biting the hand that feeds them. A mail order patron is the personification of gross ingratitude. And any husband whose information on this subject is better than his wife's is negligent of a duty to himself and helpmeet and his children if he does not emphatically advise against the degenerating habit of trying to get something for nothing. We teach our children the simple laws of hygiene so taht they can protect their bodies from the ravages of disease. We should teach them the laws of hygiene so that they can pro-can protect their home and home town from the invasion of the mail order microbes who sap the vitality from decent respectable communities, who play upon the credulity of honorably intentioned people? Who teach ingratitude to our citizens, who lower and impede the prosperity of our city? These parasites are more destructive than the dingbats of disease because they lower the commercial vitality of our home town. Teach our children to respect the hand that feeds them and honor the town that contributes to their physical welfare. Teach them that mail order houses are a menace to the growth and prosperity of their town and that they are instrumental in keeping wages down. Teach them that it is not consistent with honor or common sense to buy from out of town catalogue houses. Teach them this and you are worshipping at the shrine of a noble purpose.

WHAT IS THE CONDITION OF YOUR HEALTH?

Can you stand an examination for Life Insurance?

One out of every nine (9) persons applying for Life Insurance in 1920 was rejected. In other words, 11 per cent of the applicants could buy no insurance. Every one of those rejected could have gotten insurance had they applied earlier in life.

Do not put this all important matter off until some physical impairment robs you of the right to protect yourself and family.
