WORLD'S SERIES BEGINS IN NEW YORK ON WEDNESDAY—W. C. FOOTBALL TEAM PREPARING FOR ST. JOHN'S CONTEST OCT. 8

Mr. Herbert Usilton, who played first base in two games for Newark in the International League last week, returned home Monday. Mr. Usilton sprained his right foot while running to first in the second game. It is believed by many that Mr. Usilton will get a regular berth with Newark next year.

Kirk Gordy, who has been on the mound for Newark, in the International League, will return to Washington College today, Saturday. He will be with Newark again next year.

Johnny Buff, of Jersey City, American flyweight champion, won the world's bantamweight title recently when he received the decision over Pete Herman, of New Orleans, the holder of the title.

Now that the fans only await the decision of the world's series to officially close the baseball season for 1921, the question has arisen who has made the best record among the baseball pitchers on the Eastern Shore this year. While several names have been put forward as the best twirler on the Shore for 1921, we want to say this: If Bush Wright's arm had not gone bad, he would not only have been the best twirler for this year, but for several years. His collapse at the close of the season here in Chestertown removed him as a factor at the very time when he would probably have made a record for himself. While Johnny Schelberg did not emerge from the fracas with as good a record as some pitchers, it would be notable to state that he is probable the best twirler on the Shore. Johnny pitched ball from April until September and always gave a good account of himself. Hawke Hayes, of Wilmington, who pitched a few games for Salisbury, Hummer, of Princess Anne, Murphy, of Crisfield, Stanley, of Pocomoke, Willey, of Dover, Blackway, of Chestertown, all pitched good ball, while the few games that Archibald twirled in he showed up in good form.

The world's series will begin Wednesday in New York between the two winning teams, and an excellent chance will be afforded fans in this section to attend the same. The Giants have a poor record for victories in world's series. Their record is as follows: In 1905 the Giants won four and lost one against the Athletics; in 1911, against the same team, they won two and lost four; in 1912, against the Boston Red Sox, they won three and lost four; in 1913, against the Athletics, they won one and lost four; in 1916 against the Chicago White Sox, they won two and lost four games. This shows a total of 12 victories and 17 defeats in world's series games. Since the 1905 machine that carried Mathewson, McGinnity, Donlin and other stars, the average has been a trifle soggy, with only eight victories against sixteen defeats for a mark of .333. With good pitching, which the club has been getting of late, there is a fair chance for a throw-back to olden times, for any ball club that can grace the field with Frisch, Bancroft, Kelly, Young and Burns is no rickety machine. The Yankees are an unknown quality in a world's series, but our opinion is that a team that can defeat the champion Cleveland team in three out of four contests, is a fast aggregation and will be hard to beat. Our opinion is that the Yankees will win the world's series, with five victories and three defeats, or Cleveland with the same number, if they should win the American League flag, although it appeared when this was written that New York would be the winner.

The Chestertown coon hunters tried out their dogs again on Monday night, but failed to get a trail. They first turned their dogs loose at "Bushfoot" and later went to Tolchester Swamps.

Now that corn has been cut, the fox hunters will soon we trying out their dogs and before the frost is on the pumpkin, a good many hunts will have been pulled off.

Capt. W. C. A. Thompson is one of the most successful fisherman in Chestertown. He seems to know when to combine the time and place that will make a success. The other evening, although no one else on the Chester Bridge had caught anything, Capt. Thompson had three trout and a rock.

This week has been a most active one at Washington College among the football candidates. On Monday Coach Kibler had thirty report to him for practice and there were many husky boys among them. This number is expected to be increased as the balance of the students come in. Many of these boys know little of the game, but with enough men of size to compose two good elevens, Coach Kibler will have better prospects than for several years past, when he did not have enough to make up two elevens for practice. The St. John's game is now one week off, Oct. 8, and every thing possible will be done to whip the team in shape to give them a warm reception. This is the one team Washington expects to defeat, if possible. There is a good deal of talk of St. John's making big preparations for the trip here, with a big, strong team. During recent years Washington College has built up a reputation for defeating St. John's on the gridiron, the diamond and the basketball oval. This year they expect to live up to that reputation.

We bid a hearty welcome to the new athletes that have come here at the recommendation of Thomas Healey, Esq. Tom is a big booster for W. C., and we feel sure the men who he has brought here will not be disappointed in the college or the town.

GAS FUMES FATAL

Roy Garland, Welder for Mr. Starr At Pomona, Dies At His Washington Avenue Home Early Monday Morning

Early Monday morning, Roy Garland, who has been residing in the McWhorter house, on Washington avenue, for several months, died from gas fumes in a cupboard. It seems that it was the custom of Mr. Garland to arise early, get his breakfast and then walk to Pomona to work, he being employed in the welding plant of Mr. T. R. Starr.

On Monday morning he arose as usual to get his breakfast. While in the act of doing so he was overcome by gas in the cupboard and, no one knowing of his condition, he died before he was discovered. Whether he turned the gas get on by accident in the cupboard or whether he died from heart trouble, which was brought on by exposure to gas, is not known, but those who were first on the scene are unanimous in saying that the place was filled with gas.

It is reported that the gas pipes in the house had been leaking for some time and that several members of the family had been inconvenienced by gas previous to this time.

It was dark when Mr. Garland arose Monday morning and it is stated that he went below and then came up stairs again for a match to light the gas down stairs.

His children were the first to try the door in the room where the dead man lay, and, as they were unable to open it, they called their mother, who found that it was being held by the dead body of her husband.

Dr. C. P. Copeland was called by the family and with the aid of Dr. A. L. Sterling, removed the body to another room, where, upon examination, it was found that he was dead.

Mr. Garland moved her about three weeks ago and was well liked by the few people who were acquainted with him. He was an expert welder, perhaps the best ever in the county, and his death is a loss to the community. His home is in Wilmington, to which place the body was moved for burial. The funeral was held Wednesday morning, conducted by Rev. O. E. Jones, interment in Chester cemetery. C. L. Dodd undertaker.

The deceased was 39 years old and leaves an aged father and mother, Mr. J. L. Garland, and Ellen Garland, his wife, one sister, Mrs. Rueben Kams, and one brother, Riley Garland, of Hagerstown. He also leaves four children, 17, 12, and 8 years old, respectively, and a baby four months old.

His sad and untimely death was a shock to the whole community.

HANDSOME YACHT DOCKS HERE

Enchantress III, Owned by Mr. Louis Burk, Rich Philadelphia Man, Ties Up At Chestertown For Two Days—Many People Inspect Her

With no blaring of trumpets or excitement of any kind, the "Enchantress III," owned by Mr. Louis Burk, of Philadelphia, a rich Philadelphia pork dealer, accompanied by a number of prominent Philadelphia gentlemen, dropped her anchor quietly in the peaceful harbor of Chestertown.

The yacht was perhaps the most handsomely equipped of any boat of its kind that ever visited Chestertown. It cost $200,000, it is stated, was handsomely fitted out from top to bottom with every convenience, had two 290-horsepower Standard gasoline engines and is capable of making about twelve miles an hour. The yacht draws about three feet and was made so as to be able to navigate around the shallow flats of the Florida rivers, where the owner will go after he returns to Phildelphia.

With Mr. Burk were Messrs. W. H. Baker, H. S. Berbott, William Lindeg, H. C. Strecker and Jacob Strecker.

The boat had a full crew with captain and engineer dressed in regular fashion customary to navigation.

Mr. Burk came to Chestertown for the purpose of seeing his old friend, Mr. Albert E. Albaugh, of Chestertown, formerly of Philadelphia, who was intimately connected with Mr. Albaugh for many years when he resided in that city.

After a visit of two days in Chestertown, the boat pulled out Tuesday night. Chetsertown people by the scores visited the boat and were piloted about and shown the boat from top to bottom, and are unanimous in welcoming the captain and his passengers here whenever they feel disposed to come again.

Will Try To Change The Squirrel Law—It is now unlawful to kill squirrels before November 10. As a result of this squirrels are doing considerable damage to corn along strips of woodland. The dearth of chestnuts has caused squirrels to seek other food and nearby corn fields are good places for their explotiations. As a great many people are objecting to this law, it is thought an effort will be made to change it to about September 1.

Boy Kidnapped—Boyer Downes, son of Mr. H. H. Downes, of Caroline Co., was kidnapped from the playground of the Denton Primary School recently during recess. A veiled woman in a car with a colored chauffer figured in the kidnapping case. This is the second time the child has been stolen, the last time being in June.
