In speaking of the oyster question, Governor Ritchie said that he was gratified to note that the oystermen and the conservationists seemed to be willing to get together on a constructive program and was not like the bitter unconstructive fights of years past Mr. John N. UREVILLE MILL POND SOLD

Some months ago Mr. Sheppard of the Hanover Shoe Co.., Hanover, Pa., purchased Urieville mill pond from Dr. J. W. Urie, of Kennedyville. At the time of purchase Mr. Sheppard's idea was to buy some adjoining property, stock the pond with fish and build a number of bungalows along the shores of the pond, the same to be occupied by residents of his home town during th esummer months.

Urieville mill pond will make an ideal fishing pond if properly stocked, and is one of the show places of the country. The building of bungalows along its shores with good fishing in the pond will make an ideal haunt for anglemen. At the present time Mr. Sheppard has not carried out his plans due to the fact that he has been unable to buy the adjoining property desired. This pond has been a natural skating rink for the young people of Kent county for years.

LOBLOLLY PINE AS A CROP.

The loblolly pine, known also as the old field and shortleaf pine, is one of the South's greatest natural resources as it grows rapidly and is adapted to large areas in nearly all of the Southern States. Its profitableness as a crop and how it is best grown and harvested is to ed in recent publication, "Loblolly Pine Primer," Farmers' Bulletin No. 1517-F, issued by Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

An acre of loblolly pine well protected from fire will average a growth of from 300 to 1,000 board feet of saw timber yearly, says the booklet.

Loblolly pine grows naturally from southern Delaware and eastern Maryland over the coastal plain and lower Piedmont sections south and west to eastern Texas and southern Arkansas. It is distinguished from other pines by its three leaves, or straws, in each cluster, deeply divided and rough bark, and very prickly burrs, which when closed are about the size of a duck's egg.

Copies of the publication may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

DEATHS

Rev. Edwin H. Gardner, 60, pastor of Crumpton charge of the Methodist Protesant Church, died suddenly Saturday at the parsonage in Crumpton following a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Gardner had been a member of the Wilmington conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church for a number of years, but withdrew and two years ago accepted the Crumpton charge. He had served several charges in Delaware and Maryland including Pomona and Millington in Kent County and enjoyed a successful minstry at Crumpton. He is survived by a widow and two children. Funeral services were held on Tuesday.

Albert Watson died at his home in Skinner's Neck Saturday, February 12th, 1927, after a long illness of cancer, aged 61 years. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. William Baker, of Rock Hall, and Mrs. Nettie Farsons, of Baltimore. His brothers are Edward, Nelson and Herbert Watson. Mrs. George Akers and Mrs. Lemuel Beck are sisters. Funeral services were conducted Monday at Raum Chapel by Rev. C. L. Dawson. Interment in Wesley Chapel Cemetery. The bearers were Charles, Robey, Frank, John and James Kelley Howard Kendall. Thomas H. Sasey, director,

Mr. William M. Miller died at his home near Rock Hall Thursday, Feb. 17, 1927, aged 90 years. Mr. Miller was one of the most prominent as well as most highly esteemed citizens and farmers of this county. He was born and lived his entire life on the farm on which he died. To be born and live on the same spot for 90 years is a record obtained by few people, and we doubt if there is such another case on record in this county. Mr. Miler's wife died years ago, since which time his daughter, Miss Mollie, has devoted her life in taking care of his home. He is survived by one daughter and two sons: Miss Mollie, Charles and Maron T. Miller. Mr. Walter Hadaway's wife was a daughter of the deceased. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Wesley Chapel. Interment in the cemetery adjoining.

—Sargeant Charles F. McCauley, of the Maryland police, was seriously injuried last week when run into by a truck. Recent reports state that Mr. McCauley is getting along nicely.

—The gasoline bill was reported favorably by the Senate Finance Committee, making one and one-half cents for lateral and one-half cent for grade crossings. This makes a 2 cent tax.
