MILLINGTON CARNIVAL IN FULL SWING

The annual carnival, staged by the Millington Fire Company, is in full swing having started last Saturday for an eight day run.

Following the last fire, which burned a large part of the business section of the town and threatened the residential section while lack of fire fighting equipment prevented any direct means of control of the fire, a small body of citizens obligated themselves for the purchase of a fire truck.

These citizens then proceeded to raise funds to pay for the truck and the carnival idea was adopted. When the truck was practically paid for they realized that the fire company could not reach the maximum of efficiency without a home and they built a combination fire house and community center.

There being no town water supply in Millington this fire company offers absolute fire control which is essential for the progress of the town and to those who are responsible for the up-to-date fire company in Millington should have the whole hearted support of the community.

The Millington Fire Company, not only serves Millington but is ready at a moments call to rush to farm fires and neighboring towns to assist in preventing destruction by fire.

The carnival idea at the present time is the only efficeint method of supporting fire companies on the Eastern Shore.

TRANSCRIPT'S MUSINGS

What is the good of money if it aint to help a friend out with? I believe in friends, I do. Here we go hopping around this little world for a small time and then that's done. Spose you aint got any real friends for the trip. Rotten, I say! —Phillips.

Mr. Prim was very slim while his wife was very fat
But they were not like the family of the famous Jack Sprat
Who never left anything on the plate for the cat,
This family by the name of Prim.

For they both enjoyed the pleasures of the table.
And always partook of as much as they were able.
Of juicy meats and succulent vegetable
And filled their cups to the brim.

Till Dame Fashion gave out her arbitary decree,
That slim boyish figures the vogue would be,
And all must reduce; it was sad to see
How the stouts were filled with dismay.

So Mrs. Prim rolled on the floor and the bed,
Took daily dozens and did the bicycel tread,
But found she was losing her breath instead
Of pounds, when she ventured to weigh.

So she said, since I cannot resist good fare
And when seeing tasty viands, I cannot forebare,
I will make the table very spare,
In spite of Mr. Prim.

So when he gazed at the scanty plate
And endeavored with her to remonstrate
Telling her that he daily was losing weight,
She immediately sat on him.

It is an insult to our beautiful town to have such dirty streets. What matter how lovely the location, if paper and scraps from the stores are floating all around. The commissioners are doing what they can, by having the trash hauled away and are asking the citizens to cut down the weeds. This is most important thing as many of our citizens are afflicted with hay fever and the growing of weeds is a great menace to them. Come, let us have pride in our town and boost it as much as we can, and not let passers by remark on our lack of thrift and neatness.

Some reporters are disgruntled because neither scandal nor politics are appearing on the front pages of the papers these days, but only the doings of the airmen who have done wonders in recent weeks. This is not the first time that the air has purified things

The Bureau of Standards has at last discovered a sound proof-partition for apartments. This will ease the minds of the radio fans, who feel uneasy when their radio is turned on to hear the water running in the next apartment, knowing it was turned on to deaden the sound of the radio.

That Mary Doe, a dear little deer in Yellow-stone Park thinks she is an elk and refuses to associate with the other deer, shows that she is absorbing many human qualities in the process of evolution.

The dedication of the restored home of Barbarie Fitchie took place on the 4th of July with about three thousand people in attendance. The principal speech of the day was made by J. Bradford Davis, president of the Whitter Club at Haverhill, Mass. The grand neice of Barbara, Miss Julia Abbott recited Whitter's poem of Barbara Fitchie, one feature of the exercises was Mrs. Bowie standing at the attic window waving a flag and singing "America" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic. She was attired dress of Barbaras and though her hair was by no means gray it was a realistic picture of what was done during the civil war.

The old unused fountain in the square is now used for planting flowers. In a few weeks it will be a mass of bloom, one more beauty spot in the dear old town.

The Caterers are discussing the high value of French, that it is easier to get 75 cents for crackers and cheese if one calls it fromage gruyereet biscut, than 25 cents if it is called swiss cheese and crackers.

Foreman: "Now, Murphy, what about carrying some more bricks?"

Murphy: "I ain't feeling well, sorrey; I'm trembling all over.."

"Well, then, get busy with the stove."

TO INVESTIGATE TARIFF ON TOMATOES

The Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, the National Canners Association and the Tri-State Packers Association have been continually urging that some action be taken to give protecton to the producers and packers of canned tomatoes against the flood of imported articles coming from over the seas and their efforts have been partly successful as Mr. M. Melvin Stewart, Secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, has received word that at last the U. S. Tariff Commission has ordered an investigation to determine the advisability of increasing tariff on canned tomatoes. The letter dated June 24th reads as follows:

"You will be interested to know that the United States Tariff Commission has at last ordered an investigaton on tomatoes prepared or preserved in any manner. This action on the part of the Commission no doubt is a result of that pressure which has been exerted continually by such organizations at Farm Bureau Federations.

It has been started that the freight rates from Chestertown to New York are practically the same as from Italy to New York and for this reason an increased tariff has been urged by many local organizations on foreign grown tomatoes.

The Tariff Commission in a communication signed by Thomas O. Marvin, Chairman, stated that the Commission had before it a number of applications for the investigation wth respect to canned tomatoes, but that it would be unable to undertake any additional investigations until the appropriation for the next fiscal year became available on July 1, 1927. Mr. Marvin was immediately advised of the seriousness of the situation, and was prevailed upon to hve the Commission place this application with reference to tomato imports among the first to be considered.

FISH AND GAME IN DEL-MAR-VA

"Fish and Game In Del-Mar-Va," is the title of a 3,000 word, handsomely illustrated article, appearing in the July issue of the National Sportsman, a leading out-of-door magazine published at Boston, with a circulation of more than 150,000. The article was written by Edwin C. Totten, Publicity Directory of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, and tells an interesting story of the exceptional possibilities for the sportsman on the Peninsula. It is given the utmost prominence, being the lead story in the magazine.

Mr. Totten relates experiences of a one days outing, when with a companion, he enjoyed wild duck shooting during the early morning hours; caught an impressive string of black bass during midday, and spent the afternoon in the most excellent quail and rabbit shooting. He explains in his article that this unusual combination is possible on the Peninsula owing to the game laws being so regulated that each of the sports mentioned may be indulged in on any given day from November 15th until December 31st..
