COUNTRY CLUB FORMERLY OPENED MONDAY

Approximately six hundred members and guests of the Chester River Yacht and Country Club attended the formal opening of the new club house and grounds on Monday of this week.

Rain postponed the starting of the tennis tournament, scheduled for 9 a. m., until the afternoon, but the handicap golf tournament, scheduled for 9.30, started on time with twenty members participating. The cup for this tournament was won by Mr. W. H. Thawley with a handicap of 22 strokes.

The singles tennis tournament, which started about noon was won by Mr. Donald F. Stam; the doubles was won by Russell and Collins.

One of the most interesting feature of the day was an exhibition golf match played by Messrs. Kenneth Allen, Wade Bounds, Stanley Allen and Raymond Stallavenich, all of Baltimore. A large gallery followed the players around the course.

The bang-and-go-back motor boat race started at the club pier and twelve yachts and runabouts proceeded up the river until a signal from the electric light wharf indicated the turn and the "Osprey," owned and captained by Mr. H. Clay Brown was an easy winner. The speed of the boats competing ranged from seven to eighteen miles per hour and one of the slower boats won.

At 8.30 p. m. the club house was crowded for the first dance on the new building, including guests from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Wilmington and many points on the Eastern Shore.

The entire days program was a decided success and marked the opening of the new club which will be a decided social addition to Kent county. Much credit is due the committees in charge of the days program.

"BARE KNEES" A FINE PICTURE AT LYCEUM

First it was the lipstick—then came bobbed hair—next, the short skirt and now naturally we display "Bare Knees" which happens to be the title of the latest Grotham Production which is to headline the program at the Lyceum Theatre on Saturday, Sept. 8th.

Just as it's title implies, "Bare Knees" is a story of the girl of today but—and here is the difference—the author, Adele Buffington, is in sympathy with her subject and instead of ranting and raving about how the girls of today are headed for destruction, etc., she has presented a photoplay which proves that girls are today just what they have always been—girls.

"Bare Knees" specifically deals with advent of the last word in modern flappers into a small, narrow town. Naturally, at first, the natives are scandalized at her actions. She does the "black bottom" to pep up a sleepy party, she smokes cigarettes in public, she "necks" in an open roadster on the main highway—but whatever she does, she does in public, her private life being beyond reproach morally. Just about the time that her own sister and relatives are calling her down, something happens which entirely changes the situation. The flapper is not only exonerated but extolled and the era of "bare knees" starts in this town.

Virginia Lee Corbin is the flapper and her impersonation is said to be the snappiest screen conceit this season. She is backed by such sterling photoplayers as Donald Keith, Johnnie Walker, Jane Winton, Forrest Stanley and Maude Fulton.

Director Erle C. Kenton has given the story a lavish production and for a climax has a melodramatic thrill that is in the "hair-raiser" class.

TRANSCRIPT'S MUISINS

I sometimes think that mirrors
Are prone to telling lies;
A man best sees himself
When he has shut his eyes.

True mirrors, I have found,
Flash suddenly to sight:
Myself looked out at me
From a tinseled stage one night.

Again when I was reading
I gave a started look—
For there I was reflected
In the pages of a book.

And a well remembered mirror
To which I once was led,
Was just some pregnant words
An honest child had said.

Mirrors every ray of light
Flashes to attract the eye of any one

Flint is hard and dull and plain,
Flint is nothing to admire,
But strike in heart and you unchain

In England, a tourist stopped at an ancient looking inn and asked for quarters for the night. "Certainly," said the landlady. I will put you in the room where the duke of Wellington once sglept. The next morning when the guest was preparing to leave he asked, "Did the Duke really sleep in the bed in that bed?" Yes, he really did, chirped the landlady. "Then I do not wonder he was called "The iron Duke" drily remarked the tourist.

He Was Reminded

From the Weekly Scotsman

He was rather absent minded, and his wife tied a piece of cotton round his finger to remind him to get his hair cut. On his way home he noticed the cotton and entered his barber's shop.

"Yes, sir?" said the barber, a puzzled note in his voice.

"Eh? Oh, yes, cut my hair, please," commanded the absent-minded one.

"Certainly, sir," replied the borber, "if you wish it, but you won't mind my mentioning the fact that I cut it at lunch time today, will you?"

The oldest automobile still in use was recently put up at auction by a French priest to raise funds for building a new church. It was constructed in 1891, has covered some 200,000 miles, and is still in good working fettle. With its early form of chain drive crude iron tires and one-horsepower, it registers a top speed of eight miles an hour.

One by one the waste products of the earth are being utilized. One day we hear of fish scales used to make sequins, again we hear that delicious candy is now being made in large quantities from the sweet juices of certain varieties of desert cactus which grows wild in Arizona and southern California. So much cactus has recently been gathered for this purpose that certain organizations which seek the preservation of natural resources and native flora, are up in arms in protest. Along the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific lines which traverse the deserts there has been a noticeable diminution in the quantity of cactus to be seen from car windows.

Why He Lost The Case

A young lawyer, pleading his first case, had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a railway company for killing twenty-four hogs. He wanted to impress the jury with the magnitude of the injury.

"Twenty-four hogs, gentlemen. Twenty-four; twice the number there in the jury box."—Forbes Magazine.

The girls were reading the future with soflee grounds and tea leaves. They playfuly asked grandma if there was anything she wanted to know.

"Yes. Who's going to wash those dishes."

PENINSULA NEWS

Emphatic denials to reports that work on the proposed new Chesapeake Bay ferry from Kent Island to Sandy Point would be delayed until 1929, were voiced last week by representatives of J. G. White & Company, 37 Wall street, New York, promoters of the Kent Island-Sandy Point transportation project.

They stated that there was every reason to believe that necessary federal permits would be obtained to begin construction on the piers at an early date.

While admitting that delay is being occasioned pending issuance of these permits, everything is in readiness to begin work as soon as these are granted, they stated.

Dr. George W. Cooke, of Wilmington, evangelist, while bathing at Oak Orchard, near Seaford, Del., late Saturday afternoon, was injured when he dived into shallow water. Dr. Cooke, who is director of Delmarva camp, located on the Laurel-Seaford state highway, was at the resort with the Bible school of the camp, who were enjoying a picnic there. His head struck the bottom when he dived. He came to the top of the water, and told friends standing near he thought he had injured himself. He was taken to the hospital for examination where it was found the injuries were confined to his back and chest. He is now under observation at his tent in the camp. Dr. Cooke conducted evangelistic services at the Chestertown M. E. Church last year.

This meeting showed the Democratic leaders and all democrats which filled the Court House to be heartily in accord with the entire Democratic ticket.

Senator Benson stated that a survey of Baltimore City showed that that city will give Smith and Robinson a arge majority.

MARKET NEWS SERVICE

EFFORT TO ESTABLISH A MARKET NEWS SERVICE ON THE EASTERN SHORE

Rep. T. Alan Goldsborough, Democrat, First Maryland District, said today that he would ask the next session of Congress to appropriate $5,000 for the maintenance of a market news service on the Eastern Shore by the Bureau of Economics, Department of Agriculture, in the interest of the farmers and vegetable growers here.

Mr. Goldsborough has been appealed to by the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, the Salisbury Chamber of Commerce and a number of other organizations on the Eastern Shore, who say that section is the second largest producer of strawberries, potatoes and other vegetables in the United States. This food producing section, located within less than 100 miles of the national capital, has been depending upon local contributions for the maintenance of a temporary market news service.

In their appeal growers said in August, 1926, that section shipped 1,566 carloads of cantaloupes, as compared with 5,575 from the entire United States

The two men were turned over to Federal authorities and were given a preliminary hearing Friday on a charge of possessing liquior.

They will then be presented before the Kent County Grand Jury on a charge of selling liquior. The two men are from Baltimore.

MR. AND MRS. CREW RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Crew and little daughter, Thelma, of North East, and Betterton, returned Wednesday after 3 months absence spent in Peoria, Ill., where Mr. Crew attended the summer school of the Bradley Polythecmic Institute in that city.

The route out was by way of Pa., Ohio, and Indiana. The return trip was by the way of St. Louis, Missouri across the Mississippi River, then through Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, District of Columbia thence to Baltimore and home.

While both Mr. and Mrs. Crew spoke highly of the middle west yet with them it did not compare with Maryland the Garden spot, and they said the best part of their trip seemed to be after they crossed the bridge at Havre de Grace which soon brought them to their home in North East at 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Then Wednesday morning the end of the pleasant trip brought them to the homes of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Crew, of Betterton, and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Loller, of Worton.

TALKS TO FIREMEN

Mr. Bayard C. Staveley, superintendent of the New Jersey State Firemen's Home, located at Boonston, N. J., was present and gave a very interesting and instructive talk to the members of the Chestertqwn Volunteer Fire Company, at their regular meeting Monday evening. It will be remembered that Mr. Stavely was the principal speaker at the annual firemen's banquet, held last February, his talk being based on the New Jersey Home and the law governing its operation. In his remarks Monday evening he explained in detail how the law had benefitted the Volunteer firemen of New Jersey, they not only having a home for indigent and disabled firemen, but injured and sick firemen receive pay while on sick leave and pensioned after a period of years of service.

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, sponsored a bill that was approved by the Maryland State Firemen's Association at its last annual session, held in Elkton; this bill will be presented at the next session of the Maryland legislature. The object of the bill being to levy a 2 per cent. tax on insurance companies doing business in the state, and who more than any other, profit by the efforts and energies of the Volunteer Firemen.

NO INFANTILE PARALYSISHERE

According to an announcement made yesterday there is no infantile paralysis in Kent county.

There are only two cases reported on the Eastern Shore, one from Camp Gunstan, in Queen Anne's county, on the Corsica River. Both of the cases reported on the Shore are Baltimore boys.

The disease, which is prevalent in Baltimore and the Western Shore has delayed the opening of schools there for two weeks.

One of the earthly horrors is a sophistocated little boy, poor child.

TO AUTO DRIVERS.

Advocacy of more intelligent and intelligible signals for indicating a change of direction or other traffic maneuver was voiced by Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman this week.

"The present haphazard and oft-times slovenly executed system followed by literally thousands of Maryland motorists is really a travesty and gives other drivers absolutely no real information as to the intent of the driver using it.

"The left arm stuck out a little way—and most of the time it is a very little way—with the fingers all extended or spread out, as at present resorted to, means absolutely nothing—because it can mean so much. It may indicate a right-hand turn, a left-hand turn, an intention to stop, or it may be that the driver is simply pointing to something that interests him and which he wishes to direct his passenger's attention to. The gesture at present used gives no really intelligent indication to following traffic what to expect.

"When a driver expects to make a right-hand turn the intelligent policy to pursue is to draw as closely over to the right side of the highway as possible when approaching the intersection, at the same time putting the left arm straight out and making a forward circling movement with the hand from the wrist.

"When a left-hand turn is contemplated the car should, before getting to the intersection, be maneuvered to the center of the highway—but not so far as to be to the left of the center, and the arm extended straight out to the left with the index finger pointed and the other fingers folded.

"Even now, when the system is not in general use in Maryland ,the signals indicated above are to a great degree self-explanatory and easily understood—they indicate in an intelligent way what is going to be done. This is more than can be said of the other and more generally used plan of letting a hand stick out to indicate any one of the possible maneuvers; or, indeed, all of them, as a matter of fact.

"If the system indicated were generally used much improvement and greater smoothness, convenience and pleasure in traffic movement would result."

HOSPITAL READY FOR INSPECTION

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. T. Brown, the committee in charge has completed the cleaning and redecoration of the rooms in the Rodney house on High Street which have been taken by the Kent County Public Health Association for the beginning of a Kent County Hospital. The operating room has been painted and papered and the other rooms thoroughly cleaned. As soon as funds are at hand, all rooms will be renovated. On September 4 the equipment for the operating room which was purchased from the Physicians and Surgeons Supplies House of Baltimore, was installed by a representative from the firm.

Committees are seeking contributions from the public for sheets, pillow cases, towels, rubber sheeting, glasses and unbreakable pitchers.

The rooms will be open to the public for inspection from 2 to 8 p. m. today, Saturday, September 8. Members of the Executive Committee will be present to show visitors through and explain the work as planned.

OYSTERS VERY NUTRITIVE

THEY RATE HIGH IN FOOD VALUE AND VITAMINS, SAYS SPECIALIST

Oysters are rated as the most valuable fishery product of the United States, the annual yield being about 30,000,000 bushels. In former years oysters were prized chiefly because of their delicate and appetizing flavor, but newer knowledge in the field or nutrition, according to D. Breese Jones of the United States Department of Agriculture, has revealed that oysters have also a high food value.

"Oysters are a valuable source of mineral constituents that are essential for the health and normal nutrition of animals," Mr. Jones says. "Such diseases as rickets, goiter and anemia are closely associated with a lack of the proper qualtities of lime, phosphorus, iodine and iron in the diet. Oysters contain all these elements, collected from that vast chemical storehouse—the ocean. They also contain other elements that may play equally important parts in physiolligical welfare.

Is this hotel exclusive.

Not too exclusive. You'll want somebody around to snub.

CARNIVAL IN FULL SWING

The annual carnival of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Co. started last night and a large crowd is expected tonight.

The principal feature during the ten day carnival here will be Tuesday evening when the annual Firemen's parade will be held, and fire companies from all parts of the Peninsula will compete for valuable cash prizes. The parade held in Chestertown last year was declared the largest and most elaborate held on the Shore. All inactive firemen are asked to meet at the fire house at seven p. m. The costume will be white trousers and shirts, black bow ties and regulation hats.

The purchasing committee composed of Messrs. William G. Smyth, A. L. Sparks, J. H. Thompson, Fred S. Russell, Barber Bartley, Raymond Simpers, and Lawrence Strong, have selected an unusual attractive line of merchandise for the carnival, including a complete line of handsome blankets for the blanket booth.

One of the novelties of the affair will be a golf booth in which golfers and would be golfers will have an opportunity to show their skill.

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Co. band will furnish music during the carnival and a record attendance during he eight nights is expected.

The carnival will be held in the park in the center of Chestertown and ample parking space will be provided.

WEDDING NOTES

ATHERTON—WICKES

The wedding of Miss Eloise Somervill Wickes, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Lewin Wethered Wickes, of Chestertown, and Mr. Thomas Homer Atherton, Jr., will be held today, Saturday, at four o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Front street. Mr. Atherton is the son of Mr. Thomas Atherton, Vice-President of the Fidelity Philadelphia Trust Co,

The bride will be gowned in white satin with vale of rose point lace. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Peter Christy, of East Orange; Miss Irene VanMeter, of New Jersey; Mrs. Morris Keene Barroll, of Chestertown; Miss Mary Atherton, of Germantown, and Miss Charottee Partridge, of Washington, will wear taffeta of various shades of yellow.

The groom's best man will be Mr. John F. Simons, of Germantown. A reception will be held at the home following the wedding ceremony.

The bride and groom will be at home 7815 Linden Ave., Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, after October 1st.

The marriage of Miss Gladys Reigle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Reigle, of Fort Worth, Texas, to Frank Ayres, Jr., of Rock Hall, Md., took place at five o'clock in the afternoon of August thirtieth in Chicago at The Cloisters, the home of Mr. James B. Parsons, formerly, of Rock Hall.

The Rev. Dr. Broyles, of Scarett College, Nashville, Tenn., performed the quiet ceremony which took place in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The ceremony was read in the living room before an altar of greenery on each side of which stood tall wrought ron candelabras holding lighted candles. Yellow roses were used for decoration.

The bride wore a charming dress of Alice blue crepe faille with bridal corsage of pink roses showered with lilies of the valley.

The wedding created quite a bit of interest because of its unique distinction as the first wedding to be held in "The Cloisters."

The bride and groom spent their honey moon in Chicago at the home of the Parsons joining, the later for a short while at a resort on Lake Michigan before leaving for the East.

Mr. Ayres is a graduate of Washington College and has taken an S. M., degree in Mathematics at the University, of Chicago. He will teach this year in Dickinson College, Carlisle, Penna.

Mrs. Ayres is a graduate of the Texas Woman's College Fort Worth, Texas and the Curry School of Expression in Boston, Mass. She taught last year at the Florida State College for Women, Tallahassee, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayres will spend a few days in Rock Hall before Dickinson College opens, as guests of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayres, Sr. After their visit to Rock Hall they will be at home in Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

—Sheriff Hadaway, assissted by his deputies throughout the county, made raids on several gambling dens in the county and made a number of arrests. He also rounded up some chicken thieves who, when brought before magistrate Olin B. Stafford, waved a hearing and were held for the October term of the Circuit Court. Those arrested for gambling had not been tried when we went to press.

"I want you to pose for a hosiery advertisement."

"I don't think I could don any spectacular costume."

"Just as you are."
