ARE THE FARMERS EASY MARKS?

FROM THE BALTIMORE SUN

Is the farmer to be duped again? Is his vote to be delivered to the dominnt party in the approaching election, upon the promise of a higher import uty on his products of the field?

The daily press reports Mr. Curtis s saying in his speech to the farmers t the State Fair, Syracuse, N. Y., that Congress, in its next session, will address itself to the "farm problem" nd bring the tiller of the soil relief y a revision of the tariff upward, which means additionel protection on his crops—a higher import duty on his wheat and other cereals.

The farmer ought to remember, even if Mr. Curtis does not, that the Emergency Tariff levied for their special benefit some years ago, increasing the ales tax on wheat 50 per cent. when wheat was near the $2 mark per bushel, did not prevent it from falling to 1.05 in Kansas City the other day. Another increase in the tariff, and a lumper crop, may bring us 50-cents wheat. The farmer ought to know by his time that the tariff on his wheat nd other cereals has about as much o do with the price as it has to do with the smoke going up the chimney. The high duty on wheat under the Morrill bill during the Civil War did not boost it much, if any, beyond the $3 mark. Neither did free trade in wheat during Mr. Wilson's Administration revent it from reaching $3.15 in our local market.

It is time the farmer is getting rid f his political prejudices, inherited rom his grandfather and father, and efuse longer to be the stupid vassal—a hewer of wood and drawer of water—for a party whose stock in trade as been for the past fifty years a high rotective tariff system; that compels im to sell his staple or cereal crops n a world-wide, free-trade, low-price market, set in a foreign mart, and buy verything from a toothpick to an auto n a high-price Republican tariff market—a system or policy that has reduced farming to a 3.3 per cent. profit ccupation, while the protected manuacturing industries are receiving 11 o 12 per cent. on their capital and abor. (See Agricultural Report.)

Frank in also the third of the Sutton brothers to win a place on a State Judging Team and represent Maryland in three National Contest at a National Dairy Show.
