Parents, Teachers Add 800 Members

Salisbury, Md., Nov. 20.—Membership in the Maryland Congress of parents and Teachers grew by nearly 800 through affiliation during the year of five Baltimore city and ten county units. Mrs. John D. Unger, treasurer, reported at the opening business session today.

The Rev. Robert A. Boyle, president of the Salisbury Ministerial Association, made the invocation. Greetings were brought to the assemblage by Ralph H. Grier, president of the Wicomico Federation of Parent-Teacher bodies, host to the convention, and by James M. Bennett, County Superintendent of Schools for Wicomico. Response was by Mrs. Harry Elkins Parkhurst, Baltimore, president of the Maryland Congress.

The president in her report cited as the outstanding accomplishment of the year the establishment of the Maryland Parent-Teacher, official monthly publication of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers. She stressed the theme of the present convention, "worthy home membership," and strongly urged members to become better informed of the aims and purposes of the organization.

Among projects sponsored during the year, Mrs. Parkhurst mentioned the urging of child study as part of each local program, establishment of reference libraries for parents, promotion of school cafeterias, with hot lunches, entertainment during the State Olympiad of champion athletes of each county in private homes; cooperation with city and state health departments in carrying out plans for the summer round-up and conducting of a speakers' bureau.

Greetings from the District of Columbia Congress, with an invitation to visit the national congress in Washington next May, were brought by Mrs. Marvin C. Evans, representing Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president The invitation was accepted.

Dorchester county, with twenty-eight delegates, had the largest attendance at the opening session. The meeting is being broadcast over Station WSMD.

At noon all presidents or their representatives were guests of the State Normal School at a luncheon, followed by a president's conference, with addresses by Mrs. Laura Underhill Kohn, director publicity bureau, National Congress of Parent-Teachers; Newell Edson, national chairman of social hygiene, and Mrs. Henry M. Robert Jr., of Annapolis. The same speakers later addressed a delegates' conference at the Wicomico Hotel, presided over by the Rev. Kingman A. Handy, a vice-president.

In the afternoon those in attendance went to the normal school campus, where an oak tree, emblematic of the fact that a session of the Maryland Congress was held here, was planted. Dr. William J. Holloway, principal, accepted the gift on behalf of the institution.

A mass meeting was held at night at the school. Dr. Holloway, Dr. Albert H. Cook, State Superintendent of Public Education, and Dr. O. H. Benson, director of rural scouting, Boy Scouts of America.

A Real Spirit of Service!

"Undoubtedly a very great factor in the continued progress and improvement of telephone service is the intangible but quite real spirit of service that has become a tradition in the telephone business * * *"

WALTER S. GIFFORD,
President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company
(Bell System)

Every minute of the day or night 50,000 telephones are ringing somewhere in the United States! 3,000,000 every hour! 73,000,000 telephone conversations take place during the course of a day.

Telephone service has become a vital service. Never for a moment must it falter. The message must get through; the service must be kept at the highest standard of efficiency. That is the creed of the army of telephone workers—374,000 of them—who operate the country's telephone system.

Many and varied are the functions of these workers, for the business of furnishing telephone service is one of great complexity. It requires specialists in scores of diverse activities.

But different as are the tasks of this army of telephone workers, thousands of whom are men and women of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, they are moved by a common purpose—to get the message through in the most efficient way and the shortest possible time.

Throughout the twenty-four hours of each day, three hundred and sixty-five days of each year, this is the purpose which continually actuates our people —a purpose that inspires in them a real spirit of service.
