A subscriber to the SENTINEL writes: "We look for the SENTINEL, on Saturday, just as we look for our meals, and sooner than miss getting it would do without our suppers. We glance over the local columns and chat about their contents while eating. It is the best paper published in Westminster and is to us now indispensable, as it keeps us fully informed of events occurring in old Carroll."

At "Christmas, 1876, it bore a double flower which was used in the boquet that was placed on the casket" containing the remains of the late Josephus H. Hoppe.

The SENTINEL is indebted to George P. McCollum, foreman of the Altoona Car Works, at Altoona, Pa., for a neatly illustrated catalogue of the engines of various styles manufactured at that establishment. Mr. McCollum is a native of Carroll county, and was formerly connected with the Taylor Company in this city. Another former Westminsterian, Charles W. Knight, is draughtsman in the Altoona Car Works, which is a large and flourishing establishment.

February, 1889, to date has maintained the reputation of a winter month quite consistently. There have been few of its days during which the temperature has not fallen below the freezing point and usually much lower. This was varied by a midwinter thunder storm which occurred about six o'clock last Monday morning. A single flash of lightning was very vivid and the thunder which followed loud enough to awaken the slumbering inhabitants.

Dr. Amos L. Gage, of Baltimore, and Miss Emma Abbott, of Annapolis, were married in the Presbyterian Church, in the latter city, on Tuesday last, by the pastor, Rev. Robert H. Williams. Many persons prominent in society were present, among the number Miss Kitty Roberts, of this city, who is visiting the executive mansion. The bride is the daughter of Wm. M. Abbott, editor and proprietor of the Annapolis Capital, and is well known here, being a graduate of Western Maryland College.

A cow belonging to Henry Caples, of Carrollton, dropped a calf, on Monday last, that was quite a curiosity. It was, in fact, in many respects a double, having had two well-formed heads and necks with distinct cervical vertebrae. There were two tails and the vertebra of the back appeared to be double. It had the ordinary four legs, which were well formed. Mr. Christopher Woolery was called to attend the case and rendered skillful veterinary aid. The calf lived but a short time. Dr. Harstone is having the skin prepared and mounted by a taxidermist for preservation.

It is now supposed that the notice given to John Schultz, near Hampstead, that his barn would be burned, was intended as a joke. The substance in the shell found, it is believed, was nothing but flour. In the excited state of public feeling there can be no joking about this business, and anybody giving such notices, if discovered, should be held guilty of criminal intent. It is reported that two farmers in the vicinity of Taneytown have received warnings. Dominick Smith, of McSherrystown, Pa., has received notice that his barn is to be destroyed. As yet there is no clue to the perpetrators of these outrages, nor to the motives influencing them.

Isaac C. Forrest, of the vicinity of Warfieldsburg, has shown us an old parchment certificate given May 31st, 1832, under the seal of Frederick County Court, by John Schley, Clerk, to Maria Buchanan, setting forth that she was the woman who was manumitted by Rev. Jonathan Forrest, by deed then on file in said clerk's office. Maria was described in the certificate as thirty-two years of age in the December following its date, near five feet high, the little finger of her right hand crooked and limping a little in her walk on the right foot. Rev. Mr. Forrest, who manumitted her, was Mr. Isaac C. Forrest's grand-father. The parchament is as good as new and the writing perfectly clear and legible.

His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons will arrive here this, Saturday evening, and will administer confirmation at ten o'clock to-morrow, Sunday, at St. John's Catholic Church this city. Accompanied by Rev. Father Gloyd, he will go to Union Mills and spend the evening at the residence of Mrs. William Shriver. On Monday he will go, via Littlestown, to Taneytown, to administer confirmation at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Rev. John T. Delaney, pastor.

The editor of the SENTINEL has been permitted to peruse several letters written from Florida by Wm. A. Cunningham, Esq., cashier of the Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank of Westminster, to members of his family in this city, and found them very interesting reading. Mr. Cunningham describes the scenes through which he passed during his tour with a graphic simplicity that brings them vividly to the mind's eye of the reader. He tells of the beautiful scenery; the extensive hotels with their rates of $7 a day and more; the luscious oranges and the balmy summer-like weather in a manner that creates a desire to learn more about them. After reaching Brunswick, Georgia, he enjoyed the companionship of his son Frank, who made the trip into Florida with him. He is now returning home and is expected to reach Westminster in a day or two. Unfortunately he took a very severe cold and was quite ill for several days; but kept up and continued his tour and is being rapidly restored to health.

Proceedings of County Commissioners.

The Commissioners were in session on Monday and Tuesday, 18th and 19th inst. The following, among other business, was transacted: James W. White, Hezekiah Hahn and Hamilton Singer were appointed examiners to open and locate a county road in Middleburg and Taneytown districts, upon the petition of John A. Martin and twenty-two others. A special pension of $10 was granted to Margaret Dayhoff, of district No. 1, and a special pension of $5 to Augustus Barney, of district No. 2.

Death of Mrs. Wm. Bachman and Her Son, David W. Bachman.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bachman, wife of Mr. Wm. Bachman, of Bachman's Mills, died at her home, on Monday morning, 18th inst., about 11 o'clock, after an illness of several weeks, aged 70 years, 1 month and 3 days. She was the mother of David W. Bachman, whose death was briefly announced in last week's SENTINEL, an event which doubtless hastened her demise. She was then ill and made the request that the remains of her son should not be taken to their last resting-place without giving her an opportunity to look once more upon his face. The casket containing his body was therefore taken from his residence, near by, to his father's house, on Saturday morning, and placed by his mother's bedside, while funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. M. Eyster, of Manchester, after which interment was made at the cemetery of Bachman's Church. Mrs. Bachman apparently bore this sad bereavement with fortitude and resignation, but it must have been a serious shock in her enfeebled condition. David Bachman was a most excellent man and his early death, leaving a wife and two little children, was necessarily a sad blow to his parents and friends. But scarcely more than 48 hours elapsed before the loving mother went to join her son in the world beyond. These bereavements fall with especial severity upon the surviving husband and father. Mr. and Mrs. Bachman were married in March, 1837, and had lived together nearly fifty-two years. She was a most excellent and amiable woman, a loving wife and faithful mother, and her surviving children bless her memory. She united with the Reformed Church in early life, of which she was a consistent member about 54 years. She was a daughter of the late Frederick Bixler, of Manchester. Her funeral services were held in Bachman's Church, by Rev. C. M. Eyster, pastor of the Manchester charge of the Lutheran Church, after which the remains were interred in the cemetery of the church. Her husband and several sons and daughters, among whom is Mrs. Samuel Cover, of Westminster, survive her.

For the SENTINEL.

Bravery of the Maryland Brigade.

The following statement may be interesting to some of the members of the old Maryland Brigade, Second Division, Fifth Army Corps:

On the morning of August 18th, 1864, the brigade left camp near Petersburg, Va., and marched to the Yellow House, 6 miles south of Petersburg, when it was immediately thrown into line of battle, facing west, which position was occupied for about one hour. This line consisted of the 1st and 7th regiments, the 4th and 8th regiments having been deployed as skirmishers in front of the line. The enemy, changing his position, made a demonstration from the north, from the direction of Petersburg, when the brigade was moved to the right and the front changed to suit the new position. On this new line the Maryland brigade, which in the first position taken by it was separate, now found itself on the left of the other brigades of the second division. Immediately after getting into the new position the enemy charged the entire line with a large force and drove back the brigades on the right, leaving the Maryland brigade exposed on both flanks, thereby forcing upon it the necessity of falling back to prevent capture. After falling back, about four hundred yards, and clearing its flanks, a stand was made and the line of the brigade once more advanced, driving the enemy until a suitable position was reached, which position it held for nearly two hours and until it was regularly relieved by other troops. When relieved the men were nearly out of ammunition, and in some instances the fire was kept up by getting cartridges from the boxes of the killed and wounded of the brigade. It was a fair, stand-up fight, neither party having the advantage of breastworks, and the fire from our line was so severe that the enemy was compelled to fall back. The dead in front of the brigade showed very plainly where the hardest fighting took place.

General Ayres, as brave a man as there was in the army, complimented the brigade for the stubborn fight it had made, and sent word to Col. Dushane to tell his men that they had done nobly, nobly indeed. In other fights, being behind breastworks with other troops, nothing was done the glory of which all are not entitled to share. The above is a plain statement without attempting to improperly eulogize any particular man or regiment.

Below is a correct list of casualties which occurred in the 4th Regiment Md. Vol. Infantry, Col. R. N. Bowerman commanding, from May 4th, 1864, to July 30th, 1864.

A Social Party.

A delightful social party was given by Mrs. Theodore Englar, at her residence near this city, to her niece, Miss Carrie Schaeffer, daughter of Mr. Charles Schaeffer, on Thursday evening. The evening was spent with music, games and dancing. A refreshment table, handsomely decorated and laden with a profusion of the good things of life added to the general enjoyment of the evening, which will be long remembered by the participants as a most delightful one. Mrs. Samuel Roop added much to the pleasure of the occasion by singing several beautiful selections in a charming manner. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schaeffer, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roop, Mrs. Dr. L. Woodward, daughter Lilly and son Louie, Misses Annie Cassell, Lilian Erb, Bertie Keen, Rose Orndorff, Minnie Orndorff, Florence Albaugh, Lizzie Nusbaum, Julia Yingling, Georgia Franklin, Ida Diffenbaugh, Messrs. Last Saturday evening Miss Bertha, youngest daughter of William H. and Sarah Lightner, gave an entertainment to her young friends, it being the occasion of her ninth birthday. Little Bertha had but recently recovered from a severe attack of typhoid fever. She was confined to her bed for nearly two months, and at one time no hope of her recovery was entertained. Owing to the inclemency of the weather only a few of her young friends were present, viz: Misses Euphemia Heilman, Estelle Shoemaker, Douglas and Phebe Newcomer, Fannie Null and Carrie M. Fowble. At half-past six Miss Bertha, dressed in white, entered the parlor, accompanied by her sister, Miss Minnie B. Lightner, who said, "This evening Bertha is nine years old, and it is in honor of her birthday that we have this gathering. Bertha will now entertain you with a little speech." The speech is so appropriate for a little girl that we give it in full:

A little girl I am, indeed,
And little do I know;
Much help and care I yet shall need,
That I may wiser grow.
If I would ever hope to do
Things great and good, and useful, too,
But even now I ought to try
To do what good I may;
God did not mean that such as I
Should only live to play,
And talk and laugh, and eat and drink,
And sleep and wake, and never think.
I may, if I have but the mind,
Do good in many ways;
Plenty to do the young may find
In these our busy days;
Sad would it be, though young and small,
If I were of no use at all.
One gentle word that I may speak,
Or one kind, loving deed,
May, though a trifle poor and weak,
Prove like a tiny seed;
And who can tell what good may spring
From such a very little thing?
Then let me try each day and hour
To act upon this plan:
What little good is in my power,
To do it while I can.
If to be useful thus I try,
I may do better by and by.

The happy little party spent the evening very pleasantly, engaged in different games and singing, Miss Euphemia Heilman presiding at the organ. After enjoying themselves for some time they were invited to the dining-room, where refreshments were served by the mother. At a late hour the guests bade Miss Bertha good night and took their leave, highly delighted with their visit.

The general topic of conversation, at present, is about the White Caps.

J. V. Eckenrode's little daughter, Nead, is seriously ill.

Dr. E. B. Simpson is confined to his bed.

Miss Frances Shellman, who had an attack of typhoid fever, is able to be up again.

White Caps in Frederick County.

Rumor has it that there is a notice tacked on a corner post at the Cross Roads, one mile south of here on the Woodsboro road, which has created some little excitement among the people. Among other things the notice says: "Any young man seen on the road after 12 o'clock will be doomed to ——

John Pittinger, living near Haugh's Church, was the victim of a good joke played by his brother Milton. John went out to spend the evening, and when he returned his brother had prepared a man made a of bundle of corn-fodder and some old clothes, and stood it near the yard gate. John drove up and demanded of the man to account for his being there at so late an hour of the night. The man made no reply; so John drew his revolver and shot the supposed individual through the body. You can imagine John's fright and his subsequent surprise when he discovered the truth.

O. D. Birely recently received a severe bruise, caused by a log rolling on his foot, but is able to be out again.

Frank Dotterer and some others had a lot of ice worked out on the banks of Double Pipe Creek but the sudden high water washed it away. Their houses were only about half filled.

J. W. Weant, who was sick, is again seen on our streets.

Since the sudden demise of our hotel man, Mr. John S. Weybright has opened a public boarding house.

Frank Stoner, of Frederick city, was recently in town searching for personal property which was but is not here now.

The two champions, as they term themselves, of Feeserburg, came to this place to play euchre and the result was they were beaten. What a pity some one did not not advise them not to venture on the game so far from home.

Our school has been closed for the last few days on account of the sickness and death of the wife of our school teachers Mr. Charles Reindollar. Mrs. Reindollar's remains were interred in the Haugh's Church cemetery.

In dancing, and pleasant conversation, the hours fled swiftly away, and after refreshments the guests retired to their homes greatly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Geo. E. Albaugh, of Richmond, Va., is visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

The festival held at Geo. W. Robinson's, at Roseville, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of last week, for the benefit of Leister's Church, was well attended by both old and young, and was quite a success.

Phosphorus.

This chemical is obtained from calcined bones by treating them with sulphuric acid; the liquid then being mixed with charcoal is evaporated to dryness and the residue distilled; the phosphorus passes off and is collected under water. It is very inflammable and ignites, when exposed to the atmosphere, with great heat.

The numerous fires in this and adjoining counties, of late, has drawn much attention towards this chemical, it being one of the various theories that this is the substance used to produce combustion; but the plausibility of this theory has been disputed by many.

Let us look at the physical properties of phosphorus for a moment.

1st. It always ignites, with great heat, when exposed to the atmosphere, and, consequently, must be kept under water.

2d. It is soluble in alcohol, ether, volatile oils, and carbon bi-sulphide, the latter solution being an oily substance and nearly as spontaneous a combustible as the chemical itself.

From these facts we see that the party, or parties, engaged in these nefarious acts, could not use this substance by itself, but, knowing it will keep under water, it seems probable the following plan could be adopted:

A stick of phosphorus, about the length and size of the first finger, may be placed in a shallow vessel with just enough water to protect it from atmospheric action, the vessel being surrounded with gunpowder and placed in some unfrequented portion of the barn that is proposed to be burned. The notice then being written the perpetrators can leave the rest to nature. In the course of a few hours, the time depending on the amount of water used and the weather, whether dry or damp, the water, evaporating, exposes the phosphorus to the air, the upper portion ignites, and the heat thus produced hastens the evaporation of the remaining water, and the whole stick, being left exposed, is set afire by the oxygen of the air, exploding the surrounding gunpowder, and the conflagration follows.

There is still uneasiness and apprehension in this community in regard to the subject of incendiary fires, and any unusual noise leads to prompt examination of the barns. Many think that the operations of the incendiaries have been curtailed by fear of detection on account of the brilliant moonlight and the slight snow in which depredators might have been tracked. A recurrence of these operations is now apprehended.

At the sale of Henry Berwager's stock and farming implements, on Saturday last, fair prices were realized.

A royal time was experienced by the members of the Reformed Mite Society on Monday evening last at the meeting which took place at the hospitable residence of Dr. J. H. Preston. A fine program, which included tableaux, charades and singing, had been arranged by Mr. C. W. Motter and his colaborers and a fine entertainment was the result. The attendance was the largest at any meeting of the society. Among the tableaux the Widow and the Angel, Pocahontas Saving Captain Smith, and Washington and the Irishman, were worthy of especial mention. Seen by the colored light they were very impressive and well deserved the applause accorded. It would be injustice to neglect mention of the charade by Misses Trump, Ross, Crouse and Mr. C. W. Motter. The moving tableau, Going to the Inauguration, was given in fine style, but the return exhibited so many signs of the presence and influence of John Barleycorn, that a collision occurred with a three-story lamp, which was entirely demolished. The scare over and the wreck cleared away, matters were soon put in proper trim by the excellent music, and the liberal collection that followed indicates that all were well pleased and would long remember the hospitality of the Dr. and his estimable lady.

Rev. Groh filled the appointments of the Manchester charge of the Reformed Church on Sunday last.

On last Monday night the band of this place was out on a serenading errand. The band in question is familiarly known by the name of "Calithumpians," and their business was a visit to the home of the newly wedded couple, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Barnes. The band comprised about 60 members and the instruments they used were horns, tin-pans, sleigh-bells and all manner of implements with which noise could be produced. They report that they were kindly received and generously treated to cake and cider, and had a pleasant time. After the band retired quite a social party gathered and spent the evening until midnight very enjoyably, when all retired to their homes very much pleased at the kind treatment received.

Gorsuch, and Miss Alverta Lamotte presided with great skill at the organ.

Near Trevanian Mills, this county, February 9th, 1889, after a lingering illness, Anna Mary, beloved wife of Samuel Fair, aged 73 years and 8 days.

How long she struggled 'gainst disease,
Which baffled skill and care,
And long she lingered, racked with pain,
And suffering hard to bear.

And yet, through all, at times, she'd smile,
A smile of Heavenly birth;
And, when the angels called her home,
She smiled farewell to earth.

What is home without a mother?
'Tis our cottage robbed of flowers,
Where our broken, bleeding hearts,
Will spend many lonely hours.

We have laid her in the silent grave,
Beside her mother dear to rest;
We know her happy spirit now
Is roaming with the blest.

Heaven retaineth now our treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps;
And the sunbeams love to linger
Where our sainted Anna sleeps.

BY HER HUSBAND.

In Memoriam of Mrs. Edwin W. Shriver, who died Feb. 5th, 1889.

Across the rising sunlights' purple way
Unseen by our dim eyes, God's Angel came,
And in the early hours of new born day
Leaned down and gently whispered her sweet name;
His snow-white wings drooped o'er the dainty face
We'd learned to love, for its dear, winsome grace.

'Neath that caress, still grew the tired one
Her speaking eyes lost from their depths, the light
Of the pure soul; her spirit glad begun
With the Celestial Messenger, its flight;
Far past the valley shadows darksome way
Into the Beulah Land of endless Day!

Gone from our life as fade the Summer flowers,
A little while we see their lovely forms,
Their brief existence for a time is ours,
Then droop their heads beneath cold wintry storms;
But ah! lost human flowers of our love
We'll find transplanted in the Realms above!

We miss her merrie laugh, and graceful ways,
We listen for her footsteps airy tread,
They come no more to brighten dreary days,
The happy friend we loved, alas! is dead!
Gone! gone! the moaning winds sob low to-night,
Past all return, gone from our longing sight.

No more fond hands will feel the tender thrill
Of slender fingers closing lightly o'er,
No more the music of her voice will fill
The lonely hearts she's left forevermore!
But grieve not as you lay her down to rest
Life's but a fevered dream, and God knows best.

He sees the tears that blind the aching eyes,
He knows the pain that stirs the troubled heart
And he will send a solace from the skies,
He gives, and He alone has power to part;
She's joined her dear ones passed from Earth before;
Love would not call her back from Heaven's shore!

Farewell! the Southern winds she loved below,
Will murmur oft their requiem o'er her grave,
When through tall tree-tops sifts the winter snow
Or summer zephyrs sighing softly wave;
Leave her to slumber undisturbed and deep,
'God giveth to His own beloved, Sleep!'

Obituary.

Mrs. Edwin W. Shriver, who had been ill since January, died at her residence, Ozone Park, on Tuesday morning, February 5th. Her body was taken to Westminster, Md., for burial. Mrs. Shriver was a most devoted wife, a true friend and kind neighbor, and long will her bright face and cheerful voice be missed by the large circle of friends who knew and appreciated her worth; and who deeply sympathize with Mr. Shriver in his sad bereavement. The following impromptu lines were written by her nephew, Wm. M. Weller, a few hours after her body reached Westminster for interment. Mr. Weller is but 17 years old, and is a promising student in the graduating class at Western Maryland College:

The evening was wintry, the air keen and chill,
The horses step lightly their mission to fill,
But hush! step more lightly, the hearse now draws near,
In the fast waning twilight, so solemn and drear!

Oh! death, thou art ruthless, your work is complete,
Come gloat o'er thy victory, your own praise repeat,
The house is familiar, the doors open wide,
But there enters a corpse where before came a bride!

How swiftly does memory in flight bear us back,
It is five years before and the night just as black,
'Tis blustery and cold, but o'er all pleasure rides,
There is welcome and joy for the "Boys and their brides."

But why comes to-night this sad funeral car
Drawing back to this home, those glad memories to mar,
'Tis because the young wife entreatingly said
"Back to father and home, you will take me when dead!"

So that parlor to-night, the very same room,
In the place of that pleasure is crowded with gloom;
For yesterday morning, a spirit so free
Was lightly borne forth, as the tide rushed to sea.
