A SUPERIOR Drill means bigger crops

TODAY, farmers everywhere acknowledge the SUPERIOR to be the best drill made. Their fathers said the same thing. So did their grandfathers. The SUPERIOR has always been a better drill. Every worthwhile grain drill improvement in the last fifty years has been a SUPERIOR improvement. And now the SUPERIOR is even better than before.

Note these SUPERIOR Features

No other grain drill combines these — and many more — outstanding improvements: Double-run force feed insures precision feeding—perfect timing—even spacing. No seeds cracked or wasted. No skipping or bunching. Made in both plain grain and fertilizer grain models. For team or tractor. Single disc, double disc, or hoe furrow openers. Special design for every type of soil. Hyatt roller bearings and Alemite lubrication prevent wear on moving parts—make drill last longer—provide lighter draft—make it easier to operate.

Come In and See It

These are some of the reasons why the SUPERIOR Drill means bigger crops—why it pays for itself in the extra bushels of grain you get at threshing time. Come in and see the improved SUPERIOR Drill. Do this before you sow your next crop.

NUTRITION HAS GIFT FOR ALL

Something for everybody Who doesn't remember those dearly loved visitors of youth arriving with a gift for every single member of the family? No one was forgotten and no one was left out. Nutrition is just such a visitor, father, mother, son, daughter, baby, not one is overlooked. It antedates even the baby for the unborn may also profit.

The health of the expectant mother and the baby-to-be are closely related. That is why diet is so important during this period. From it she takes the elements to make her bones, her hair, all her tissues. The same store supplies also the infant. Should her food be deficient, the child does not suffer at first. Nature protects the little one by depriving the mother of the needed material.

That is why some women's teeth and hair suffer or the results of other deficiencies in bodily structure make their appearance. Should there still not be sufficient even then, the child begins to be affected next. Diet deficiencies react first on the mother and then on the baby.

Pre-natal nutrition, then, is very important, the minerals and vitamins in milk, fruits, green vegetables, whole grain products; the protein in eggs, cheese, meat nuts or legumes; the non-digestible fibers supplying bulk and thus stimulating the intestines to activity; and some starches, sugar and butter or other fat as well as from two to four pints of water a day are all needed. While it is not necessary for a woman to over-eat she has to remember that she must supply the materials for her own and her child's bodily structures.

The same is true of the nursing mother. Up to the time the baby is weaned, she has to supply the necessary elements for them both. Having made a habit of a larger appetite to safeguard herself and her child, it is difficult when the need is over to reduce the quantity eaten. That is why so many women put on weight after motherhood. They can avoid this if they will put persist in eating smaller quantities after the baby is weaned. At first, it may take a little will power because the body is a creature of habit but soon it will change this and when another habit is established smaller meals will be found ample.

For children, boys as well as girls, it is the growth promoting foods that are especially important. Those foods with vitamins and mineral salts (fruits and green vegetables) should always be in the daily diet but the protein for tissue building (eggs, cheese, or meat) and the starches (bread, potatoes or rice), sugar and butter or other fat for energy must not be forgotten. Milk is an eternal standby. The ideal quantity for each child is a quart a day.

Fathers have to remember that heart and kidney diseases and high blood pressure are sadly prevalent in the United States today. Food and exercise must be proportionate, otherwise overweight will strain the heart and other evils will follow. Too much protein must not be eaten much meat for instance when the diet also includes eggs and cheese. The body cannot store it as it does the carbohydrates which make their appearance in unwelcome fat. So it has to be eliminated which process puts a strain on the kidneys. Two ounces a day are all that is needed.

So it is seen that from nutrition everyone will profit. It has a gift from its store of knowledge for each and all.

MIRIAM KINCHELOE,
Kent County Red Cross Nutritionist.
