To the Editors of The Chestertown Transcript:

I want to thank and congratulate the writer of the "Plan for Road Improvement" which appeared in your last issue.

Here, at last, is a workable plan which will relieve us of the discomfort, expense, and inefficiency of our dirt roads.

When you think of the difference it will make in travel, hauling, school attendance, and assurance of medical aid, the additional tax required to produce these beneficial reforms seems very small.

I hope that I am not too optimistic in thinking that every Kent Countian will feel as I do and give every aid possible to the realization of this "Plan."

Mr. Editor, Sir:

The Fishing industry of Maryland is before the Legislature again this term like it has been for term after term for a long time and will continue to be until commercial fishing is no more, or Senators and Delegates get disgusted and throw out the bills that have been up so many tims and defeated. The fight of course is between commercial fishermen and a few sporting men of Baltimore City, Western Maryland, Washington and Pennsylvania.

Now, the fishermen of Kent County put in Baltimore and other markets the very best fish that are to be had anywhere, and they are put there in the best condition, and what we would like to know is what will the thousands of people that can not catch there own fish say about fish laws and who made them when they no longer can buy good fresh fish from near by waters, and have to take frozen fish from other states that are not near as good as they have been use to buying. Two years ago it cost the fishermen and their friends over $1500 to defen dthe fish and oyster industry and then lost one little law, which regulated the size of Rock Fish. The legal size rock was 10 inches and they made it 12 inches. That law cost the fishermen of Kent Co. $40,000 more and did no body any good. It did not do the sport any good because two third of the fish that were caught on hook and line last year were under 12 inches in length and very few of those two thirds were thrown back in the water.

Now, we would like to ask these same people that are trying to put us out of business why they can't catch fish in the Severn river were there are no nets and have been none there for over ten years due to a law passed years ago. A wonderful river but very few fish are caught there, not near as many as are caught where nets are used.

Now, we will have no quarrel with these people if they will only let us alone, give us back the 10 inch Rock law and propose no more fish or oyster bills in the Legislature for the next 20 years.

DEATHS

The funeral of Miss Annie Bell, who died on Saturday at the home of her niece, Miss Margaret C. Bell, on College Hill, was held Wednesday afternoon, from Miss Bell's home at 3 p. m. Services were conducted by Rev. John White, rector of Old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church. Interment was made in Old St. Paul's cemetery.

Miss Bell was 90 years old and is practically the last member of one of the oldest families in Kent county, each of whose members lived to old age.

She is survived by two nephews, William A. Bell, prominent retired farmer and Anthony Bell, of this town, and two nieces, Miss Hannah Bell, a teacher here, and Miss Margaret C. Bell, with whom she made her home.

The bearers were: Messrs. Anthony V. Bell, William A. Bell, Allison Bell, Howard Reese, Walter Crow and P. A. M. Brooks.

Mr. Charles L. Dodd, undertaker.

Mrs. Richard Lockwood, age 70 years, died at her home in Georgetown, Kent county on Thursday morning of this week, January 31st.

She was the owner of a number of fine farms in Kent and Cecil counties and is survived by her husband who is also a large property owner in these counties. She also leaves a number of nieces and nephews in this county.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow, Sunday, at the home in Georgetown at 3 p. m., interment in Galena cemetery, Rev. S. Beatty Wylee, of Wilmington officiating.

Nelson LeRoy Stevens died at his home, on North High street extended on Thursday of this week, January 31, after a lingering illness, aged 36 year. He is originally from Eastern Neck Island later moving to Philadelphia and returned to Chestertown for his health last spring.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel Stevens and one daughter, Virginia May, age 6 years. Funeral services will be held today, Saturday, at the home at 1 p. m., Rev. W. F. Corkra officiating. Interment to be in Wesley Chapel cemetery. The bearers will be: Messrs. Lloyd, Lewis, Cleveland and Charles Porter, Frank Rollison and Wilbur Mench. C. L. Dodd, undertaker.

—The Chester River Yacht and Country Club will hold its annual meeting and election of officers on Tuesday evening of next week.

Fates Proved Unkind to Spanish Explorer

Capt. Pedro De Quiros long had been intrigued by tales of a vast continent in the southwest Pacific ocean and finally conxed Phillip III, of Spain, to let him go in search of it. On July 27, 1605, at Callao, Peru, he drew a flourish under his signature, commissioning the captains of his two ships, and was ready to sail on "the discovery of the unknown austral regions of this South sea by the order of the king."

One of the captains presented himself, respectfully asking De Quiros to lay down a course for them to follow.

"Let her go as she is," returned De Quiros grimly, "God will take us somewhere!"

In the following year they sighted one of the islands of the New Hebrides group and De Quiros, under the impression that it was his long sought land, named it La Australia de Espiritu Santo. Followed sickness and discontent, the crew mutinied and forced a return to Mexico. But not before De Quiros had caught a glimpse of a long, mysterious coast line, that to this day some believe was the Australia of his dreams. Another expedition was organized by him in Spain but on reaching Panama he died of a fever and there he lies, buried in an unknown grave.—Detroit News.

Nest of Three Rooms Required for Stork

A three-roomed tenement is built by the hammer-headed stork for the housing of himself and family. He is a native of Africa and in his construction work utilizes enormous sticks which he fixes between the branches of a tree. Any ordinary boy could creep into the lowest compartment. From this a passage slopes up to another flat decorated with bright pebbles and bleached bones. Above this is the nursery, the walls of which are lined with mud to keep out drafts. A curious nest is the one the swiftlet builds in Borneo, and which is known to commerce as the edible nest of the Chinese gourmet. The bird builds in caverns around the coasts, and nest-seekers go with torches and tear them down and export them. It is said that edible nests to the value of $1,500,000 are imported into China every year. The nest is woven from a secretion the bird produces—hence its food value.

Pity the Poor Dog

Gramophone needles and other painful things are often found in dogs' paws, according to a notice issued by the British National Canine Defense league. A dog had been limping for some weeks without any visible cause. A searching examination revealed the presence in his paw of a wild oat completely hidden under the skin. On removal the oat was found to have germinated in the dog's paw, showing a distinctly healthy green shoot.
