The ladies of the Fairlee Community who cooperate with Miss Schellinger in the Home Demonstration Work put on a Style Show, and some effective and educational work at the May meeting of the Fairlee Farm Bureau Local. The work of the Home Demonstration Agent was dramatized also the function of the Local Leader who helped those unable to attend the monthly meetings to receive the instruction. Basic principals in making use of a "foundation pattern" was well demonstrated Next came the Style Show in which dresses made in accord with instructions were demonstrated by the ladies who made them. Four exhibits of house dress were very commendable and with very little margin between any of them. Nine afternoon dresses revealed skill and good taste. The judges, with serious mien and "straight eye," after due deliberation and careful consideration announced the winners and pinned on the blue and red ribbons emblematic of first and second prizes.

The judges were: Messrs. Harry Williams, Harry Stavely and B. F. Rash.

The Misses Louise Startt and Jane White in colonial costume entertained with a minuet The contrast between Miss Startt's gown and the 1929 conservation model, impressed all anew with the fact that "disarmament" in dress is more apparent than in International Relations.

In the business meeting Mrs. Isaac Dixon reported on her observations in Washington relative to Farm Relief and possible effect of the Debenture Bill if it becomes a law.

SPORTS OF WEEK

LACROSS GAME TODAY

Sport fans will have an opportunity to see Washington College Lacrosse team in action this afternoon when they meet the strong Mt. Washington team, of Baltimore on the local field.

Mt. Washington is an independant club and the team is composed mostly of ex-college stars. It is considered one of the best Lacrosse teams in the country.

This will complete the first Lacrosse season at Washington College and although only one victory is credited it may well be called a successful season. The showing made against experienced teams was creditable and coach Beatty had only green material to work on. No member of the team had played Lacrosse before the season opened and the majority of them had not seen a game. With one years experience to their credit, there is a possibility of a winning team next year.

Washington College and Mt. St. Mary's were scheduled to meet on the base ball diamond yesterday at the time of going to press. This game represents two of the only three state colleges that have base ball teams this year and it is regrettable the lack of interest being shown by the public in base ball at W. C. this season. This lack of interest is certainly not due to inferior ball teams as ever since Coach J. T. Kibler has been directing athletics at the college there has been a first class team in the field. It is to be hoped that base ball will not be discontinued as a major college sport, but the interest shown this year is very disheartening to both players and directors of the team. A game next week with Temple University and the Alumni game on June 8th will wind up the base ball season.

"LIARS' LICENSES" ISSUED

The anglers' season has opened in Virginia according to a despatch from Richmond, published in the Baltimore Sun this week. These licenses give the fishermen a wide range and should not be confined to Virginia because from our personal knowledge some of our Maryland fishermen are entitled to the same consideration as the Virginia fishermen. The dispatch follows:

"Richmond, Va., May 20—Virginia fishermen are free to use as much imagination as they please in recounting fish stories, for they are now being given additional protection by "liars" licenses.

"A large number of these licenses, issued by a western firm have been obtained by anglers in Virginia, it was learned today. As a result it is suspected that more and bigger fish than ever will be caught in Virginia streams this season.

Elastic Rulers Permitted

"The license 'empowers' the bearer to 'lie, prevaricate, and show every other recklessness with the truth, considered expedient by him, in connection with all matters relative to fish and fishing, for the current season.'

"The regulations provide that the bearer may use elastic rulers, borrowed or rented fish and that the scales for weighing fish may be "doctored."

"Commenting on these licenses, Mack Hart, of Richmond, well known sportsman, said that these "liars' licenses" probably would prove helpful to Virginia fishermen.

Defines "Liar"

"He asserted, however, that anglers are not liars in the harsh intepretation of that word, and that a lie is an untruth with malice aforethought.

"He added that no angler ever told an untruth with malice and since no one is deceived by anything he may tell he therefore does not lie."
