IN MEMORIUM

In loving memory of my mother, Catherine M. Potts, who "passed beyond where we can see," May 28, 1922:

Time brings not death, it brings but changes;
I know she lives, but lives afar,
Today some other planet ranges
And lives tonight upon a star
Whre all her other dear ones are.

For there were those who went before her,
As there are those she leaves behind;
Although from us time's changes bore her,
Out there our dear one still will find
The kinship of the comrade mind.

Time brings us change and leaves us fretting;
We weep when ev'ry dear one goes—
Perhaps too much. perhaps forgetting
That over yonder there are those
To whom she comes and whom she knows.

Not weaker now our chain, but stronger;
In all our loss and all our ill
We now shall look a little longer
At ev'ry star above the hill
And think of her and have her still.

Daughter, Mary E. Thompson,
Woodbury, New Jersey.
