It is funny sometimes how things work out. This matter of the Chester River Regatta for instance. It was agreed to keep it a simple affair this year, with all the activities around the Club and nothing at Love Point.

As it turned out it was not a simple regatta at all, but one of the best, and some say the best, the Chester River has seen.

The chief events were the sail boat classes, and the entries were more numerous than ever before. The breeze was light, only strong enough to escape a drifting match, and offered opportunity to display real sailing skill.

When the breezes are just right the rawest novice can sail. But when the breeze is too light or too heavy it takes real skill to navigate.

The star boat races on Friday were a particularly interesting demonstration of sailing skill. Right at the start Captain Gibson's red star shot into the lead and kept it. Under the sailing conditions his seamanship was masterly, and no prize was ever won more fairly by better sailing.

The sixteen foot class free for all was won by Dorsey Hines, with Buddy Wilson and Jack Kibler taking second place. Dorsey's craft was a hybrid thing, carrying two masts and a canoe rigging

Buddy and Jack showed considerable resentment for a few minutes after the race.

'It's not fair,' Jack exclaimed, 'If Dorsey did not have two masts, we would have won.'

So someone had to explain carefully to the youthful salts that every rig is fair in a free for all so long as the hull conforms to the length specified. Later when the prizes were distributed the boys were considerably mollified. To show too great satisfaction was beneath the dignity of ten year olds. Striving to hide the grin of pleasure behind a mask of sophistication, Buddy Wilson pumped the bilge pump just presented as the prize and remarked.

'To you suppose it will work.'

Neither Buddy nor Jack appeared to realize that Dorsey was bound to win because he took along his setter dog, Pat, as mascot. Pat certainly has pretty boat manners.

Visiting yachtsmen and contenders arriving early brought glowing tales of a beautiful yacht achored off Bookers Wharf. Speculations and rumors about her were thick as rag weed in a wheat field. By and by she came up river and joined the gallery.

No community appreciates a hand some boat more than the Chester River. No community is less cursed with envy and more endorsed with the camaraderie of the boatmen.

The yacht in question, Paulo Reese II, belongs to Mr. W. S. Hatchitt, a newcomer in Queen Annes. It is 92 feet long, and the Chester River fraternity is waiting to clasp the Paulo Reese to its bosom with the same friendliness shown to Gilbert Ingersol's Barnegat, Mrs. Young's speed boat, Simon Westcott's Half Pint, or Mr. DuPont's High Tide. Large or small, slow or speedy, they all are Chester River boats, and all are criticised, bragged about, claimed and admired.

The Chester River is too modest, the dwellers along its shore too genuine to attract those to whom show and ostentation are necessary. For this reason the larger, handsome boats are apt to have their home ports elsewhere. So is gratifying to have the Paulo Reese slip into our midst as modestly and as unassumingly as a new fisherman's boat.

This town of ours. The town passed an ordinance prohibiting trucks from using Water street between High and Maple Ave., Thursday and Friday of this week they have stationed officer Bennett there to see that it is enforced He is really enforcing it too.

Tacked to the sign which warns trucks a resident found a rough card sign reading thus:

'He who enters here:
Leave all hope behind
Unless you wear rubber sole's and heels.

Lest you disturb the peace and transquility of those who reside between Main and Fish St.'

By order of Slumber Council
Slumbers.

A resident of the street took it down to keep it for a souvenir. The next night another one was there. I wonder if there will still be another one tonight.

Fish street is the original name for Maple Ave. on the layout of the town.

It has been rumored for some time that Chestertown was to have a liquor store. The present Kent County law limits licenses to drug stores and grocery stores.

Efforts have been made by people wanting to go into the business, to buy some of the already established grocery business. Then efforts have been made to get a country groceryman to come into town and open up.

The latest report is that an established store up town under the same management is thinking about trying to get a license. We will probably have another hearing.

Not intending to infringe on the Squadron Log but the regatta this year was the best we have ever had in many ways. We have had more visiting yachts but never as many racing motor boats.

Young Bob Harrison and his gang had charge of planning and running the cut board events. Entries covered a wide territory and all the contestants seemed delighted with the way it was handled.

Entries in all the events were large. More than even the famous Miles River Regatta had. Mr. Sidney Turner was in charge of the committee securing entries and the result of his good work was shown the day of the regatta.

The trophy committee had it hard as they had such a short time in which to work. They did their work well and next year we hope to have better trophies. Mr. Hartman and his committee had a tough proposition but they managed to come through.

The program committee of Neal Truslow and Jesse Maxwell secured more advertising than ever before.

The Race Committee headed by Me ssrs. Thomas Kibler, Hynson Rogers, Marion deK. Smith and Mr. Hartman handled the running of the races without hardly a squark from the contestants.

Phil Wilmer had two dances that were wows and the visiting yachtsmen and contestants all reported a good time and that they intended to return.

Good sportsmanship on the part of local boat owners was also a big help. Mr. Grieb and Junny Strong knowing they were outclassed raced just the same. Raymond Sparks 'Scam' had Mrs. Frances Young scared that he would invade the 75 H. P. class. Mrs. Young's son won their cup with five in the field.

Next year the Regatta committee is planing to get to work earlier and do even better.

Bill—I wish I had a great big farm cows, and chickens and everything.

Jim—You'd give me a job wouldn't you Bill?

Bill—Naw If your to lazy to wish you can't work for me.

LEGAL INTRODUCTION

The Social Wanderer

Dear Roamer,

Did you ever have that 'after the ball is over' feeling? Well, I think that is what most everyone, including myself, has this week a general let down. The Regatta went off with a bang, literally and otherwise, and everybody I have seen had a marvelous time. The dances were a huge success in addition to the races and all that went on beside. So now it is a memory once more, and a dream till 1935. A few lucky people, did not have to sit and think it all over and wonder what would be next, however, and these fortunate folk, simply packed up and hied themselves away bright and early in the week. Mrs. Frank Hines left Monday for Ocean City to be the guest there of Mrs. Rodger Wilson, while Mrs. C. Beck Jones, who also went there, will be the guest of Mrs. William Bryan. On Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Perkins answered the call of the north, and left to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Stone in Pittsfield, Mass. Mrs. Wm. B. Usilton, III, liked the job of chaperoning so much that she resumed that capacity on Monday when she took under her wing, Barbee Humphries, Bus Rowe, Nancy Jean Usilton and Jimmy Johns, and hurried away to Rehobeth for a two week's stay at the Rowe Cottage. Other members of the young crowd will be there from time to time. It all sounds like a hard ? life doesn't it? I'd call it a general exodus.

Elizabeth Mahool, whom I wrote you was coming to visit Virginia Jones this week, arrived on Tuesday, and on Wednesday, her hostess gave a luncheon, bridge, shower in her honor. Miss Mahool's approaching wedding in the fall, will be an event of much interest to her many friends here.

Mrs. George Smith also came Tuesday to visit Mrs. James G. Beck. Miss Neale Walker left her Monday to visit friends in Phliadelphia for a week. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perkins are visiting relatives and friends in the Quaker City also, while Mrs. Laurence Brown who has been visiting relatives in Boston will return Sunday after a two week's trip.

Mr. ad Mrs. Sam Emory and Mrs. William G. Usilton, recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Beck have returned from Ocean City.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Collins, Jr., will leave Saturday for Ocean City to visit Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel D. Sollers who are there for two weeks. It seems like every other item I mention has Ocean City for its destination, and you wonder if there is anyone left who hasn't been, if not there, or isn't expecting to go, this summer. I do.

Herman Massey, Jr., motored here recently from Westport, L. I., and on his return he was accompanied by his father and aunt, Miss Minnie Massey who will spend a little of the fast waning summer there.

Margaret Adkinson, of New York is here visiting out at the Emory place, Piney Grove, and her mother is coming any day. She may be already here by now. Mrs. Jack Clendaniel, of Baltimore, is also in the county visiting out at Mrs. Earle Nicholson's.

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Beachly have left for a week's visit to Atlantic City, and you know how I envy them, for as the Radio announcer says 'The World's Favorite Playground,' so 'tis mine.

Bessie and Josephine Dixon have already left for the Adirondacks where they will be guests of their grandmother, Mrs Isaac Dixon Mrs. Wm. T. Dixon, their mother will leave Saturday with her son, Bill, and stay at Bill's camp up there, which I imagine will be heaps of fun.

But now I must leave you, and it seems to me I hear the wild waves calling unto me. They beckon me very seldom and I must not miss the opportunity to answer their summons.

Yours afloat,
THE WANDERER

"Sez you," snapped the other. "You are a cheat and a liar."

"Come, come," broke in the judge. "Let the case proceed now that the learned counsel have identified each other."
