Light in the Sickroom.

B. W. Richardson, M. D., in the Scientific American says: Still a custom prevails, despite all our sanitary teachings, that the occupant of the sickroom in the private house should be kept at all hours in a darkened room. Not one time in ten do we enter a sickroom in the daytime to find it blessed with the light of the sun. Almost invariably, before we can get a look at the face of the patient, we are obliged to request that the blinds may be drawn up, in order that the rays of a much greater healer than the most able physician can ever hope to be may be admitted. Too often the compliance with this request reveals a condition of room which, in a state of darkness, is almost inevitably one of disorder everywhere; foods, medicines, furniture, bedding misplaced; dust and stray leavings in all directions.

In brief, there is nothing so bad as a dark sickroom; it is as if attendants were anticipating the death of the patient; and, if the reason for it be asked, the answer is as inconsistent as the act. The reason usually offered is that the patient cannot bear the light; as though the light could not be cut off from the patient by a curtain or screen, and as though to darken one part of the room it were necessary to darken the whole of it. The real reason is an old superstitious practice, which once prevailed so intensely that the sick, suffering from the most terrible diseases, smallpox, for instance, were shut up in darkness, their beds surrounded with red curtains, during the whole of their illness. The red curtains are now pretty nearly given up, but darkness is still accredited with some mysterious curative virtue.

A more injurious practice really could not be maintained than that of darkness in the sickroom. It is not only that dirt and disorder are results of darkness, a great remedy is lost. Sunlight is the remedy lost, and the loss is momentous. Sunlight diffused through a room warms and clarifies the air. It has a direct influence on the minute organic poisons, a distinctive influence which is most precious, and it has a cheerful effect upon the mind. The sick should never be gloomy, and in presence of the light the shadows of gloom fly away. Happily the hospital ward, notwithstanding its many defects, and it has many, is so far favored that it is blessed with the light of the sun, whenever the sun shines. In private practice the same remedy ought to be extended to the patients of the household, and the first words of the physician or surgeon on entering the dark sickroom should be the dying words of Goethe, "More light, more light!"

A Simple Relief for Lung Troubles.

It has long been known that pine needle pillows would alleviate persons afflicted with lung troubles, and a Florida editor relates an incident in support of the fact as follows: During a visit to the home of a most estimable lady living on Indian River, this editor was told of a discovery that had been made which may prove a boon to sufferers from lung or bronchial troubles. This lady having heard that there was peculiar virtue in a pillow made from pine straw, and having none of that material at hand, made one from fine, soft, pine shavings, and had the pleasure of noting immediate benefit. Soon all the members of the household had pine shavings pillows, and it was noticed that all coughs, asthmatic or bronchial troubles abated at once after sleeping a few nights on these pillows. An invalid suffering with lung trouble derived much benefit from sleeping upon a mattress made from pine shavings. The material is cheap and makes a very pleasant and comfortable mattress, the odor of the pine permeating the entire room and absorbing or dispelling all unpleasant odors.

Heart Failure.

"It would be an excellent idea," says the Manchester Union, "if physicians of the present day would invent some other reason for about all of the deaths which occur nowadays than the cheap fraud, 'heart failure.' This might not be of serious moment were it not for the fact that hundreds of people are being nearly frightened to death by the constant use of the cause for sudden deaths, and many people who are sick, and necessarily have some heart symptom, are kept in constant terror by reading or hearing in other ways of death after death by heart failure. There are probably no more deaths from heart failure in these times than heretofore, but a new cause for death has been coined, and the nervous and timid are being severely injured by it." We would suggest that hereafter physicians use the term "cardiac asthenia," which has a learned sound and means just the same. The immediate cause of death in many diseases being, in fact, "heart failure," we do not see how otherwise the "nervous and timid" can be protected.

An Indiana lawyer lately defended a man for keeping his saloon open after 10 o'clock at night. He made the plea that it was 10 o'clock until it was 11, and won his case.

The Effect of Tight Clothing.

The London Lancet says: Now that rational ideas as to dress have acquired a definite place in public esteem, it may be imagined that the practice of tight lacing and customs of a like nature, if known at all, are not what they used to be. A case of sudden death lately reported from Birmingham proves that it is still too early to indulge in such illusory ideas. The deceased, a servant girl of excitable temperament, died suddenly in an epileptoid fit, and the evidence given before the coroner respecting her death attributed the fatal issue to asphyxia, due in a great measure to the fact that both neck and waist were unnaturally constricted by her clothing, the former by a tight collar, the latter by a belt worn under the stays. We have here certainly those very conditions which would lead us to expect the worst possible consequences from a convulsive seizure. There is no organ of the body whose free movement is at such times more important than the heart. Yet here we find, on the one hand, its movement hampered by a tight girdle so placed that it could with difficulty be undone at a critical moment; on the other, a contrivance admirably adapted to allow the passage of blood to the brain, while impeding its return. This is no isolated case as regards its essential character, though, happily, somewhat singular in its termination. Minor degrees of asphyxiation, we fear, are still submitted to by a good many self-torturing children of vanity. The tight corset and the high heel still work mischief on the bodies of their devoted wearers. Taste and reason, indeed, combine to deprecate their injurious and vulgar bondage, and by no means unsuccessfully. Still, the evil maintains itself. Cases like that above mentioned ought to, if they do not, open the eyes of some self worshipers of the other sex, who heedlessly strive by such means to excel in a sickly grace. We would strongly impress on all of this class the fact that beauty is impossible without health, and would advise them, in the name of taste as well as comfort, to avoid those methods of contortion, one and all, by which elegance is only caricatured, and health may be painfully and permanently injured.

How and When to Drink Water.

According to Dr. Lenf, when water is taken into the full or partly full stomach, it does not mingle with the food, as we are taught, but passes along quickly between the food and lesser curvative toward the pylorus, through which it passes into the intestines. The secretion of mucus by the lining membrane is constant, and during the night a considerable amount accumulates in the stomach; some of its liquid portion is absorbed, and that which remains is thick and tenacious. If food is taken into the stomach when in this condition it becomes coated with this mucus, and the secretion of the gastric juice and its action are delayed. These facts show the value of a goblet of water before breakfast. This washes out the tenacious mucus, and stimulates the gastric glands to secretion. In old and feeble persons water should not be taken cold, but it may be with great advantage taken warm or hot. This removal of the accumulated mucus from the stomach is probably one of the reasons why taking soup at the beginning of a meal has been found so beneficial.

A great many people still firmly believe the old notion that friction on the head stimulates the intellect, said a barber the other day, as he stropped his razor with a contemplative air. "I know several lawyers who just before they are to make a plea invariably have their crowns rubbed. They say that it not only brightens up their ideas, but gives greater power of concentration upon a single thought."

Dr. Edson sums up the etiology of typhoid fever in the following words: First, typhoid fever never infects the atmosphere; second, it never arises de novo; and third, the causes of the disease, in order of their frequency, are as follows: First, infected water; second, infected milk; third, infected ice; fourth, digital infections; fifth, infected meat.

It is said that rats are so fond of sunflower seeds that they will, if plenty, flock into the wire cage kind of a trap in such quantity as to nearly fill it. But they should be fed awhile on the seed before introducing the trap.

A Pittsburg coroner makes no charge when he sits on a young man who parts his hair in the middle. He says that his personal satisfaction is enough without the fee.

Thin party, to street urchin—"Boy, what makes that dog follow me?" The youngster casts a knowing look at him and readily replies. "Guess he takes you for a bone."

We notice a good many persons are engaged in the business of holding down store boxes. It may be a legitimate occupation, but the income is not large.

FALL 1890 AND WINTER 1889

OPENING.

S. KANN, SONS & CO.

ARE READY NOW.

We open the season with a stock that will give universal satisfaction. We never had so much nor so varied an assortment, and instead of the prices going up with the quality they come down with the competition in trade. Yes, this season's prices, in our store at least, will be under last season's prices. We must sell a great many more goods, and the best way to sell them is to sell them cheap. We would rather splice our profits and double our trade, and we are going to try it this season.

S. KANN, SONS & CO.

As we say our stock fills our store and it is general—an accommodating stock, &c.

Take our line of Dress Goods and you will find there, in all the good and desirable patterns, everything that our trade would best appreciate. DRESS STUFFS in most desirable designs and shades. Carpets in most desirable designs and wear-giving makes. White Goods and Household things in general. We have received a new line of DRESS REMNANTS, also MUSLIN, CALICO, &c., in all of which the maiden and housewife shall find much to make better feelings and happier homes, and we respectfully request an early examination of our Fall exhibits.

The Farmers' Fertilizer Company

Again calls the attention of Farmers of Carroll and adjoining counties to its large and carefully selected stock of

FERTILIZERS

Which are manufactured of PURE material only. These goods have been thoroughly tested and have in every case proven satisfactory. The company therefore feels justified in saying that its goods are the best in the county. In addition to this the company assures the farmers that its prices are the lowest for the same quality of goods of any factory, agency or house in the county for the following reasons:

1st. It buys its material from 75 cents to $2.00 per ton less than any other home companies because of buying in larger quantities.
2nd. It has no agents.
3rd. It pays no premiums and, better than all, instead of conceding a gain of from $5.00 to $10.00 only on $100 purchases it assures to every purchaser an advantage of from $2.00 to $5.00 PER TON, according to the quality of goods, less than any other establishment in the county, which is a saving of from $12.00 to $16.00 on $100 purchases.
With a view to economy the Farmers' Fertilizer Company carries no more varieties of brands than is needed for the production of a good crop. What it has, however, are pure and suited to the soils of the county.
The company will take pleasure in mixing at a reasonable cost any formula desired.
Farmers who furnish their own sacks will be allowed $1.00 for each ton of Fertilizer purchased. CASH SALES will be allowed a discount of 2 per cent.
In addition to its well known

BRANDS 1, 2 AND 3,

Three new Brands have been added, ranging in price from $17.00 to $19.00 per ton, which are from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton cheaper than any goods of the same quality on the market.
To be convinced of the truth of these declarations call at its factory and see for yourselves.
