$600,000 More For Easton Airport

Easton—Mayor Barnes received a telegram this week from Senator Radcliffe to the effect that the Government has allocated $600,000 to be used in improving the Easton airport. The original appropriation was $561,000, and now $600,000 more is set asside to be used in further improving the airport.

The grading is nearly completed and the runways are being built, the contract having been let. The present plans call for a most attractive airport, and with this additional money available it will be one of the finest on the shore.

Dover Leads In War Bond Sales

Dover—With $300 per person owning war bonds, Dover's claim for national lead remains uncontested. Palm Beach, Florida, is the only applicant which overshadows Dover, but due to the large winter population that city has been put in another class of resorts. Dover can be proud of it's leaders in this war bond effort, as it leads the nation in such an important event.

Hunter Breaks Hip

Berlin—Arthur W. Duer, Snow Hill sportsman now employed in a Baltimore Hospital, was looking forward to the 1942 hunting season with high glee. As usual, Mr. Duer took out his 1942 hunting license early, and as usual received hunting license tag No. 1 in Worcester county. But—Mr. Duer will not be able to hunt this fall. Last week he suffered a fall at the hospital, where he is employed and broke his leg.

Army Deserter Picked Up In Queen Anne's County

Centreville—William Mills, an Army deserter of two months, was picked up in Centreville by State Trooper Charles Andrew and Sheriff Earl Coursey. His home is Cambridge and he was stationed as a first class private at Camp Meade.

Mills had rented a car in Baltimore which was reported stolen when he failed to return it to the garage. He went to Cambridge, his home, where he and a youth of 19, Millard Dean, of Virginia, broke into the store of J. B. Wooley and stole money and merchandise. Mills then went to Centreville and stayed at the hotel. He was traced by the police through a stolen tire which he sold to Calvin Scott a junk dealer, of Church Hill. The Centreville authorities turned him over to the military police in Baltimore.

Car Found In Centreville

Cambridge—Mrs. William E. Valiant's automobile was stolen at four o'clock Monday morning, the theft reported at eight, the car and driver located at Centreville at 9.30 and William Webster, charged with having taken the car, was lodged in the Cambridge jail during the afternoon. The automobile was parked overnight in front of the Valiant home on Glenbourne Avenue. The vehicle was located through the cooperation of the Maryland State police.

Grew A Freak Carrot

Aberdeen—Mr. Louis Schantz, who resides near Aberdeen, and is employed here by the Central Motor Company, recently dug up a carrot in his garden which is a wonder to behold. Shaped like a hand, and having five perfect fingers, the vegetable is almost an exact duplicate of a small human hand.

It is one of the most unique freaks of nature we have ever seen.

Peanuts Are War Veterans

Peanuts first became nationally known as a result of the War Between the States. Before and during the war, they were grown only in a small section of Virginia. Union soldiers, fighting in the territory, ate the Confederate-grown delicacy and liked them—thereby starting Americans to eating peanuts.
