FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13th 1942

The sudden announcement by the White House Saturday night that American troops had landed on the North Africa coast meant three things. First that the long awaited second front had been started; second that such a tremendous undertaking can get underway without the enemy or even the people of this country knowing about it in advance; and third that with our troops on the aggressive in two opposite parts of the world the people of this country must work and sacrifice so as to keep these Armies supplied with what they need to carry on a successful warfare. As to the first, it means that our troops have established a foot hold in the Europe—Africa war theatre and must keep going. This requires thousands of men in the Army, many ships and men in the Navy, planes, ammunition, guns, food, clothing and the many things that are necessary to keep a fighting Army going and that is where the people back home come in. They are as necessary a part of the Army as the men now in Africa and, although not in uniform, when the war is won, those who have produced for the Army will have shared in it. It cannot be done by living a normal life but must require harder work, the doing without many things and at the same time maintaining a victory morale.

Each year at this season of the year comes the request to mail your Christmas packages early, but the request this year has a must in it if one wants them to reach their destination on time. The normal run of mail is overtaxing the post office department due to large quantities of mailings by the various war offices and also to the large number of postal employees being called into the service. Replacements mean in-experience, resulting in delayed handling of mail. If the Christmas mailing is not spread out over an extended period it will not only mean delay, but also the curtailment of important mail matter. The request to do Christmas mailing early this year has teeth in it.

The successful war activities this week have spread a ray of cheerfulness and rejoicing throughout the country. It marks the check and defeat of some of the activities of the Axis powers after two years of almost unchecked conquest. This good news should be accepted with all of the hope and anticipation that it indicates but should not lead to thought that the war is coming to an immediate end or that there should be any slackening in the war effort. Don't put too much faith in prophecies of the man on the street who can tell you just what day it will be over. The way to end this war is to keep sending material to the boys who are going to determine how soon the end will come. The prophecies are something to talk about, but are not to be taken too seriously. There is still a hard war ahead.

Our Garden Club, of Chestertown, at a meeting on Tuesday, decided to voice their approval of adding the fountain in the public park to the scrap pile, if and when needed, and will so notify the Mayor and Council. The ownership of the fountain, no doubt, rests with the Mayor and Council of Chestertown, but that governing body would likely wish to know the sentiments of the public, particularly those groups that are interested in the beauty of the town and whose responsibility it would be to replace the fountain with an appropriate center piece. The fountain in question, while long since worthless as a fountain, represents a lot of hard work and expense on the part of public spirited citizens more than three decades ago. Some of these people are still residents of Chestertown, many of their descendants are members of "Our Garden Club." The opinion of such groups should be given every consideration. The "If and When Needed Clause" is a good one and should be given every consideration.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sirs:-

In a letter dated Nov. 6th, the Postoffice Dept. advises me to contact all local newspapers in order to secure the widest publicity possible in urging the public to mail parcels and greeting cards earlier than ever this year.

I quote Smith W. Purdum, Second Assistant Postmaster General:-

"Indications are that the volume of Christmas mail will be the largest on record. If thousands of our soldiers, sailors, marines and civilian friends are not to be disappointed at Christmas time, the public must cooperate by mailing earlier than ever before—parcels and greeting cards. The best efforts of the Post Office Dept. alone cannot be enough, in view of war time difficulties faced by the Postal system. About 25,000 postal workers have already been taken by the war service.

Any thing you give us on this will be very much appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
Harry R. Price
Postmaster.

The Nation at War

The freshmen will get their long awaited chance to gain revenge on the sophomores on this Friday and Saturday. First on the program will be the tie-up on Kibler Field at 3:30 Friday afternoon. Immediately after that the tug of war will be the center of attraction with the losers being treated to an involuntary bath from the firehose.

On Saturday afternoon at 2:00 the two classes will meet in a soccer game which replaces the traditional football game of past years. That night there will be a dance, with the losers paying the greater share of the expenses.

Jerry Voith, veteran guard of the Flying Pentagon, severely cut his wrist when opening a window at the Armory last Wednesday afternoon. Several stitches were needed to close the wound. Jerry will miss at least two weeks of practice but will probably be ready for the first game of the season.

Coach Dumschott was successful in his attempt to secure a pre-season game with the Curtis Bay Coast Guard team of Baltimore. This will allow the cagers to heve a practice game under their belts before they tangle with St. Joseph's in Philadelphia on December 9.

The ELM sponsored All-College Night dance will be held on Friday, January 15. The date was approved by both the Activities Committee and Mr. Dumschott, the Athletic Director, as one that would break into the period between the Christmas holidays and the mid-year examinations. Mr. Dumschott was consulted as to the date selected since it was during the basketball season and the night before a home game.

It was announced by Molly Blackwood, Editor of the ELM, that Rudy Parks had been given complete charge of the dance, and that any profits would be donated to the Red Cross. The Popularity Contest ffor Mr. and Miss Washington will probably be dropped this year.

"Shorty" Pierce and Lee Lachmar were chosen for the leading roles of Martin Vanderhof and Penelope Sycamore in "You Can't Take It With You," a Hart and Kaufman production scheduled for sometime in December.

Other amateur dramatists who will take part are: Lynne Cress, Roxanna Detwiler, Virginia Cooper, Ad Wienert, Terry Burrows, Alice Lacy, Rudy Parks, Marcus Abramson, Hal English, Paul Pitcher, Dian Hubbard Bobby Green, Branch Warfield, Joe Tomlinson and Jim Aycock.

Last Saturday night, Theta Chi fraternity celebrated "Sadie Hawkins Day" by a dance held at the Country Club. The boys and girls were dressed for the occasion and such well known characters as Lil Abner, Daisy Mae, Lonesome Polecat and Gus Goosegrease put in their appearance. It was a private party but, from all reports, it was a rip-roaring success.

Bob Crouch and Bill Hill are co-captains of the freshman soccer club Crouch, in the goal, has shown lots of promise in practice and is expected to give the sophs considerable trouble.

Miss Doris Bell has volunteered to train some college girls for a special dance in this years' All-College Night program. The dance, a Can-Can, will add considerable color to the floor show.

The three sororities presented their bids to the following girls, late Saturday afternoon.

Alpha Chi Omega; Francces Bartlett, Peggy Benton, Betty Blackway, Jean Fisher, Nancy Humphreys, Alice Lacy, Peggy Smith and Marilyn Tracy.

Alpha Omicron Pi; Lynne Cress, Caroline Garrett, Jean Gill, Jean Kirkpatrick, Doris Little, Dorothy Little, Helen Saulsbury and Sarah Whaley.

Zeta Tau Alpha; Barbara Brown, Barabara Cooper, Roxana Detwiler, Catherina Hall, Jane Harte, Martha Lumpkin, Shirley Tabor and Virginia Walbert.

Mrs. Frances Metcalfe, who is in charge of the local Red Cross chapter, announced last week that a quota of 30,000 two by two compresses per month had been set for the local group. No definite quota has been set for the college girls who have their own room in Bill Smith Hall.

Sorority rushing the last two weeks has taken much time which was originally planned to be used for the Red Cross work. It is expected that the girls will commence to work in earnest now that bids have been presented.

"White Owls" Still Lead Bowling League

Moving into the sixth week, Captain "Shad" Walberts' team still leads the Chestertown Bowling Centre league with the remarkable score of 18 wins and 2 loses. Some very high scores have been rolled during the competition, and Ray Meekins leed the field last week with 153.

The team standings are as follows:

	W.	L.
White Owls	18	2
Eagles	14	6
Budweiser	13	7
Hornets	12	8
Honest Seven	11	9
Asco	6	14
Pep Boys	3	17
Orioles	3	17

Red Cross

It has been announced by Miss Helen Schellinger that the Red Cross will hold classes in Nutrition and Canteen work. These classes will be held at the Chestertown High School on November 16, at 7:30 p. m.

DAILY, including Sundays and Holidays

Says Major General C. P. Gross, Chief of Transportation of the United States Army:

"Transportation is the life blood of this great Army.

"Night and day the railways have been on the job, consistently meeting increasingly difficult requirements, for freight and passenger equipment and service. They have done a superb job."

Yes, night and day, including Sundays and holidays, the railroads of America have been speeding troops to wherever the Army commands!

In the first ten months alone, they have moved approximately 8,000,000 troops, not counting soldiers on leave.

That's over three times as many as they carried in the same period of the last war!

For all this, the credit goes jointly to the railroads, the War Department and the Office of Defense Transportation—it's a job of perfect coordination. When the need for quick mass movement of troops came, a plan, which experienced railroad men had been developing for twenty years, went instantly into operation. That's why Uncle Sam's war machine rolls!

The Armored Force School, headed by Brig. Gen Stephen G. Henry, Commandant, turns off its human assembly line the thousands of technicians needed to man the nation's hard-hitting armored divisions.

In the modern shops of its tank department, headed by Col. Frederick M. Thompson, students tear down tanks piece by piece, study the motor driving mechanism and then do their own trouble-shooting and repair on running motors in a half-million-dollar tank engine-testing building.

The vast Armored Force School, one of the largest technical schools in the world graduated more officers and men annually than any other civilian university or college. Classes operate on two shifts, six days a week. Students on the first shift are up with the sun, marching to their shops and classrooms at 6 a. m.
