DAIRY AND CROPS SCHOOL PLANNED FOR DAIRYMEN

Emergency feeding problems facing Kent County Dairymen who want to increase milk production in the national feed production program will be discussed at a one-day feeding and feed production school scheduled for November 17, 1943 at County Agent's Office in Chestertown, Md.

Professor J. W. Magrudor, specialist of the Agronomy Department and Professors Turk and Hyatt, specialists of the Dairy Husbandry Department, University of Maryland will conduct the school and lead the discussions.

A shortage of many feed ingredients especially high-protein feeds and the intensive drought experienced this past summer have created many problems for dairymen in this area, says J. D. McVean, County Agent. Suggestions for formulating grain mixtures under present conditions will be given and dairymen are urged to bring their questions to this meeting. Opportunities for making greater use of high quality hay, improved pasture and silages in the ration will be emphasized.

Discussions will be conducted pertaining to the production of more and better pastures and hay and new methods of curing hay.

More efficient feeding of cows according to their individual needs and the use of simple grain feeding guides will be presented.

In urging all dairymen to attend this meeting, County Agents McVean and Sutton say that this is a feature of the Livestock Feeding and Home-Grown Feed Production Program which is being carried on throughout the country in an effort to help in the nation-wide war food program. The school will run for one day with a morning and afternoon session. Each session will present something new and different and every dairyman is urged to attend both sessions. The school will start at 10 a. m. and will close promptly at 3 p. m.

Gentlemen:

We are giving you below a news item of interest to industry and residents in the Eastern Shore territory of Maryland and will appreciate your using the announcement through the columns of your publication.

"The entire Eastern Shore of Maryland has been assigned to the Wilmington, Delaware, District Office, 314 Pennsylvania Building, Wilmington 50, Delaware, telephone 4-8871.

"Industries and individuals wishing information on Priorities, Production Service, Salvage, or other activities under the War Production Board program are asked to contact the Wilmington Office by letter, telephone or personal visit.

"In the past the Eastern Shore territory has been served by Baltimore. Contacting Wilmington will avoid delays."

Yours truly,

T. E. Doremus

Local Farmers To Attend Pulpwood Demonstration

Final arrangements for a pulpwood demonstration to be held at Powellsville on Tuesday, November 9, have been completed, it is announced by County Agent J. D. McVean and District Forester, Joseph Rockwell. This event, they state, is intended to be for the benefit of farmers on the Eastern Shore counties, similar events having been held in other sections of the State.

The meeting will start at 10:00 a. m. in St. John's Church Hall in Powellsville. The afternoon demonstration will be held on one of the demonstration farms of the Wicomico Soil Conservation Service.

County Agent McVean asks all who plan to attend to inform him as early as possible so that an adequate lunch can be prepared. At least one auto load will attend from Kent.

101st Homecoming At Galena Church

E. Leon Dage, Minister

The Olivet Methodist Church is looking forward to an eventful time in its History. Having past its centenial it is looking forward to growth as an influence in its community for good and as an influence in a more minor roll in the world at large.

This November the fourteenth is an important date and the speakers chosen for it are equal to the occasion. The morning service at 11 o'clock is favored with Rev. O. A. Bartley, President of Wesley Junior College, at Dover, Del., as the speaker of the hour. This successful pastor in the Peninsula conference of the Methodist Church and of other conferences occupies the chair of the President of this school in a critical time in its history, and under his leadership has shown great advancement, he having increased its enrollment greatly even under war conditions. This morning service will be a time of reflexion upon the past and future.

The afternoon service will be one that the public will not want to miss. Feeling that the civilian population has too little contact with our chaplains and with the spiritual needs of the boys in the armed services, the church has arranged for Chaplain Clinton B. Meininger, stationed at Bainbridge Naval Station, Bainbridge Md. to be the guest speaker for the 2:30 p. m. service. There is to be at that time a flag dedication service, the flags having been a gift of the Philathea Bible Class of this church. We hope that this service will bring a closer feeling between church and state as it will be represented.

The evening service will have world emphasis. Rev. V. Thomas, a native of India attending Drew University working toward his doctors degree in Theology has been invited to speak at this service which starts at 8 p. m. He will give us a picture of native church and country.

The church is indeed fortunate to have such important men at one day's service. The Women of th eChurch are preparing for and expecting a large gathering of former members and friends at these services. They have arranged to have dinner served at a nominal price, after the morning service for those who wish to spend the day with us. The public is welcome.
