Time for Cooking Vegetables.

Most vegetables are better cooked fast, excepting potatoes, beans, peas, cauliflower and others which contain starch. Cabbage should be boiled rapidly in plenty of water; so should onions, young beets and turnips. Peas can be cooked thoroughly when tender in twenty minutes. They should be slowly simmered in as little water as possible. The best way to cook string beans is merely to simmer them for at least two hours, when the water in which they are cooked should be nearly or entirely absorbed. A little hot cream sauce may now be added, and the beans may be boiled up once.

* * *

As a rule most vegetables are overdone, but there is something obstinate in the tissues of all the bean family, and long cooking is required to make them tender. Lima, or any other fresh shelled beans, require an hour to cook tender; but corn cut from the cob is better for only fifteen minutes cooking, and will be ready for table if it is steamed on the cob twenty-five minutes. Potatoes are often badly cooked. Half an hour is the average time for boiling them mealy, though some potatoes will cook in less time. All stale vegetables require more cooking than fresh ones.

* * *

George West of Ballston is in possession of a curiosity in paper, sent him by a friend in Hong Kong, China, says the Philadelphia Record. It is a sheet 11x14 inches, made from the web of the "sacred white spider" of the Flowery Kingdom. It is as light as air and almost as transparent, but is also beautifully printed, containing about two columns of matter, giving in English the story of how "Midshipman Copplestone was presented at the Court of Pekin." Americans know much about paper making, but it is safe to say that there is not a spider web paper factory outside the almond-eyed kingdom.

* * *

According to present appearances electricity may be superceded for rapid suburban transit purposes, under certain peculiar conditions, by the sliding railway, to experiment further on which an overhead line is to be constructed in Paris, between the Place Clinchy and La Villette, capable of carrying 12,000 passengers an hour each way. The distance (about four miles), including stoppage at three intermediate stations, is intended to be traversed in seven minutes. The experimental line exhibited recently in Paris is to be re-erected at the Edinburgh exhibition.

* * *

It will not be long before all the waste water-power in the land will be converted into electrical energy, and conveyed anywhere to a point of from ten to one hundred miles on a small copper wire, in armaments of from ten to five hundred horse-power. The cost of construction per mile would not exceed $6,000. Long distance distribution has already been practically successful in the Western States, but more particularly in Switzerland.

* * *

A Chicago traveling man relates an amusing experience with an alarm clock. He wound up the affair and placed it on the floor near the bedside, properly set to awaken him in ample time to catch the early train. When the thing went off he reached out of bed, grabbed it by the bell to prevent the entire family from being aroused—and about 9:30 he awoke from his second nap, still grasping the alarm clock firmly in his hand.

* * *

A western druggist thinks that to prevent the dispensing of morphine for quinine, a strip of steel should be firmly riveted over the mouth of the phial containing it, the neck being first plunged with a torpedo so arranged as to explode and shatter the steel when the poison is taken in hand. If the clerk survives he will know that the shock meant morphine.

* * *

A Gallitzin (Pa.) man recently bought a pair of mules in Clearfield County for $140 and discovered while taking them home that one of them had a plaster of paris hoof—the false work coming off and sticking in the mud. He returned the mules and demanded his money back, but he didn't get it.

* * *

The phonograph has been used to preserve specimens of the language of the Passamaquoddy Indians in Maine, a language which is rapidly becoming extinct. It has taken war songs, folk lore stories, ordinary conversations between two Indians, etc.

* * *

A new electric lantern has been designed in Vienna for the use of lecturers and medical classes. By a combination of lenses the magnified image of an object is projected on a white screen in its natural color.

* * *

Artificial musk is a new product of the chemists. It is an oily liquid of a brown color, and smells so much like musk that perfumers are able to use it as a substitute for that article.

* * *

Compressed air which can not stand the compressed air which the men breathe while working in the Port Huron tunnel and mule power was substituted. The mules get fat and sleek on it and do not seem to mind the pressure.

A small race trouble occurred in Lebanon, Va., Wednesday week. Result, Tom Robinson, colored, killed.

The temperature on Mount Washington, Wednesday week, went down to 27° and ice formed on all exposed places.

An immense parade of Knights of Pythias took place at Milwaukee, Wis., Wednesday week. It was a magnificent spectacle.

A terrific storm passed over Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday week, destroying a large amount of property. No loss of life was reported.

Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, who was the prohibition candidate for President of the United States in 1888, died Wednesday week in New York city.

At Osaka, Japan, June 15, a vessel, on which there were 250 people, overturned as it was being launched, and 59 persons were drowned.

Fire at Ferrysburg, Mich., Monday week, destroyed 1,000,000 feet of lumber and 10,000 cords of slabs, the property of the Grand Haven Lumber Company.

Nelson J. and Warren H. Rogers, step-sons of George F. Yeager, of Mount Winans, near Baltimore, aged 8 and 9 years, were drowned Tuesday week, in Waxter's ice-pond at that village.

In Columbus, Colorado county, Texas, Monday week, City Marshal Pipo shot and killed Ed Young, John and Bob Stafford, sons of R. H. Stafford, in a saloon fight. Thirty shots were fired.

A farmer named Richard Parry, residing near South Wales, York county, Pa., was thrown from his wagon, on Wednesday week, the wheels of which passed over his head, killing him instantly.

In the city of Muscat, Arabia, and the surrounding country, a cyclone prevailed one day last week, which demolished many buildings and killed over seven hundred people.

The Republican State convention of Arkansas, in session at Little Rock, Arkansas, Wednesday week, resolved not to nominate a ticket. The Union Labor ticket now in the field was formally endorsed. Rev. N. B. Fizer is the candidate for Governor.

P. D. Wigginton, who was the candidate of the American party for the presidency in the last campaign, and who served two terms in Congress as a Representative from California, died at his home in Oakland, Cal., Tuesday week, after a short illness.

A Chicago paper says the Chicago stock yards will henceforth be controlled by the Vanderbilts, who have secured control of them. The concern is to be capitalized for $22,000,000 and the stock placed upon the market. It is understood that Chauncey M. Depew will be president of the company.

The city of Fargo, county seat of Cass county, North Dakota, was visited at 2.30 Monday week, by a straight wind from the northwest, which blew down and unroofed many buildings and caused the loss of seven lives. A Northern Pacific passenger train was blown from the track and many passengers were injured.

The little town of Rockville, in Tioga county, Pa., was almost totally wiped out by fire Tuesday week. The fire started in C. Avery's hotel and burned that building, the hotel barns, the Methodist church, C. B. Hanyan's store and barns and eleven dwellings, besides ten or twelve barns. Twenty-three buildings in all were burned.

Mrs. George Miller, of the vicinity of Mercersburg, Pa., had both feet cut off by a mowing machine, on Thursday of last week. Her wounds will not prove fatal. She was attempting to unhitch the horses which had just been attacked by bees, which swarmed upon them in great numbers, stinging them so that they were not expected to survive. Mrs. Miller's father, Henry Anglemiller, had so many stings in his face and arms that they had to be combed out with a fine tooth comb.

What they call the "official rough count" of the census of Baltimore, St. Louis and Boston, gives the following population for those cities by the recent enumeration: Baltimore, 433,639; St. Louis, 448,124; Boston, 437,000. This puts St. Louis fifth in the list of cities in population, Boston sixth and Baltimore seventh. Naturally Baltimore resents this exhibit and calls it a juggling with figures, the original estimates having placed that city fifth in the list. The Boston estimate is increased 20,000 and that of St. Louis 12,000.

ARMSTRONG, CATOR & CO., MILLINERS.
Baltimore, 1884.

Mr. C. P. Knight, Sole General Agent N. J. E. Paint Co.—Dear Sir: In January, 1878, our store was painted with the Liquid Enamel Paint made by the New Jersey Enamel Paint Company. We used tints that generally show the effect of exposure, but the paint has retained its color, gloss and freshness. We shall take pleasure in using it in future.

Yours truly,
ARMSTRONG, CATOR & CO.

THOMAS J. MYER & CO., 90 W. FALLS AVENUE, BALTIMORE, MD.
Baltimore, October 21, 1882.

Mr. C. P. Knight—Dear Sir: The Enamel Paint manufactured by the New Jersey Enamel Paint Company, which you furnished me years ago for painting the exterior of my residence in Baltimore county, has given entire satisfaction, and to-day presents as handsome appearance as when first applied. It has stood the exposure wonderfully well. I will in the future use no other paint for the same purpose. Very respectfully,

THOS. J. MYER.

D. J. FOLEY, BRO. & CO., COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

Dear Sir:—I have used the Liquid Enamel Paint made by the New Jersey Enamel Paint Company, and cheerfully recommend it to those who need painting. Yours truly,
