Mental Weight

One way to develop the memory is not to load it with things not necessary to remember. We once knew a man who was proud because he knew how many feet high the Washington monument is.

In the annual report of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board for 1943, recently submitted to Governor O'Conor it is stated that the experience rating amended to the contribution section of the unemployment compensation act adopted by the 1943 Legislature and now in effect, would had it been in force for the whole of the preceeding year, have brought about a reduction of $4,458,000 in employer contributions to the fund for unemployment benefits.

The new scale based on steadiness of employment, became effective July 1 last and the reduction of rates as a whole amounted to 17.54 per cent of the original figure which was 2.7 per cent of the payrolls.

Aggregate collections of contributions from employers at the end of February were $123,570,386 which grand total included $4,186,000 interest on the Board's deposits, paid by the U. S. Treasury as required by the Social Security Act.

Payments of unemployment benefits by the Maryland Board for the combined months of January and February this year amounted to $134,586 which sum was forty-five percent below the total paid in the like period of last year.

State Insurance Commissioner Lawrence E. Ensor announced today that an examination of the life insurance reports filed by the fourteen (14) life insurance companies domiciled in Maryland exceeded the billion dollar mark for the first time in the history of life insurance in Maryland.

The reports disclose that on December 31, 1943, life insurance companies, organized under the laws of this State, had outstanding and in force life insurance aggregating $1,015,347,975.45.

Mr. Ensor stated that he was very happy to note the real progress being made by our Maryland companies. Not only life, but insurance companies generally engaged in business in our State are showing real progress.

It is compliment to the management of insurance and demonstrates that they enjoy the confidence of the public.

Apply to County Board

All the more important items of new farm equipment are rationed, and purchasers must make application to their county board before tools or machinery can be obtained from dealers. Some hand tools and some of the smaller horse-drawn equipment still can be bought without a permit from the rationing board.

Catch as Catch Can

The world hasn't beaten a pathway to the door of Private William J. Monroe at Camp Roberts, California. But there is still a possibility. The private built a flytrap at the request of his mess sergeant, and placed it in the drill yard near the mess hall. Two hours elapsed before anyone checked it to see how it was operating. The trap worked, but not as originally planned. Instead of flies—the trap contained two mice!
