Former State Senator Dudley G. Roe, of Sudlersville, candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District of Maryand, is gaining in popularity on the Shore as the primary date, May 1st, draws nearer. We believe that the people of the nine Eastern Shore Counties are fully aware of the need of a strong representative in Congress during these times when the future of the country depends largely upon careful management both during war and post war times. By a strong representative we mean a man who can definitely think for himself and can express his thoughts and ideas; a man who is wise to the working of legislative halls; a man with the ability to not only represent his constituants by voting for the measures that he considers benefical but who can force these issues by convincing his colleagues as to their worth. We believe that Senator Roe can meet these qualifications and that he will be the first choice of the Eastern Shore Democrats on May 1st. His Legislative experience has shown him to naturally favor the farmer, waterman and small business man which makes up the large majority of voters on the Eastern Shore. The voters can be assured that, if elected, his congressional activities will be marked by forcefully working for these groups which is so badly needed in these strenuous times.

We quote below from editorials appearing in three other Eastern Shore Newspapers:

Reprint from The Democratic Messenger, Snow Hill, Maryland.

Former State Senator Dudley G. Roe, of Queen Anne's County, one of four Democratic aspirants for the Congressional nomination on May 1 from the First (Eastern Shore) District of Maryland has his mind set on repealing the present War Time Daylight Saving Act if he wins the nomination and is subsequently elected to the House of Representative this year.

Meeting at Snow Hill with the Democratic State Central Committee and Worcester County party leaders, Senator Roe, who spent seventeen years in the Maryland Legislature, termed the War Time Daylight Saving Act a "hardship not only on Eastern Shore farm and industrial workers but on the entire nation as well."

The War Time Act, effective since January 20, 1942, when President Roosevelt signed the Act became general over the nation on February 9, 1942, when all clocks were set ahead one hour for the duration of the war.

Senator Roe declared that while the War Time Act was devised to aid workers and save a vast amount of electric power, such has not been the results, especially on the Eastern Shore.

"Dairy farmers are forced to milk cows before breakfast to reach cooling stations by 7 a. m., to meet the stepped-up schedules necessary under the War Time Act" dclared Senator Roe. "Workers are forced to rise early to reach their jobs. School children must wait in darkness for school buses that traverse long routes in some parts of the Shore. Small stores and industries and office workers begin work before day break in the winter months. All this has consumed five times as much electric power mostly for lighting than was the case before War Time Daylight saving went into effect" Roe said.

Referring to Eastern Shore school children, Senator Roe pointed out that all counties were compelled to start their school days later each morning as a result of the new war time measure. Even now some Shore children are compelled in winter to meet school buses before it gets light enough to see."

Such a hardship has hurt farm labor conditions on the Shore, making it impossible for farmers to realize any assistance from their children, who are kept at school one hour later each day, Roe pointed out.

"God gave us daylight to work by. Man has attempted to change what God wrought. The people on the Eastern Shore of Maryland are tired of legislation like War Time Daylight Saving that has come out of Washington—legislation that works a hardship on everyone," Senator Roe added "My first act, if nominated and elected to Congress will be to introduce a bill to repeal this War Time Act" he said.

Two hundred and sixty-two Democratic party leaders and workers in the ten Worcester County election districts have been appointed on Senator Roe's congressional committee in Worcester County.

All six members of the Worcester Democratic State Central Committee, elected governing body of the county, are included in the list, but as individuals not as an organized group. The six Democratic committee members are: Chairman Eugene P. Matthews and Harry C. Mears of Pocomoke City; James E. Barnes of Stockton; Mayor John O. Byrd of Snow Hill; G. Hale Harrison of Berlin and Daniel Trimper, Jr. of Ocean City.

The following editorial appeared in the Democrat and News of Cambridge Dorchester County, Md. in its issue of August 6, 1942.

Senator Dudley G. Roe is well qualified, by long and faithful service in the Senate of Maryland to fill the important position as Representative in Congress, from the Eastern Shore of Maryland to which he is now aspiring on the Democratic ticket.

Senator Roe made a wonderful fight for Congress two year ago, carrying five counties by substantial majorities. Dorchester was one of the five counties that gave Senator Roe a majority.

While in the State Senate Senator Roe was one of the most faithful and hardest workers. That is what Senator John B. Funk said of him at the close of the 1941 session of the Maryland Senate:

"Governor and Mrs. O'Conor, President Brice and Members of the Senate of Maryland. Senator Roe, I would appreciate it very much if you would come to the rostrum.

"Senator Roe, through two sessions of the General Assembly I have had the honor and the privilege of being associated with you on the Senate Finance Committee. This association has left me with many imprressions,. First, that you are a fine gentlemen; second that you are the hardest working floor leader in the history of the State; and third that you are fair, just and fully qualified for the position that you have filled so well.

"In presenting this token of our appreciation to you for the excellent services you have rendered the Senate of Maryland and our beloved state I am sure that I speak for every member of the Senate in wishing you continued success and the fulfillment of your dreams and aspirations for the future. I am aware of the fact that you desire to go to Congress and it is my hope that, as you are so gloriously finishing your services to the State of Maryland so you may enter the services of your country as the Congressman from the Eastern Shore."

From the Worcester Democrat, Of Pocomoke City, Issue of August 7th, 1942.

Up to date, there are three aspirants to a seat in the Lower House of Congress to represent the Eastern Shore of Maryland. These are the incumbent, Hon. David J. Ward; Hon. Dudley G. Roe, State Senator from Queen Anne's County; and L. A. Andrus, a new-comer in the field of Maryland politics.

Mr. Ward is a citizen of Wicomico County, one of its successful business men, whose political career began with an election to the state senate from his county, after which he entered into the campaign for the congressional office and was elected.

His record at Washington has been what could be characterized as a quiet one. He has worked along the same lines as he drew in his business life. He has endeavored to the best of his ability, to secure for his constituents such material benefits as he thought might be instrumental in establishing a position, in the opinion of his supporters, as an able statesman. Mr. Ward's talents as a Representative do not stamp him as a leader of debate. He is not a law maker; he must depend upon others for that duty; his efforts are to the end that his constiuents may share, as far as he is able to bring it about in the drafts upon the federal treasury, for such projects as they may, from time to time set in motion.

We do not wish to be understood as intimating that any legislative body must be made up entirely of masterly orators; those who shine in their extensive vocabularies; their resonant voices; their magnetic personalities; their convincing arguments; nor their appeal to imagination rather than to reason. The business man has his place in Congress, but the combination is not impossible and when that happens, results along all lines are commensurate.

Mr. Roe is a business man of Queen Anne's County. His political career has paralled that of Mr. Ward. He was elected to the state senate and afterwards aspired to become a Representative in Congress form the Eastern Shore, opposing Mr. Ward, and, as is well known was defeated. He is now running a second time again opposing Mr. Ward and also Mr. Andrus.

Mr. Roe is just a little bit different type of man from Mr. Ward when considered from the standpoint of fitness for a law-making body. After graduating at college, he pursued a course of education, leading to the practice of law and qualified with honor for that vocation. He chose a business career, but his previous education has shown clearly through his daily pursuits, and has moulded his years almost as much as if he had pursued the professional program he first prepared for himself.

Mr. Roe, in the halls of the Maryland General Assembly was recognized as a leader. He was heard with great attention whenever he voiced his opinions on matters of legislative weight. He combined the ability of a business man with the brillance of an orator. He stood for sound enactments and was brave in his announcements. He showed the qualities of statesmanship which insures notice, and his administration was one of credit to himself and one of pride to his constituents.

In another field, but in a way related, Mr. Roe's influence is keenly felt. He is prominent in church councils where he is listened to with deep interest and respect. He is invariably elected as delegate to the Easton diocesan conventions, and has been sent, time and time again, as representative to higher conclaves, where his leadership and ability are again confirmed, and where his presence is a real factor in their deliberations. Church and state are his province as well as the seat in his office chair, conducting a successful merchantile proposition.

Mr. Andrus, as above stated, is rather a new-comer in state politics. He jumped into it with a bang when he appeared with full page biographical matter in many of the Shore newspapers. In his article, politics was "layin' low and sayin' nuffin'," but the path it seemed to blaze was an open passageway to many eyes. Every one seemed to sense he was out for "somep'n," and what it was, was not long in appearing. He wanted to go to Congress as a Representative. We know he is an editor and a farmer. He promises great things as a Congressman; and, to tell the truth, we do not know enough of him to say whether he would make good or not. He has the liberty, as every other American has, to run for office, and has come boldly out and said: "I do care to run."

As a rule, this paper does not line itself up with either side in a primary fight. We have contented ourselves with a non-interference policy and have given what little influence we wieded to the successful candidate.

But, in this campaign we depart from our usual procedure, and place ourselves solidly behind the candidacy of the Hon. Dudley G. Roe, State Senator from Queen Anne's County.

We do this, because we believe him to be the best man of the three, consider him in whatever light one pleases; we believe he has that quality of statesmanship which will come near to placing him in the same category with some other of Maryland's former citizens who have brought honor to themselves and to the commonwealth. We believe in his honesty, integrity, mentality, spirituality and nobility. We endorse him and what little influence we have will be used in his support.

From a minor standpoint, probably we take our stand beside Mr. Roe, and this from a personal intimacy. We have known him from his boyhood to his present stature. Our acquaintanceship has always been characterized by a quality resembling that which stamps blood relationship and it is as natural to us to lend him aid as it would be to one of near kin. This may be sentimental, but it's irrestible, specialy when we believe our estimate of the man is incontrovertible. We believe in him and for that reason we stand by. Incidentally, we believe others would make no mistake to do the same.

However, in our support of Mr. Roe there will be no vituperation of other candidates, and the ' Democrat" is prepared to lend its aid and influence to the election of whatever Democratic candidate is nominated. We are Democratic and will strive to elect the ticket all along the line.

There are some wounds no drugs can heal!

WHEN a man is hit in battle, he gets the best of care. No effort, no expense is spared to save our wounded boys.

• But there are some wounds no drugs can heal . . . the wounds that come from loneliness, from being far from home . . . the wounds that come from worry . . . the wound of missing you until his heart breaks and he feels he can't go on.

There are no drugs for wounds like these—no drugs except a mother's touch.

And that is where the Red Cross—your Red Cross comes in.

For the Red Cross is still the Greatest Mother in the World. All over this earth—wherever our fighting men go—the Red Cross is with them. Its Clubmobiles stand at desert crossroads. Its rest homes will be found on every front from London to Calcutta. Wherever humanly possible, its packages reach the prisoners of war in far-off camps . . . get through the barbed wire straight from your hearts . . . with fine American food, cigarettes and tobacco.

When you say "Thank God for the Red Cross" remember this . . . it is your Red Cross . . . your bandages and your blood.

Yes, and your money too!

Giving to the Red Cross has always been a great proud habit of thirty million American families . . . proud that they could give . . . proud of Red Cross that made the giving worthwhile.

Of course, you have given generously before. Of course, you will give again.

But this year, when the need is greater than ever before . . . when it's your own sons we serve . . . this year dig deep and be glad. For wherever he is

GIVE TO THE RED CROSS

The RED CROSS is at his side and the Red Cross is YOU!
