The high-light of the week is the big party at the Country Club on Saturday night. The night club idea with a floor show, Philadelphia orchestra, table reservations, etc., all sounds most intriguing for little Chestertown and anticipation is ripe at the moment for an evening of fun.

Before the party Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stenger will entertain at a buffet supper.

Yours for realization,

The Wanderer

CHESAPEAKE TRIP IS TOLD IN A BOOK BY NORMAN HILL

Mr. Hill, Author of the book is well known here, his mother was the former Miss Harriett Westcott of Chestertown and he is a frequent visitor of relatives here.

The following article was taken from the Baltimore Sun.

"A portrait of the Chesapeake Bay country, its history, customs and principal points of interest, is given informally by a large number of Marylanders, with Norman Alan Hill as editor, in "Chesapeake Cruise," which will be published shortly.

Loosely organized and often conversational in tone, the 354-page book basically is the story of an imaginary 21-day cruise made by a group of old friends. The drinks they drank and the food they ate. the things they saw, and the memories conjured by the trip form the core of "Chesapeake Cruise."

Their varied interests, even when not directly related to the Chesapeake area, also are given space in the book. A considerable amount of material which would be of use to anyone proposing to make such a trip is included. A section, for example, is devoted to places where gasoline, oil, ice, supplies and repairs can be had.

The emphasis, however, is on historic towns, homes and scenes on the bay or near it. The Severn, the Potomac and other rivers are described, as are Tangier, Yorktown, Williamsburg, Annapolis, Chestertown, Havre de Grace, Middle River, Gibson Island and Baltimore.

Among the houses covered by the new book are the Comegys House, Bohemia Manor, Little Bohemia, Pemberton Hall, Popular Hill Mansion, Ratcliffe Manor, Wye House, Widehall, Sabine Hall, Castle Haven and The Anchorage.

A chapter is given over to the boats seen on the Chesapeake and to the history of privateers. Others concern gudgeon fishing, conservation problems, the power squadrons which operate on the bay and Baltimore slippers and the clipper-ship era.

More than 100 illustrations, maps and sketches are spaced through the book. Poems about the bay and its history and legends are included. Some 90 persons have contributed amusing experiences, not all of which concern the Chesapeake.

Mr. Hill, in the foreword to the book, said that he, his brother, Malcolm Westcott Hill; and two friends, F. R. Vernon Williams and J. Hooper Edmondson, have been cruising the Chesapeake for more than 20 years.

The imaginary cruise described by the book is, he said, the product of their combined experiences, observations and memories from the 20 years of informal study.

The principal collaborators on the book were, in addition to the editor and his three assistants, Peter C. Chambliss and William B. Crane both members of the staff of the Sunpapers, and Percy T. Blogg, who wrote the chapters on fishing and the Miller's Island Club.

Contributors of special articles in the book are Richard D. Steuart, Hulbert Footner, Dr. Hugh H. Young, Matthew Page Andrews, Ralph T. Whitelaw, Thomsen King, Peter H. Magruder, T. A. Bixler, F. Warrington Gillet, L. Wethered Barroll, Merle E. Towner, Dr. R. V. Truitt, E. Lee LeCompte, William H. Koelbel, John Mahon, Anne Slagel, B. Howell Griswold, Jr., and Folger McKinsey.

Also listed as contributors are James E. Hancock, Cumberland H. H. Rumbold, Senator George L. Radcliffe, Philip Livingston Poe, Senator Millard E. Tydings, John R. Sherwood, Dorothea Clay Hill, C. F. Merriam, Capt. N. Alan Hill, Jr., T. Gardner Hill and Richard C. Sperry."

To reach this total, sales of "E" Bonds averaged $63,740,000 every working day, $7,967,500 per working hour.

Because so many people contribute their time, office space and other assistance, War Bond sales' cost to the government is only one cent for every thirty-three dollars raised.

S. R. Newell, formerly agricultural extension agent in Calvert County, has succeeded W. O. Fraser as assistant chief of the livestock and meats livestock marketing programs in the United States Department of Agriculture since 1926.

Livestock Feed

Livestock feed reserves for June consumption on Maryland farms have been replenished from four sources. The War Food Administration allocated to this State 4,200,000 pounds of dry wrinkled peas, 318,952 bushel of government feed wheat, 1020 tons of soybean meal and 180 tons of linseed meal. The feed allocating committees of the Maryland Agricultural Adjustment Agency will direct the distribution through the trade.

More Fertilizer

The acute shortage of potash for agricultural uses was partially broken today. The supply during the next ten months will be 30 percent greater than deliveries during the corresponding period ast year. Germany is the principal producing country.

Food Production

Production of livestock and livestock products under the Agricultural Adjustment Agency's war-food-production program during the last tweve months has outstripped military and consumer demands processing and storage facilities, livestock feed production and the balanced war food goals of the War Food Administration, Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland AAA Committee, reported today.

No Armistice In War Food Battle

"America is a land of plenty even in the midst of global war because people all along the line from the plow to the plate did a good job of growing more food, conserving more food and sharing food, "Fred B. Sylvester, State AAA committeeman in charge of inter-county and community relations, said today in a statement issued to the AAA community committeemen in Maryland. "Until the war ends and world reconstruction is complete Maryland farmers and Victory gardeners must continue panting up to the military and civilian requirements of the United Nations and consumers must continue saving and sharing food because food reserves are temporary and storage facilities limited."

During the War Loan drives 6,000,000 unpaid volunteers ring doorbells and pound pavements to get their sales.

—V—

Now, as never before your country looks to you to do your patriotic duty. For this is the showdown. And what's your part in this bitter struggle? Right now, it's to get behind the 5th War Loan and invest in War Bonds.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Glad you dropped in, Judge. I was just trying to explain to Mary what you told us down at lodge last night... about all the grain used to distill war-alcohol not really being used up. She didn't realize it, either."

"It's true, Mary. Wherever the government has permitted distillers to purchase the equipment necessary to reprocess the used grain, at least 50% of the feed value (25% by weight) of the whole grain is being recovered and returned to farms like yours in the form of premium-quality livestock feed. Only the starch is removed during distilling... the part recovered is a highly-prized concentrate containing valuable proteins, fats and carbohydrates. The distilling industry really has taken a leading part in the development of new cattle and poultry feed products from reprocessed grain... products rich in vitamins B_1 and B_2... so essential to satisfactory growth and production. And the recovery of grain will apply also to the making of whiskey when production is resumed."
