Belly Landing Pilot Saves Car

Salisbury—State police officials today were praising the way a naval officer crash-landed his light bomber on a stretch of highway between Marion and Hopewell on the Crisfield Route 413 without injuries and with little damage to the plane.

State Police Corp. John C. Gates identified the naval ojfficer as Ensign E. Warren. The officer said the officer skillfully retracted his landing gear just before he set the ship down, to avoid striking an automobile that loomed in the path of the descending plane.

Several hundred persons stopped their automobiles on the highway five miles from Crisfield Saturday to watch the Navy crews salvage the damaged ship. Corporal Gates said only the propeller and undercarriage of the plane were damaged.

Northeaster Aids Fire Fighters

Salisbury — The nearly 100 fire fighters who were combating eight forest fires burning over more than 400 acres in four lower Shore counties found the current nor'easter a welcome ally.

Four new outbreaks on the lower Shore were recorded by District Forester Joseph T. Rothrock yesterday; one near Hebron on a tract owned by a New Jersey firm that started sometime Saturday and was not located until late Sunday night.

A second was reported to the local fire department as endangering homes in the Mount Hermon Road section of Wicomico County yesterday morning but had not been reported to the state forester's office.

A fire between Princess Anne and Oriole in Somerset County was under control. One in the Sinepuxent Neck area of Worcester County yesterday was burning over approximately 15 acres. Two hundred acres 15 miles south of Cambridge were also afire.

Fires that started early last week near Eldorado, in the vicinity of Golden Hill and Crapo in Dorchester County continued to burn late last night. One near the Benjamin Johnson farm near Wango was under control, but still burning.

"Some of these fires were caused by carless brush burners but some are started by negligent hunters who throw away lighted cigarettes in the woods," Rothrock said as he urged extra precaution, especially now because of the current critical fire danger period.
