A Contrast by Mr. Carnegie.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, of Pittsburg, Pa., a Scotchman by birth, but an American by adoption and conviction of the strongest sort, recently made a speech at Dundee, Scotland, in which he boldly contrasted the Republican government of America, with the mild monarchy of Great Britain, greatly to the discredit of the latter. He gave his audience many plain but suggestive facts in a straight forward and daring fashion that must have astonished the subjects of the queen. He showed them that the tax, per capita, in America, National, State and Municipal, of every form and character, is $12, of which $3, or more, goes to pay pensions to those who fought for the country, or to pay the National debt, leaving only $9 per capita as the actual taxation, while in Great Britain it is $19.25. In America the average earnings per capita are $365; in Great Britain $175. Thus, says Mr. Carnegie, the cost of government under a monarchy is four times greater than under a republican form of government.

Mr. Carnegie carried his contrast to manufactures, agriculture, wages, pensions and other matters, forcibly showing the advantages of the American over his British neighbor, and strongly commending republicanism to the favor of his hearers.

He spoke kindly of the queen, and expressed the hope that she might live so long that when she passed away the people must be consulted as to her successor. The speech made a great sensation.

The obstructive tactics of the Democrats in Congress to prevent a vote on the Langston-Venable and Miller-Elliott contests were unavailing in the end and only served to delay public business. On Tuesday a sufficient number of Republican members were present to form a quorum and the cases were disposed of in an hour. Messrs. Venable and Elliott were unseated and Langston and Miller, both colored men, declared elected. Langston is from the Fourth District of Virginia and Miller from the Seventh of South Carolina. It will now be in order to observe with what unanimity our Democratic friends, many of whom have never seen a line of the testimony and know nothing about the the merits of these cases, will join in condemnation of this action.

The Pennsylvania Gubernatorial Campaign.

Early in the Gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania the Democratic newspapers fed their reader on stories of Republican disaffection and Democratic harmony that led many of the uninformed to anticipate a sure victory for Pattison. It is noticeable that a change has taken place recently in the tone of anticipated triumph which for a time rang through the columns of the Democratic press, and that these newspapers are now singing rather low concerning the prospect in November. They begin to realize that the Republican ranks are being closed more thoroughly every day; that lukewarm Republicans are warming up and becoming enthusiastic for Delamater, and those who were considered as out of the fold are returning and taking their places in the party which represents their convictions and principles.

On the other hand the beautiful harmony described as prevailing among the Pennsylvania Democrats, exists only in the imagination of those who give it expression. There is a wide breach between the simon pure Democracy and the element that has affiliated with mugwumpism and nominated Pattison, and the impossibility of healing that breach is becoming apparent. The Sunday Morning News, a Democratic paper published at Shenandoah, Schuylkill county, in its last issue spoke very plainly of this condition of things, and declared, not only that Pattison's election is impossible, but that "the indications are that Delamater's majority will be the largest ever given to a candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania." Pattison's affiliation with mugwumpism and his hostility to labor, as instanced by his relations with the millionaires Scott and Coxe, are represented to be the chief cause of this untoward condition among the Democrats. The News concludes a long article on the subject in this way:

"Both Pattison and Delamater have been in the county during the past week, and no man who saw them both could help noticing the contrast between them. The former, cold, distant and unnecessarily austere, and the latter affable, courteous, plain and magnetic. Pattison's smiles and words of sociability were bestowed upon the select only, while Delamater shook the hard fist of the miner as vigorously as he did the kid glove of the banker, and without the slightest apparent effort on his part made even the humblest citizen feel at ease in his presence. The Democracy of Pennsylvania is unfortunate, but there is reason to hope that it will profit by its own experience.

"Mr. Pattison will be overwhelmingly defeated because there is no reason why he should be elected, and Senator Delamater will be elected by an immense majority partly because of Democratic stupidity and treachery, and partly because he has the courage of his convictions and the confidence of his party. The News has no apology to make to any one for the attitude it assumes in presenting the issue as it exists. Its interest in its constituency, the workingmen of the Schuylkill coal region, is paramount even to temporary political success, and seeing the issue as it does, it deems it its duty to present it to the public."

The Canal Again.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal matter has assumed another phase by the filing of a petition, in the court at Hagerstown, by the bondholders of '44.

The petition asks the court to give the bondholders the right to take possession of the canal, and repair and operate the same as a waterway, and appropriate the tolls and revenues therefrom to the payment of the expenses of the operation and repairs to the principal and interest of the bonds of 1878, and to the principal and interest of the bonds of 1844. The petitioners further ask that they may be entitled to purchase the bonds of 1878, so as to be subrogated to all the rights of the holders thereof, and that the receivers be ordered to surrender all the property of the canal to them, in order that it may be operated by them as a waterway. They also ask that the sale may be stayed whenever they shall have paid off the bonds of 1878. This petition was set down for a hearing on the 18th instant, but by agreement of counsel it was decided to have the matter passed upon on the 20th.

To the petition the bondholders of '78 replied that they were willing to receive the amount of the principal and interest of the bonds secured by the mortgage of '78, and that they were willing to transfer and assign to the petitioners the bonds secured by that mortgage, so that the petitioners may be subrogated to all the rights of the holders of those bonds.

The petition and answer were argued before Judge Alvey, at Hagerstown, on Saturday last, by Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, Mr. John K. Cowen and Mr. S. Teackle Wallis for the petitioners, and by Mr. Bernard Carter and Attorney General Whyte for the State. Judge Alvey has not yet rendered a decision of the issues raised by this proceeding. Should he grant the prayer of the petitioners, the canal will not be sold, but, possibly, an attempt may be made to resuscitate it as a waterway. Its past history gives no promise of success to such an enterprise, and about the only result will be the total exclusion of the State from all benefit, financially, from this work in which it has about twenty-seven millions of dollars safely buried. The new proceeding is probably in the interest of the B. & O. R. R., which much prefers the continuance of the canal as a half moribund and totally inefficient waterway, to having it transformed into a rival railroad. Judge Alvey's decision in the case will be awaited with much interest. Should it be adverse to the petitioners, a sale of the corpus of the canal may be accomplished under the previous action of the court, but it is impossible to tell what further complications may arise to prevent that consummation.

The conferees of the Senate and House of Representatives have completed their work on the amendments to the tariff bill and reached an agreement in all cases. The bill, in its present shape, embodies the reciprocity feature with the Latin American States and Provinces, suggested by Mr. Blaine, with modifications. The limitation of the tin-plate schedule adopted by the Senate, is extended to 1897 instead of 1896. This will give abundant opportunity to develope the tin industry in the United States, although, it is said, a combination of English manufacturers will be formed under it for the purpose of keeping down prices in spite of the large duty imposed.

It was anticipated that the report would be made yesterday to both Houses of Congress, and it is possible that before the SENTINEL reaches its readers the bill will have passed and be ready for the President's signature, which will be promptly appended.

The Synod of Maryland of the Lutheran Church will meet on Tuesday, October 7th, at the Lutheran Memorial Church, Lutheran Place, on Fourteenth street and Vermont avenue, Washington.

The Tariff Tax a Fallacy.

Our neighbor, the Advocate, uses the item of nails, among other things, in an article published last week in illustration of the taxes supposed to be paid to the general government, by the farmer, on such articles as he may find it necessary to purchase, stating that on five pounds of them, for which he pays 25 cents, the tax is 9 cents. The Advocate refers, of course, to the tariff duties imposed on foreign importations, and we propose to use this single item of its catalogue to expose the fallacy of its reasoning. It doubtless means wire nails, in using the general term, as cut nails are only selling at 3½ cents per pound, or 3 cents in ten pound lots, and $2.10 per 100 pounds, about one-half the price at which they were sold under the low tariff in force previous to 1861.

Now, no wire nails are imported into the United States, at this time, the whole quantity sold being the product of American mills. The tariff is prohibitory being $2 per keg of 100 pounds. The foreign manufacturer is unable to pay this tariff and compete with the American product. Does that enhance the price to the extent of the tariff? Let us see.

Prior to 1883 but few wire nails were manufactured in this country. The total importations were large, reaching, we believe, upwards of a million kegs per annum. The wholesale price was $6.00 per keg and the retail about 10 cents per pound. In 1883 a duty of $2 per keg was imposed by Congress, but the effect was not what our Democratic friends so persistently claim follows the imposition of tariff duties. A decline in prices ensued and continued until, at this time, wire nails can be bought at factory rates for $2.40 per keg. The effect of the tariff has been, therefore, to cheapen the article to the extent of fifty per cent. and upwards. Under this showing of a simple fact what becomes of the tax paid by the farmer, on this article? It is a myth, having existence only in mistaken fancy, and not in actual fact. The farmer gets his wire nails to-day cheaper, much cheaper, than he did before a tariff duty was imposed and the American manufacturer enabled to compete with the foreign product.

But, somebody may ask, why couldn't he do so with the price at $6 per keg? The answer to that question is very simple. The first motion of an American manufacturer to supply the home market with this product, would have been the signal for a reduction in the price by the foreign producer, which, with the advantage of cheap labor, could have been maintained until the native plant and product would have been frozen out and their owner ruined. And this accomplished the price would have gone back to the old, or still higher, figures. The American consumer therefore instead of paying a tax of 9 cents on his five pounds of nails actually gets them for 25 cents less than he would have done if there had been no tariff.

At the risk of making this article more lengthy than was originally intended we wish to call attention to another feature of the subject that should never be overlooked. The tariff of 1883, which produced the effect already noted, made it possible for the American manufacturer to enter the field of production without being subject to certain failure by ruinous foreign competition. The home market was given him, and with home labor he developed the enterprise, using native material, and keeping the millions of money expended in the manufacture in our own country, bringing support and comfort to hundreds of American workingmen and their families. What sort of a tax is it that produces such results?

The illustration of the effect of protection in the case of the wire nail industry is applicable, in great measure, to most of the other articles cited in the Advocate's article, referred to above, the system, as it has often been shown, having a tendency to cheapen by developing home competition and stimulating to the introduction of the most efficient and least expensive methods of manufacture.

Fears of a Boycott Irrational.

An attempt has been made to get up a little flurry of apprehension in this country over a suggestion of an intention on the part of certain European countries to boycott American products by official interdicts in retaliation for the adoption of the McKinley tariff bill. A little reflection, however, has brought assurance to the minds of the fearful and timid, and satisfied them that the scare is without a reasonable basis of existence. America exports but little to Europe except that which the peoples of that grand division of the globe must have and can obtain from no other source, while, on the other hand, she imports, very largely, of European commodities that are not at all essential to the comfort and well being of her people. Europe would cripple many of her own industries by adopting the policy suggested and gain nothing by the operation. In fact, such a course would only show to America her ability to live and prosper without the interchange of commodities with those nations of Europe in which, it is said, the suggestion of these retaliatory measures was made. Referring to the dependence of Europe upon this country the New York Tribune says: "It is enough to observe that American exports to Europe include of food two hundred and sixty-six millions of dollars; of light and tobacco fifty-five millions, of materials of manufacture two hundred and eighty-nine millions, and of machines and cars seven millions. Here are over six hundred and seventeen millions in value of products, upon which depend, not only European industry, but the sustenance of millions engaged in production. The food alone would support a powerful nation. Without American light a large part of the homes and smaller shops of Europe would be in darkness. Without our machinery most of the homes would be without sewing-machines, and many of the farms without necessary machinery and tools. Without American materials manufacturing works now employing millions would be forced to close. These are facts so pregnant that the American who realizes them can only laugh at a threat of reprisal."

The European products imported into this country are largely composed of articles of luxury and not of necessity, and the governments across the water are not likely to pursue a policy that can only result in the destruction of the rich market found here for wares of that character. There is, therefore, a double motive for abstention from the action said to have been threatened; first, dependence upon America for necessary supplies, and secondly as a market for the luxuries referred to.

G. A. R. Celebration.

The members of the G. A. R. from this State and their citizen friends who accompanied them on their recent trip to Boston, Mass., had such an enjoyable time that it has been decided to celebrate the event by something special in the way of a concert, reception and ball, thus renewing and fostering the fraternal feeling engendered on the Boston trip. The Concordia Opera House, Baltimore, including the Annex, and the entire privileges attached to the same, have been secured for the occasion, and the date has been fixed at Tuesday evening, November 18th. Extensive and elaborate arrangements are now in progress to make this social entertainment one long to be remembered by the comrades of the G. A. R. and their many friends. Committees have been appointed to represent the Department of Maryland and the different posts in the State, Gen. Jno. W. Horn, of Burns Post, No. 13, this city, being on the reception committee. The concert and ball will be under the auspices of the Department of Maryland, G. A. R. Distinguished guests from abroad will participate. The members of the G. A. R. and military organizations will appear in uniform, and others in full dress. The concert, which will be a special feature, will take place in the Annex, and will be followed by dancing in the main hall.

A frightful accident occurred on the Reading Railroad, near Shoemakerville, about fifteen miles from Reading, Pa., shortly before 7 o'clock on Friday evening of last week. A collision between freight trains had occurred shortly before, blocking the tracks. Into this wreck the Pottsville Express, with 125 to 150 passengers, and running to make up lost time, was precipitated and thrown down an embankment 18 or 20 feet into the Schuylkill. About twenty passengers were killed by the collision or drowned in the river, and fifty more were injured, some of them seriously. Among the killed was George R. Kaercher, of Pottsville, one of the ablest lawyers in Pennsylvania, and general counsel of the company on whose road he lost his life. The accident is said to be the first on the Reading Railroad in which a passenger was killed who had not left his seat.

Three of the men implicated in attempted train wrecking on the New York Central Railroad, have confessed the crime. They are Knights of Labor, and state that Edward J Lee, official leader of the organization, furnished them money to leave the country after the attempt to wreck the Montreal Express. Whether he was implicated in the crime to any greater extent does not appear, but the confession of its perpetrators leaves no doubt of his being an accessory after the fact, and it is extremely probable that he was its instigator. The exposure of the connection of the Knights of Labor with a crime so atrocious is a severe blow to that organization.

Laurence D. Dietz, aged 62 years, formerly a well-known Baltimore merchant, died on Thursday of last week, at his residence, 7120 North Gilmor street, in that city, of pneumonia. Mr. Dietz was a native of Bavaria, and came to America when a boy. He settled in Baltimore, and from 1850 to 1870 was at the head of the importing fancy goods and notion house of Laurence D. Dietz & Co.

A despatch from Mount Pleasant House, N. H., on Thursday, says: "The first frost of the season occurred this morning and all vegetation was killed. Yesterday on Mount Washington snow fell during the day, and this morning there were 6 inches and the temperature went down to 18 degrees. The entire White mountain range down as low as Jacob's Ladder is white with snow."

Dr. E. P. Duval, State librarian, has completed the work of distributing the laws, documents, &c., to all who are entitled to receive them. There were 937 volumes of the laws sent out to the counties and the city of Baltimore and about 200 others to different institutions and other States. There were also a large number of documents sent out.

James E. Dougherty, aged about 30 years, one of the deputies in the office of the clerk of the Frederick County Circuit Court, died at Frederick, Thursday, after an acute illness of a few days only. His home was in the vicinity of Woodsboro'.

Three-fourths of the city of Colon, Panama; or Aspinwall, as it was originally called, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday. The population of the place is estimated at 10,000.

There was a heavy frost, the first of the season, throughout Rockland county, New York, Thursday morning. Tender vines were frozen stiff.

In the Circuit Court of Baltimore, on Thursday, Judge Dennis signed a decree divorcing W. S. Ireland from Laurie Ireland.

FERTILIZERS

We appear again before the farming public in this our second year, greatly encouraged both in the amount of sales and from the flattering reports that we are receiving daily from all sections of the county as to the good results on last year's crops. We could produce hundreds of testimonials verifying this fact without going back over a series of years to get them; but as we have sold goods over nearly all this county, we prefer to refer you to your neighbors who have used them.

We challenge competition in analysis, drilling condition and bulkiness of our goods, as our sacks will show, and we also challenge competition in and we invite the farmer to go to the full extent of finding out the truth of this assertion. We believe that we are selling more goods than all of the factories of the county combined, and it is because of the large amount of our sales that we are able to do business on small profits.

We Make Our Own Goods

from material with a guaranteed analysis, and

We know what we Sell, and do not have them manufactured by the cheapest BIDDER IN SOME OBSCURE PLACE, but do it right under the eyes of our customers. We will give a large reward if any such insoluble matter as hoofs, horns, leather or marl, or such cheap materials as plaster, ashes or dirt of any kind can be found in them. We invite the farmer to our factory and ask that you encourage home manufacture by buying from
