REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For Congress,

JOHN E. WILSON,

OF CECIL COUNTY.

Election Tuesday, November 4th, 1890.

How a Forgery was Evolved.

The Philadelphia Press tells how the forged article, credited to that paper, to which reference has been made in the SENTINEL, was brought into existence by a process that may properly be termed evolution. "The country papers, "says the Press, "in several of the Southern States, conspicuously, in Virginia and North Carolina, have been and are still copying one from the other an article which they characterize as "maligunant," "fiendish," and "infamous," and attribute it to the Philadelphia Press. The article in question professes to bewail the advance that the South is making, at the expense of the North, especially Pennsylvania, and to claim that the surest way to put a stop to this competition is to carry through and enforce measures like the Lodge elections bill.

As far as we have seen, no first-class daily journal has been guilty of publishing this idiotic invention, but the country weeklies continue to give it circulation under the head, "A Plot to Destroy the South." In a speech delivered at Petersburg, Va., last week, Harry St. George Tucker, who represents the Tenth Virginia District in the present House of Representatives and is a candidate for re-election, gives the sanction of his authority to the libel against this paper, telling his audience that "already the Philadelphia Press is out in an editorial declaring that the force bill should be put in effect so that capital can be kept in Philadelphia and not sent to the South."

The article in question never appeared in the Press in any form and does not in a single line embody the views of this journal. It first came to this paper in the form of a communication from an alleged Republican, but, as it was on its face the work of either a Democrat or a fool, it was promptly dropped into the waste basket. The author, however, had kept a copy, and it soon appeared in a North Carolina paper designated as "A letter which was sent to the Philadelphia Press." Another North Carolina paper copied it, calling it "A letter in the Philadelphia Press." Other Southern papers at once reproduced it as "an authoritative statement of the design of the force bill from one of the leading Republican organs," and credited it to the Philadelphia Press. It is now masquerading as a Press editorial, and was so quoted by Mr. Tucker in his Petersburg speech.

If the Press desired to keep the South crippled and undeveloped it would not be anxious to see honest and peaceful elections substituted for the fraud and intimidation which now make Southern elections a farce, and which keep up a feeling of unrest in the South and irritation in the North. Honest and free elections in the South are the one thing needed to attract capital and immigration from the North in increasing volume and promote the rapid development of its immense material resources. Pennsylvania is not only willing to stand the industrial competition of the South, but it is ready through its capitalists to welcome and promote it. But it cannot submit with patience to the systematic crime upon the ballot, by which the Republican vote of the country is denied its due wright in Congressional and Presidential elections.

A Misleading Statement.

Democratic free-traders are employing all sorts of unfair arguments to prejudice the minds of the people against the new tariff law. One of these is the average per centage feature. Our worthy cotemporary, the Advocate, gave a list of tariff averages last week, by which it appeared that the per centage is now 12.19, greater than at any previous period. This presentation of the matter is utterly misleading. If precisely the same quantities of the various articles of merchandise upon which customs duties were collected last year should be imported this, the revenue derived from them would be about sixty millions of dollars less. In other words, the tariff bill has been adjusted in such manner as to produce a large reduction of revenue, and therefore the general average of duties has been lessened, not increased. The increase attempted to be figured out is only apparent. It is made to appear by entirely excluding the free list from the computation. A large number of articles heretofore dutiable have been placed upon this list, among them sugar below No. 16 Dutch standard, melada, tankage and other products of sugar cane which previously paid about 80 per cent. duties. The free list now embraces vastly more articles than ever before in the history of tariff legislation.

Not a Fair Comparison.

The Democratic party has been seeking to impress the country with the idea that the Fifty-first Congress was excessively extravagant in appropriations and wasteful of the public money; and to emphasize this, a comparison has been instituted between the appropriations made at the session just closed and those of the session immediately preceding it, when the Democrats were in the majority. The unfairness of this comparison is exposed at once by calling attention to the fact that it is made between a short and a long session. It should have been made between the first sessions of the Fiftieth and Fifty-first Congresses, which would have shown only a difference of $37,082,542.93. This difference is more than made up by the increase in the pension roll, to say nothing of the amount appropriated for harbor fortifications, the increase for construction of new naval vessels, the postal service, &c. A fair comparison is not at all discreditable to the Fifty-first Congress.

Where the Selfishness Lies.

One of the arguments employed against the doctrine of protection, by its enemies, is the assertion that it is founded in selfishness and that its purpose is to advance our own prosperity by improverishing the people of other lands This assumption is not tenable. The disciples of protection believe that it operates to prevent the depreciation of labor and to maintain remunerative rates for the wage-earner, as against the ruinous competition of a free-trade based upon the poorly requited toil of the laborers of foreign lands. The selfishness lies not with the American protectionist, but with the foreign manufacturer who rewards the skill and fidelity of his employes with the poorest pittance of wages. Protection prevents the reduction of the American worker to this extremity and at the same time enables the American manufacturer and producer to compete successfully with the product of poorly paid foreign labor. Whenever the toilers of other lands shall be given wages sufficient to enable them to live in comfort, the necessity of protecting American toilers against this competition will cease. It is not selfish now to provide against this competition, because a vast multitude of people reap the blessings which flow from the maintenance of honest wages.

The Democrats in Ohio.

The Democratic victory in Ohio last year has not proved an unmixed blessing to that party. Gross scandals have arisen in the administration of the Board of Public Improvements of Cincinnati, which was filled with unworthy men by Governor Campbell, and now the Executive, in his anxiety to correct his error, has called the Legislation together in extra session, for the purpose of taking some action to arrest the abuses existing in the department referred to. But the Democratic members of the Legislature are evidently more in sympathy with their party friends in the Board than with the Governor, who wants to get rid of them; and so the bill recommended by the latter for the purpose of reaching the desired end, hangs fire and will probably fail entirely. The exhibition of injustice and political turpitude displayed in the outrageous gerrymander of the Congressional districts of the State, met Governor Campbell's concurrence, reputable man as he is, and he need scarcely be surprised that this species of political fraud has had its natural influence in the demoralization of individual office-holders of his party. The Democrats of Ohio have thoroughly displayed their unfitness for the administration of the affairs of that State.

Hon. Frank Hurd, a prominent Democratic leader of Ohio, has pronounced squarely for free-trade. Among other utterances he says:

"I would raise the revenues of the government by excise taxes—that is, taxes on liquors and tobacco; by taxes on incomes above $5,000, and if that does not produce enough, by tariff duties on articles that are not produced in this country, such as coffee and tea, because they are free now, and I would put a tax on them. I think this would bring practically enough revenue to support the government; and if it were not sufficient I would find other articles not produced in the country at all or produced to a small extent, and put the tariff duties on them until the necessary amount be raised.

"As to the abolition of the sugar duty, I say that sugar is a revenue article, and that so long as a tariff is levied the duty should remain on sugar."

True, this is only the utterance of one man, but David A. Wells, who has been nominated by the Democrats of Connecticut, as a candidate for the Fifty-second Congress, is just as emphatic in his views, and it is particularly noticeable that men of this stamp always belong to the Democratic party.

At one time since the war steel rails were rated at $110 per ton and their manufacture was carried on abroad almost entirely. Under these circumstances a duty of $28 per ton was imposed and the price has since steadily declined. About all the rails used in this country are now manufactured at home, and the price is $29 per ton. The duty has been reduced from time to time, a cut having been made of $3.60 per ton by the new tariff, and the rate is now $13.40 per ton of 2240 pounds. Nothwithstanding this fact, however, there is more likelihood of an advance than of a decline in the price. Just where the tariff tax comes in, on this commodity, it would puzzle a free-trader to tell, but he asserts it notwithstanding.

Judge Lynch, of Frederick, is dealing with the new registration law in a practical and common sense manner, and, it is said, intimated his belief in the virtual unconstitutionality of the law. In delivering his opinion Judge Lynch took occasion to say that a "man's residence is where his family is, and this is the only place that by him can be called home." He ordered the names of a number of Republicans who had been stricken from the lists of registered voters to be restored, among them that of an unmarried man employed in Washington. He deserves the thanks of the voters of Frederick county for relieving them from the injustice and hardship imposed by the absurd provisions of the registry law of 1890.

Our Democratic cotemporaries still neglect to tell their readers about the abolition of the duty on low grade sugars and the sweeping reduction on the high grades made by the new tariff law. They are no doubt painfully aware that to give their readers this knowledge would effectually destroy the force of their tirades against the "robber tariff." Our neighbor, the Advocate, even keeps in its columns, as a sort of standing advertisement, a store account for 1889, in which, among other things, 20 pounds of sugar stands charged at $2.00, upon which half that amount is attributed to the tariff. Now the duty on 20 pounds of high grade sugar is just 10 cents. That store account is out of date.

We have heard of a grocery dealer, not a thousand miles from this city, who gravely informed a group of his customers that he would be compelled to advance the price of sugar on account of the increased tariff duty. He was perfectly honest in supposing the duty had been advanced, and was taken aback when an intelligent gentleman, who happened to hear the story, informed him that sugar below No. 16 Dutch standard had been made free, and above that reduced to half a cent a pound, a reduction, on an average, of more than two cents per pound. It is needless to say the dealer was a Democrat.

A commendable feature of the new tariff law is the change it makes in the character of duties, on many articles, from ad valorem to specific. With the utmost vigilance on the part of American consuls abroad and customs officers at home, it has been found impossible to entirely prevent under-valuations of imported goods paying ad valorem duties. Making these duties specific prevents, to a great extent, the opportunities of fraud presented by the opposite system.

Mr. Isador Rayner, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Fourth District of Maryland, says Speaker Reed is not a gentleman and would not be permitted to cross the threshold of any Southern gentleman's home. Mr. Rayner must have an idea that Southern gentlemen have more claim to that title than gentlemen in other localities. This little fiction may be a pleasant reflection to him, but his vulgar attack upon Speaker Reed does not mark him as entitled to the appellation in the superlative degree.

A large plush manufacturing company at Bradford, England, has its agents now in the United States looking for a site whereon to erect a factory. The company gives employment to 5000 operatives. It is moved by the effect of the McKinley tariff bill to seek a place whereon to establish this industry within the borders of the country which offers the best prospects of its successful operation.

The Court of Appeals rendered a decision on Tuesday affirming the constitutionality of the Australian ballot law passed by the Legislature last winter. Judges Robinson and Irving dissented. The principal point in the case was the question of the right of the Governor to sign a bill after the adjournment of the Legislature.

Dr. Wm. Smith Reese, of Baltimore, died, suddenly, at his home, No. 1026 St. Paul street, about 6 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The immediate cause of death was the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain. He had been in failing health since last winter, when he was attacked with the grip. Three sons, Philip R., John S. and E. Shriver Reese, and one daughter, Mrs. J. L. Cassard, survive him. In early life Dr. Reese was a practicing chemist. He took great interest in political matters and held a number of prominent positions. He was naval officer under President Johnson, deputy collector under Grant, a member of the Legislature and a State director in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Dr. Reese was a member of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church.

The Grand Encampment of Maryland of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which met in Baltimore this week, elected the following officers: Grand Patriarch, Christian Smith; Grand High Priest, Peter Hermann; Grand Senior Warden, James E. Green; Grand Treasurer, Augustus Bouldin; Grand Scribe, John M. Jones. The latter was elected for the thirty-first time. The erection of a new Odd Fellows' Hall is in contemplation and a committee has been appointed to consider the matter, report plans, &c.

At the session of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church, at Hanover, Pa., on Friday evening of last week, the final report of the committee upon the endowment of the Synod's new professorship in the Theological Seminary at Lancaster, Pa., was made, showing that the amount of $35,000 had been secured. Rev. Jno. C. Bowman, pastor of Emmanuel's Church, Hanover, Pa., was chosen to fill the new professorship thus provided.

Cuba is alarmed for the stability of her sugar trade with the United States, and is calling on the home government to accept the reciprocity offered by the McKinley tariff law.

Late Seeding
—FOR—Wheat AND Rye.

Farmers who still have some wheat and rye to seed should be careful in choosing the fertilizer they intend using, and as it is greatly to our advantage to have good harvests, both for grain and straw, we are especially anxious that fertilizer should be used in which there will be the certainty of a good crop of both. Therefore we have prepared a fertilizer that the farmers can get from us at a very small cost, and they can feel, after they have used our fertilizer, that they have done the best they could possibly do, and with an average season good results are sure.

AFTER SEEDING

farmers will begin to move their produce, and we would say the trade we are building up on our flour necessitates us buying all the good wheat we possibly can. Therefore we invite every person to

of wheat or bring the wheat direct. We are always buying. Our new steam hay press will be running very soon; capacity 18 tons a day. Persons having hay or straw to sell will find us right up with the procession, both as to prices and accommodations. Call on us for anything in our line. Yours Respectfully,
