On Monday last the pupils of the public schools at Carrollton presented their teacher, Mrs. Laura Sellman, a handsome seal muff. Postmaster Sharrer has been constantly making improvements in the arrangement of his office until he now has one of the completest and handsomest postoffices in the State, outside of Baltimore. A neat and comfortable private room has been fitted up in the rear of the compartment in which the mails are distributed, from which it is entirely separated by a strong wire partition. In this room the Postmaster can be visited privately and socially, without transgressing goverment rules by coming in contact with mail matter. Those who have tested his knowledge of distant cities say they find it accurate and affording substantial evidence of the truth of his account of his wanderings.

A Baby's Singular Exploit.

A correspondent at Mt. Airy sends us an account of the remarkable doings of the eleven-months-old baby boy of Mr. Oscar M. Spurrier, registrar of voters of Mt. Airy district, on Saturday morning last. At the time mentioned Mrs. Spurrier, the baby's mother, was doing her usual cleaning up for Sunday, and about 10 o'clock placed the little fellow in an adjoining room on the floor to play, giving him a number of toys, while she continued her work, being anxious to accomplish it as quickly as possible that she might visit Mr. Spurrier's father and brother, both of whom were ill, the latter critically so. She gave the baby a glance frequently to see that he did not get near the stove. He was quiet and contented and she thought him perfectly safe from harm. She did not discover that he had pulled off the table cover and her work basket with it and was busily engaged in swallowing some of the contents of the latter, consisting of paper, buttons, tacks, pins, &c., and was unaware of what the child had done until about 6 o'clock in the evening, when he began to cry and was evidently in much pain, and in a short time ejected a button and pin from his stomach. Then the mother understood what the trouble was and sent for Dr. Ben. Todd, who could of course do little beyond administering an emetic. The child suffered intensely at times, especially before 12 o'clock Saturday night, and continued ejecting articles from his stomach until Monday morning, a period of thirty-six hours. During that time sixty-six articles had been ejected. The little fellow did not sleep at all during the time mentioned and they had to keep him moving almost constantly, although he cried very little in spite of the pain he was suffering. When our correspondent wrote on Monday morning the child was doing remarkably well and was having his first sleep. The mother, who is exceedingly devoted to her child and always exceptionally careful to prevent harm to him, is overcome with grief by the sufferings caused him by the singular occurrence. Following is a list of the articles ejected from the baby's stomach: 18 pins, 4 needles, 8 tacks (tinned), 7 wads or particles of paper, 2 wads or particles of muslin, 8 China buttons, 1 vest button, 4 pearl buttons, 1 shoe button, 1 piece of bark, 5 pieces of cork, 1 piece of feather, 1 piece of match, 1 shank button, 1 brass pants button, 2 pieces of chips, 1 piece of wrapping cotton.

It is supposed the paper and muslin were the first articles swallowed and served to arrest the downward passage of the pins, needles, tacks and other articles from the stomach.

Since my last we have had but little to disturb the usual quiet of our community, independent of the sudden and varied changes of the weather that have given bad colds to many persons with the result that our doctors are kept quite busy. It also gave ice to those who were late in getting in a crop and from reports now it would seem that all have an abundance and that ice cream will be plentiful.

A very pleasant and agreeable surprise party was experienced at the residence of Mr Hamilton Ensor, near this place, on last Monday evening, 12th inst., in honor of a visitor, Miss Mary Fowble, of Baltimore county. Despite the chilly night and the rough roads few of the projectors of the party were absent. The happy participants succeeded in completely surprising their worthy neighbor. Mr. Ensor extended the good old "shake hands" and a multiplicity of words to express gallantly a welcome to his self-invited guests. All present seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion, and "joy was unconfined." The evening was spent in party plays and parlor games, vocal and instrumental music.

When the refreshment room was thrown open, a scene was disclosed that might have tempted the palate of an alderman. Everything seemed to have been provided that could minister to the pleasures of taste. A grand procession then proceeded from the parlors to the refreshment rooms, the ladies leaning upon the arms of the gentlemen who conducted them to seats and courteously supplied them with the delicacies so bounteously provided for the occasion. After a few more social chats, they bid the familiar "good bye" and departed, feeling well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Those present were: Miss Mary Fowble, Messrs. Joseph Brooks and Gilbert Ensor, of Baltimore county; Miss Nora Barnes, Anna Cover, Maggie Stem, Delia and Leah Ensor, Ida and Etta Snader, Lillie and Bertha Ecker, and Mollie Lindsay, Messrs. O., in this county, on Friday morning of last week by the announcement of the death of little Albert A., son of Mr. David H. and Mrs. Annie Leister.
