RADIANT LIVING

Why Not Try Love?

By Rev. C. M. Griffeth
Pastor Calvary M. E. Church
Sudlersville, Md.

A certain writer in speaking of the futility of force in solving the problems of the world concludes by saying: "In the end we may have to turn to love."

And why not? Wouldn't that be the best thing we could do?

Why not try Love?

The principle of applied love of which the Golden Rule is the formula is the key that will unlock many a difficulty that is in your life. Many a problem that is confronting you at the present time can be solved by the application of this principle.

The Good Samaritan, by using this principle of applied love, solved every difficulty in his life and turned an enemy into a friend. St. Paul gives us a good tip when he directs us to "overcome evil with good." If we will try this method we will find that it will solve the problems of our personal relationships.

If one should ask for the creed, the purpose, the power and the aspiration of radiant living, he is referred to that one quality which is at once, creed, and purpose, love.

Whoever endeavors to live radiantly can see no profit in any religion that leaves one cherishing malice, harboring hatreds, and exercising a cruel and rash judging of others.

Love rules out these negative destructive forces and wins by its appeal to fairness, good fellowship, and consideration of the other fellow's viewpoint.

Try the principle of Love and win your way.
