THE EMPTY SLEEVE.

You may talk about the pathos
In the hardships of the war,
You may talk about the glory
Of the cause that you fought for,
But there's nothing so pathetic
As the lesson we receive
From the quiet, idle flapping
Of the useless empty sleeve.

You may talk about the marches,
The scant rations and "hard tack,"
Of "the last drop in the canteen,"
And the empty haversack;"
There's nothing so convincing in
The impressions that you leave
As the mute and speechless record
Of the useless empty sleeve.

You may speak of southern prisons,
But their horrors could not last,
Of the roar and din of battle,
And, thank God, that, too, has passed,
But we see a grim reminder
Every morn and noon and eve
In the living, speaking presence
Of the useless empty sleeve.

Soldiers deck the graves of comrades
With the laurel that they won,
Poets sing of gallant heroes
And of deeds of great renown,
But there's naught in poets' anthems
Or the chaplets that they weave
That can beat the touching story
Of the useless empty sleeve.
—Florence Earle in Home and Country.

How the Observance of Memorial Day was Suggested.

The following letter, originally sent to the New York Tribune from Washington by Junius Simons, will not be uninteresting at this time:

As one knowing the facts, permit me to say that the credit of first suggesting "Memorial Day" belongs to Mrs. Henry S. Kimball, of West Philadelphia, Pa. The suggestion was made by her in 1868 to General John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball were old friends of General Logan. On their return home from a southern tour Mrs. Kimball wrote to General Logan stating that she had particularly noticed the southern women decorating the graves of their dead fallen in battle, and suggested to him that, as the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, he should have our heroic soldiers, whose lonely graves were maty, scattered and unmarked, remembered in the same beautiful way. The general was deeply impressed with the idea. Soon afterward he wrote Mrs. Kimball thanking her for the suggestion, and stating that he felt that such a touching tribute to his dead comrades would undoubtedly meet with general favor.

After carefully reflecting upon how he should give the matter practical shape he stated his ideas to General Chipman, of the Grand Army of the Republic staff, and requested him to formulate them in an order. This order, modified and enlarged by General Logan himself, was issued to the Grand Army of the Republic as "Order No. 11," and May 30, 1868, was named as the day it should go into effect. The order was generally well received throughout the country, and practically obeyed by the Grand Army of the Republic, greatly to General Logan's satisfaction, as evidenced in the following letter to Mrs. Kimball, dated Washington, July 9, 1868:

MY DEAR FRIEND—It is very gratifying to me to hear, as I do day after day, from my friends of the reception of my Order No 11. As you observe, the custom is a beautiful one, and I am confident that it will not only never pass away from the recollection of the American people, but will more deeply ingraft itself in their hearts, and each returning anniversary of sacred decoration will increase in impressive devotion to our patriot dead; and the crowns we weave for them of never fading laurel and the beautiful flowers strewn over their graves give birth to sentiments of love and of honor will be bind the past, the present and the future in one continuous chain of admiration that the life and service of even the humblest private shall never be forgotten.

Yours truly,
JOHN A. LOGAN.

I was a clerk at the house of representatives and General Logan's private secretary at the time, and saw all the correspondence relating to the matter, heard General Logan tell his friends and other callers that he was indebted to Mrs. Kimball for the suggestion to decorate our soldiers' graves, saw him hand them Mrs. Kimball's letter on the subject to read, and heard General Logan state to General Chipman his views and wishes, out of which "Order No. 11" grew, and during the presidential canvass of that year, on which I went with him, he received many encomiums wherever he went for the inauguration of Memorial Day, and he never refrained from giving Mrs. Kimball full credit for the idea, feeling quite content and appreciative for the share of honor that naturally and properly flowed to him for putting it into practical and permanent operation.

Since then Memorial Day has silently matured into a tender and welcome custom throughout our land, and has additionally endeared to the hearts of the people the memory of that great hearted, brave and brilliant soldier, orator and statesman, John A. Logan.

The greatest density of population is in the area which has from forty to fifty inches of yearly rainfall. On either side, as the rainfall increases or decreases—the maximum of the country being above seventy inches and the minimum below ten inches—the population diminishes.

If the pies eaten every day were heaped one on top of another they would make a tower thirty-seven miles high. If laid out in a line they would reach from New York to Boston.

A man will receive more sympathy from the neighbors for his wife's one little fault than she will receive for her husband's ten big ones.

50th YEAR OF PUBLICATION.

The queen of the ladies' monthlies enlarged and greatly improved, making it more desirable than ever, and keeping it in the lead of the Ladies' Magazines.

It's fiction is strong and clean. Some of the best known American writers contribute to its pages, among them Edgar Fawcett, Frank Lee Benedict, Howard Seeley, Mrs. Lucy H. Hooper, Rebecca Harding Davis, Miss M. G. McClelland, Alice Bowman, and Minna Irving.

Historical and Biographical Sketches, with numerous and appropriate illustrations, printed on fine paper, will be given monthly.

In the Fashion department, we aim to combine beauty and utility. The newest and prettiest styles of costume are given with full descriptions, also a monthly dress-pattern sheet. As a fashion magazine, "Peterson" is universally pronounced as far in the lead of all others.

Numerous designs for needle-work, embroidery, knitting, painting, &c, with designs printed in colors. Articles on the management of the sick, by a trained nurse, household and garden hints, recipes for cooking and interesting articles on various topics, are given monthly.

The aim of the publishers is to give such variety of contents as will both interest and instruct its readers, and make it a helpful companion of every woman.

Terms: $2.00 per year with large reduction to clubs, and handsome premiums for getting them up.

A sample copy, with full particulars, will be sent for 5 cents.

Children's Literature.

WHAT "ST. NICHOLAS" HAS DONE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Victor Hugo calls this "the woman's century," and he might have added that it is the children's century as well, for never before in the world's history has so much thought been paid to children—their schools, their books, their pictures, and their toys. Childhood, as we understand it, is a recent discovery.

Up to the time of the issue of the St. Nicholas Magazine seventeen years ago literature and children's magazines were almost contradictory terms, but the new periodical started out with the idea that nothing was too good for children; the result has been a juvenile magazine genuine with conscientious purpose—the greatest writers contributing to it, with the best artists and engravers helping to beautify it—and everything tuned to the key-note of youth.

It has been the special aim of St. Nicholas to supplant unhealthful literature with stories of a living and healthful interest. It will not do to take fascinating bad literature out of boys' hands, and give them in its place Mrs. Barbauld and Peter Parley, or the work of writers who think that any "good-y" talk will do for children, but they must have strong, interesting reading, with the blood and sinew of real life in it—reading that will waken them to a closer observation of the best things about them.

In the seventeen years of its life St. Nicholas has not only elevated the children, but it has also elevated the tone of contemporary children's literature as well. Many of its stories, like Mrs. Burnett's "Little Lord Fauntleroy," have become classic. It is not too much to say that almost every notable young people's story now produced in America first seeks the light in the pages of that magazine.

The year 1891 will prove once more that "no household where there are children is complete without St. Nicholas." J. T. Trowbridge, Noah Brooks, Charles Dudley Warner, and many well-known writers are to contribute during this coming year. One cannot put the spirit of St Nicholas into a prospectus, but the publishers are glad to send a full announcement of the features for 1891 and a single sample copy to the address of any person mentioning this notice. The magazine costs $3.00 a year. Address The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York.

HARPER'S BAZAR.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a journal for the home. Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891 Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

ILLUSTRATED.

The important series of papers on South America, by Theodore Child, will be continued in Harper's Magazine during the greater part of the year 1891. The articles on Southern California, by Charles Dudley Warner, will also be continued. Among other noteworthy attractions will be a novel by Charles Egbert Craddock; a collection of original drawings by W. M. Thackeray, now published for the first time; a novel written and illustrated by Geo. du Maurier; a novelette by William Dean Howells; and a series of papers on London by Walter Besant.

In the number and variety of illustrated papers and other articles on subjects of timely interest, as well as in the unrivaled character of its short stories, poems, etc., Harper's Magazine will continue to maintain that standard of excellence for which it has been so long distinguished.
