SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1891.

FOR 25 CENTS.

In reply to numerous inquiries it is hereby announced that the SENTINEL will be sent to campaign subscribers, from date until the last week in November, for the sum of 25 cents. The importance of having sound and reliable information concerning the issues involved in the November election should cause a large subscription of this character. The people, who were so grossly misinformed last year concerning the nature and effect of the McKinley tariff law, should pay little heed to alleged information coming from Democratic sources by which they were then misled. The SENTINEL has exposed many of the erroneous declarations then put forth by Democratic authority, and will still continue to do so. Let its circulation be widely extended.

While his health had been precarious for a long time his death was somewhat sudden. He had been a life long sufferer from injuries received in early childhood and his life was doubtless prolonged by the care bestowed upon him by a loving father and the tenderest and most devoted of mothers. His sufferings were borne with uncomplaining patience. Funeral services were held at his home at 3, P. M., Tuesday, after which his remains were interred in Westminster Cemetery, Rev. P H. A correspondent at Union Bridge writes that "Children's Day was observed in St. Paul's Reformed Church on Sunday evening last. It was a truly festive scene. The pulpit recess was literally banked with flowers while a fine arch, way, covered with field flowers and mottoes worked in grain' stood over the chancel. The service was designed to impress upon the children and assembled people the inspired truth: "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." A pretty Children's Day anthem was well rendered by the choir, and the school sang a number of spiritual songs, which were interspersed with scripture readings and fitting recitations on the part of a goodly number of the children. The service throughout was impressive and beautiful and the audience was so large the edifice could not hold it. It is to be hoped the lessons of the festive service may result in great good."

The day previous to the wedding of Mr. Howard C. Fowler and Miss Nettie Stein, at Waynesboro, Pa., of which an account is published in the SENTINEL this week, Mr. John F. Miller, of this city, Miss Grace Ganter, of Manchester, and Miss Stein drove to Chambersburg from the first named place and returned with Mr. Fowler in the evening. Across one of the principal streets of Waynesboro a sewer was in course of construction and a wide trench, between 6 and 7 feet deep, was left open, unguarded and without the usual signal lantern to indicate a dangerous obstacle in the way. Into the trench the horses driven by the party plunged, carrying the front wheels of the carriage with them. Some of the party, including Mr. Miller, were thrown into the trench, but fortunately none were much injured. Mr. Miller's clothes were ruined, and the carriage was badly broken. A trench leading to the sewer at an angle had to be dug to extricate the horses. The town authorities of Waynesboro promptly offered to bear the cost of making good the damages sustained.

A delegation representing the German Lutheran congregation, near Smallwood, made a proposition for the purchase of the school property there for the use of their German School. After discussion, the Board agreed to sell the property to them for the sum of $250, to avoid the contention which would be likely to arise from having two schools close together, as the Germans intended to build unless they could purchase. They accepted the terms offered by the Board and the house was sold.
