They Were "Comrades."

Romances are not often discovered in railway affairs, but an exception came to the surface at Chicago, during the recent annual reunion at Detroit, says the Inter-Ocean.

It happened in the Wabash local ticket office on Clark street.

Frank Palmer was chuckling over the immense amount of G. A. R. business his line had done, when six old white-haired veterans entered. The place was packed, but there was room for the six. Before they went out they were christened the "Big Six," not from the fact that none of them knew anything about railroads, but because they were brothers, had entered the army together and had all come out alive again. This was something unusual, for the average of killed is 26 per cent of those that go to the wars.

The names of the old boys' family was Phillips.

Suddenly an old veteran who had just bought a ticket to Detroit turned upon one of the brothers, whose name was G. A. Phillips, of Earlville, Ind., and spouted at him:

"Christopher Columbus! Are you alive?"

"Of course I'm alive, you ——."

And then, before any one could separate the two old men, before any one could tell what it was about, the two men were hugging each other for dear life, and almost killing each other, till two women who sat by began to cry.

What stories they had to tell each other!

You see, they enlisted together in the same company, both were in the battle of Antietam, both were wounded then and there, and both were carried from the field for dead.

Each supposed the other to be dead, and when they went out of the ticket office two hearts felt better after a separation of nearly thiry years, and the men who sang "Comrades" failed to touch the true key that dominated the music of two comrades' hearts.

Facts About New Year.

New England stood out long against Christmas and New Year's alike, and her writers curious in such lore have told us how cautiously her most daring spirts first ventured on the innovation.

The Chinese New Year opens with some unpleasant features. Every tradesman has to pay all he owes or surrender his property, and sometimes his liberty. After that they have three days of riotous fun, feasting and gambling.

The fact that New Year's falls upon the same day or very near it among all Aryan people is a strong proof of their common origin. The most northern nations of ancient Europe celebrated the day in common with the most southern. The turn of the sun from his most southern point in the heavens appears to have been the cause of this general adoption of the same holiday season, and from the earliest times Saxon and Roman, Teuton and Kelt, Greek and barbarian alike have recognized it as an occasion for rejoicing.

Points About January.

Dianus, or Janus Bifrons, was the old party for whom the Romans named this month. He was originally the janitor of the gods, and opened the doors of the morning for Rosyfinger, or Dawn, after whom came the Sun in his chariot; but later he was put at the head of the war office while Mars was the acting god of war. The old party was represented with two faces looking in opposite directions, to indicate the uncertainties of war, whence he was named Janus Bifrons, which may be freely translated Holy Two-front. This just suits January, which opens the year, looks both ways in time and is as uncertain in weather as war is in results. The most confident Wiggins seldom claims foreknowledge of January's weather, while the goose bone and the corn husk are equally at fault.

When a man wakes up on the morning of January 1, conscious that he has a dollar in his pocket, that he has a good position, that his clothes are seasonable and abundant, that his rent and board are paid for a week in advance, that his health is good and that his best girl promised the night before to marry him in the spring, it is perfectly allowable for him to get up, pose before the looking glass, and shake his own hand and wish himself a Happy New Year.

Jan. 1 is generally the harvest day of the year for a popular clergyman. He performs his first wedding ceremony as early as 9 a. m., and is kept busy reading the service in public and getting fat fees in private until long toward midnight. Then, if his luck is extra good, one or two eloping couples drop in and pay him handsomely for his services in launching them on the doubtful but usually delightful sea of matrimony.

Youv'e got to raise the wind if you want to be a heavy swell at the seashore.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

The Tariff and the Farmer.

The Tribune will devote much space during 1891 to the Tariff as it affects the Farmer and the Mechanic.

Hon. Roswell G. Horr, of Michigan, has been added to the Tribune's staff of Tariff writers for this purpose. He will, through the columns of The Tribune, devote himself to this topic, and will invite and answer questions upon points which perplex the American Farmer and Mechanic. He will also, so far as other duties will allow, attend Farmers' Institutes and agricultural gatherings the coming winter and spring, and expound the principles of the Tariff.

Those who desire the presence of Mr. Horr at Farmers' Institutes, etc., are invited to communicate promptly with The Tribune.

Young Men Who Wish to Succeed.

Many a man feels the lack of early direction of his energies and early inculcation of the maxims which promote the formation of character and success in after life. Every such man would gladly see the young men of to-day better guided in youth than he was. The Tribune has planned the following series of valuable articles, which will appear in this paper only:

"What shall I Do?" By S. S. Packard, President of Packard's Business College.

"Suggestions for the Boys on the Farm who are Ambitious." By the Hon. J. H. Brigham, of Delta, Ohio, Master of the National Grange.

"Education without the Help of a College." By President C. K. Adams, of Cornell University.

A Continuation of "How to Win Fortune." By Andrew Carnegie, whose remarkable article of last Spring was so full of encouragement to poor men.

"Multiplicity of Paying Occupations in the United States." By the Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of the Department of Labor.

"A Talk with American Boys." By P. T. Barnum, of Bridgeport, Conn., the great American showman, temperance lecturer, traveler and writer.

"Examples in the History of our own Country. By Gen. A. S. Webb, the gallant soldier of Gettysburg and Spottsylvania and College president.

"Importance of Good Manners." The views of Ward McAllister.

"A College Education good for all; what is best for those who cannot get it." By President William Pepper, University of Pennsylvania.

The Tribune will print from week to week, well-considered answers to any questions which young men or women, in any part of the country, may ask.

Vital Topics of the Day.

"Present Needs and Future Scope of American Agriculture." By the Hon. Jeremiah Rusk.

"Proper Function of the Minority in Legislation." By the Hon. Julius C. Burrows, Kalamazoo.

"Village Improvement Associations, their practicability in Rural Districts, with the story of certain Model Villages." By the Hon. B. G. Northrop, of Clinton, Conn.

"Principle in Politics and the Virtue of Courage." By the Hon. James S. Clarkson, of Iowa.

"Influences of the Labor Movement upon Human Progress." By Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

"America's Suburban and Rural Homes." By George Palisser, of New York.

"Warehouses for Farm Products." By L. L. Polk, President of the National Farmers' Alliance.

"Glaciers of the United States." By Professor Israel C. Russell, of the United States Geological Survey and explorer of Alaska.

Other Features.

During 1891 The Tribune will print a valuable series of articles, written by its own traveling correspondent, on the agriculture of the United States, with explanation of a large number of model farms.

A special correspondent, a practical farmer, is now in France, visiting the farms and farm-buildings of that thriftiest of the agricultural nations of the world. He will report upon the dairy, grain, stock and other branches of French farming in illustrated articles.

Mrs. Annie Wittenmeyer, President of the Woman's Relief Corps, will contribute a column of notes and news to The Tribune's G. A. R. page, every week.

Admirable letters of travel in the Southern States, illustrated with pictures, will be printed, describing the South as it exists to-day.

All the regular features will be continued.

The Home Circle columns will be varied by frequent illustrated articles on home decoration, fashions and other objects of intense interest to women. Written principally for people with little money.

Mrs. Bayard Taylor, the widow of Bayard Taylor, will write articles on Cookery. She is a remarkable housekeeper, with a scientific as well as practical knowledge of her subject.

Steinitz, the great chess champion of the world, will supply a coulmn a week on the greatest and purest of all the games of the home.

Foreign letters, good stories, the news of the day, the best of market reports, book reviews and literary news, witty jokes, etc., etc.

The Tribune is printed in large type and broad columns, and is the easiest paper to read in the country.
