Democrats and the Finances.

Under the above caption the Baltimore American of Tuesday makes the following pertinent and forcible editorial remarks in relation to Democratic responsibility for the administration of the affairs of government pending future elections:

"It is high time," says the American, "for the Democratic newspapers, especially those which are regarded as administration organs, to realize that the responsibility for the management of public affairs has been transferred from the Republican to the Democratic party, and that henceforth the evils of misgovernment, if there be any, will be directly chargeable to the Democratic party. In discussing financial matters, these organs are constantly asserting that the government is face to face with a deficit, brought about by Republican policy. This is both dishonest and cowardly, for the Treasury was in a solvent condition, with a good working surplus, when it was turned over to the Democrats, and nothing has occurred since, so far as the public is aware, to alter the situation. The object of Republican policy was to avoid a heavy surplus, but the Democrats, after casting about for years for some way of getting rid of the surplus, are now frightened to death because it was used by the Republicans to pay the public debt.

"The Republicans reduced the tariff in accordance with their views of a proper industrial policy, placing hundreds of things on the free list which were needed by the people, and which could not be profitably produced here, and protecting great American enterprises from unequal foreign competition. In doing this they provided revenues for the government economically administered, but particularly avoided piling up a surplus in the treasury. For two years the Democratic party, with an immense majority, has controlled the branch of Congress which initiates the appropriations; but by the keen watchfulness and careful figuring of the Republican heads of departments, these appropriations have been kept within reasonable limits, so that the current revenues of the government would be ample, with a balance to spare for extraordinary contingencies.

"This is precisely the situation which now exists, and the Democrats have absolute control in all branches of the government, so that it is no longer possible for them to plead the baby act. If they are unable to carry out their free-trade ideas as matters now stand, that is their look-out. The Republicans never proposed to arrange matters to suit Democratic ideas of tariff revision, and if the Democrats are unable to comply with their solemn promises to the people, they have the comforting assurance that they ought not to have made such promises without knowing whether or not they would be able to make them good. It is one of the cases where preliminary statesmanship is better than vain regrets. Their stock in trade for many years was bitter denunciation of the Republican policy, but this is exhausted. The Republican policy is no longer a target. They have a target of their own to shoot at, and the people are anxiously waiting for them to make a few bull's-eyes. If the administration really has the courage of its convictions, it will call Congress together early in the autumn and begin shooting. Until then it would be in better taste and more conducive to good morals to drop this rubbish about the treasury being face to face with a deficit.

"It has all the money required for honest and economical administration of the government, and will be held responsible if a deficit occurs."

"Muzzling the Press" was a favorite expression of those who conceived that the appointment of an editor here and there, to some important office, by President Harrison, was designed to prevent adverse criticism of his administration by the newspapers. It was announced, soon after Mr. Cleveland's inauguration, with quite a flourish, that there was to be none of that sort of thing during his term as Chief Magistrate. Editors were given to understand that, as a rule, the nature of their profession closed the door to official preferment against them. It is now worthy of remark that the breach of the rule has been so frequent as to practically destroy it. Quite a number of editors of prominence have been appointed to important stations, among them Mr. Samuel Morss, of the Indianapolis Sentinel, whose paper, previous to his nomination, had criticised, severely, another appointment as not fit to be made, but has since observed a decorous silence on the subject. Perhaps this is not "muzzling the press" in the sense understood by President Harrison's Democratic critics. It seems to make all the difference in the world, with them, who does the muzzling.

The new National Administration is displaying an apparent spirit of small economy by reducing the clerical force in some of the departments at Washington, and the Democratic press gushingly commends this evidence of retrenchment and reform in public expenditures, innocently imagining, perhaps, that the proceeding is honestly designed to curtail the expenses of the government. It will probably not be necessary to wait a long time to learn better. The civil service rules stand in the way of wholesale changes of the employees of most of the departments. A pretence of cause for removals must be maintained, and that makes the process of supplying hungry Democrats with official places a slow one. The easiest method, therefore, of solving the problem is to abolish offices upon the pretext that they are unnecessary, and then, after the lapse of a decent period, to create an emergency and re-establish them. The plea has two advantages: it is a cheap means of earning a reputation for economy, and a smart scheme to provide places for importunate office-hunters.

Work on the addition to the State House at Annapolis, has begun.

It is said that the appointment of Mr. Bayard as Ambassador to England meets with great favor in that country and is regarded as the most satisfactory one, to the English government, that has ever been made. If this be true it may be due to the fact that our new representative is not regarded as a match for English statesmen in the art of diplomacy. Mr. Bayard's foreign policy as Secretary of State, during Mr. Cleveland's first administration, was not a conspicuous success in so far as the interests of this government were concerned, and no doubt the English people have a lively recollection of the fact.

Michigan seems to have settled down securely in the Republican column after a trial of Democracy that proved the very unsatisfactory character of that organization. An election for supreme Court Justice and Regents of the State University was held on Monday, at which the Republicans achieved an old-time victory, electing their candidates by fourteen thousand majority. Other States which have swung away from their Republican moorings will be apt to repeat the experience of Michigan and find out that Democratic rule is a poor substitute for the safe and reliable government enjoyed under Republican supremacy.

Certain anti-semitic organizations in Vienna, Austria, are proteeting vigorously against the reception, by the government of that country, of Max Judd as Consul-General of the United States in the Austrain capital, the objection to Mr. Judd being that he is a Jew. It is to be presumed that, if the Austrian government accedes to the request of these organizations and refuses to recognize Mr. Judd in the capacity to which he has been appointed, the United States will be left without a representative of that rank in Vienna. The bigotry and intolerance of religious faith displayed in this case are utterly unworthy of any civilized people in this age of this world. The government of this country cannot afford to yield an inch to objection or protest in this matter. Mr. Judd, who is a citizen of Missouri, has the same civil standing here as any other citizen of the country, and is entitled to the same recognition as the accredited representative of his government abroad. The United States was without a minister at the Austrian court for a year or more of Mr. Cleveland's first Administration, because Mr. Keiley, of Richmond, Va., who was named for the position, was not acceptable to the Austrian government. A vacancy may exist in the Consul-Generalship for the same reason.

Those who have believed and predicted that the defeat of the Republican party, at the presidential election in 1892, meant its final overthrow and disintegration as a political organization will find it necessary to revise their opinions on the subject, as they scan the returns of the recent local election in Kansas, Missouri and other States. That the Republican party is very much alive and getting into good fighting order, is manifest from the splendid results achieved in many places at those elections. This is particularly true of Kansas, where in many towns and cities combined Populist and Democratic majorities have been wiped out and grand Republican successes recorded. Among these are Topeka, Lawrence, Wichita, and many other places of less note. St. Louis, Mo., has also become Republican, and other towns in the same State. Canton, Ohio, the home of Gov. McKinley, has elected a Republican mayor for the first time in thirteen years. True, the Democrats elect Carter Harrison mayor of Chicago, by eighteen to twenty thousand majority, but that was by a combination of the worst elements of the population. The unmistakable trend of public sentiment is against the wild vagaries of the Populist sand the uncertainties of Democracy.

Important Labor Decisions.

Judges Ricks and Taft, in different cases arising in the United States Courts in Ohio, have rendered decisions adverse to the right of labor organizations to engage in boycotting. An injunction was granted by Judge Ricks restraining Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, from ordering members of the brotherhood to refuse to move freight received on roads on which they are employed from a road being operated in defiance of striking employees. Judge Taft, in a contempt case laid down the same principle upon which Judge Ricks acted in granting the injunction. The decisions will be antagonized and the cases taken to the Supreme Court. The Baltimore Morning Herald gives the following epitome of the history of the proceedings referred to:

"A strike occurred on the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern Michigan Railroad, but the places of the striking workmen were filled and freight was brought down to the terminus of the road at Toledo. A sympathetic boycott of this freight was ordered by P. M. Arthur, Chief Engineer of the Locomotive Brotherhood, on six railroads, and suit was brought by the Ann Arbor corporation, under the interstate commerce law, to compel these roads to carry the freight offered them, as they were legally bound to do. Judge Ricks in attempting to enforce the order was led to summoning the striking workmen for contempt in not obeying the order of the court, and to issue an order enjoining Chief Arthur to declare the boycott off.

"The decision rendered last Monday is the formal one, containing the orders before issued and making them permanent. In doing which the two judges of Toledo and Cleveland, sitting together, have stated in particularly lucid form the law bearing upon the right of railway employees to strike, and upon the position assumed by organized labor leaders in ordering strikes and boycotts.

"The right of workmen on railroads to quit work, after giving due notice, is acceded, and the compulsion of railways to give similar notice is involved in the same decision. But striking workmen may not stop trains nor enter into any organized compact to resist the railway companies in the discharge of their functions as common carriers.

"Chief Arthur's order affecting the locomotive engineers on six roads at once is called a conspiracy, and he is permanently enjoined from declaring such a boycott.

"This is the gist of the opinion set forth, and the veriest novice in labor matters can see what effect it will have upon railway strikes if sustained in the court of last resort."

A Brutal Murder.

Mr. Uriah Johnson, of Harford county, and a brother of Mrs. Rev. Dr. J. L. Killgore, of this city, was shot and fatally injured by a man named Eli Tucker, at Bynum's Station on the Baltimore and Lehigh Railroad, on Saturday last. He died on Tuesday. Tucker was in the employ of the railroad company, at the station from which Mr. Johnson was in the habit of shipping milk. Previous to the shooting some trouble had occurred between the men about demurrage and freight. The Bel Air correspondent of the Baltimore American, under date of Tuesday, gives the proceedings of the coroner's inquest in the case, which presents the facts from an official standpoint, as follows:

"Justice Richardson held an inquest this afternoon, and the jury, after examining a number of witnesses, rendered a verdict that Uriah Johnson came to his death from a pistol shot fired by Eli Tucker. The first witness examined was George Johnson, colored, who was at the station unloading some empty cans. He said he backed the wagon up to the car, while Johnson, Tucker and Agent Reynolds were talking. They began to quarrel. Mr. Tucker said that Johnson could not take the cans away without paying the demurrage and freight. This was Friday, and Reynolds and Johnson had a fight, in which Uriah Johnson was badly used up and very much bruised. The next day they came again to haul cans, and the demurrage and freight was paid by Mr. Johnson. Tucker was there, and came from the store with his pistol and shot Johnson, the ball cutting off the end of his little finger. The next shot struck Mr. Johnson in the side just below the last rib. Johnson cried, 'Save me or they will kill me.' Mr. Johnson was struck and kicked several times while down. Tucker's son came from the store and took his father away, but the latter soon came back and threw a stone at Johnson, which nearly knocked him from the wagon. Tucker said that if he fell on his side of the wagon he would finish him.

"Several other witnesses corroborated the colored man as to the facts in the case."

Tucker has been committed to the county jail at Bel Air for trial.

M. P. Conference.

The Maryland Annual Conference of the M. P. Church convened at Laurel, Del., on Wednesday. The president, Rev. J. D. Kinzer, presided and read his annual report, in which he stated the number of conversions throughout the Conference, during the year, at two thousand four hundred. The money raised for church and parsonage improvements amounted to nearly $50,000. Western Maryland College was reported in a flourishing condition, with 260 students, and Westminster Theological Seminary with thirty-five students.

Rev. A. D. Melvin and Dr. J. W. Hering were appointed members of the Committee on Home Missions, Rev. Dr. T. H. Lewis on Foreign Missions, Rev. J. W. Charlton on General Home Missions, and Rev. G. R. McCready on Sabbath Schools.

Rev. Dr. J. J. Murray preached the conference sermon, taking as his subject, "Church Work."

At the afternoon session, Rev. J. D. Kinzer was re-elected president of the conference, Rev. H. L. Elderdice was elected secretary, and Rev. D. W. Anstine, conference steward; B. P. Truitt, home missionary steward; J. M. Sheridan, superannuated fund steward; W. H. Stone, general home mission steward; S. Arnett, educational fund steward; W. S. Phillips, foreign missionary steward. The following were appointed assistant secretaries; B. A. Dumm and B. B. James.

Baltimore Letter.

There will probably be more building ventures during the coming year than ever before in the history of Baltimore. The most notable erection of property will be the construction of a hay storage warehouse, to be built by the Northern Central Railway, in a few weeks.

Mr. A. J. Geiman, accompanied by his son Wesley M. Geiman, of Westminster, visited friends in this city during the Easter Holidays.

A fire occurred at the Pimlico race track on Tuesday morning last. A row of stables, lying west of the grand stand, was totally destroyed.

The stables were partially insured. It was feared that the grand stand would become ignited, owing to the strong wind which was blowing, but the efforts of the fire department checked the flames. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Mr. George Everhart, of Manchester, is spending the week with his friend Mr. Albert C. Diffenbach, of this city.

In dollars and cents diamonds are regarded as valuable property, and persons possessing a number of the gems are generally considered as highly favored. But the care required to prevent them from being lost or stolen, must detract very seriously from the pleasure of their possession. Two instances of the disappearance of valuable gems have occurred within a week. In one a loss and the other a theft deprived their owners of thousands of dollars worth of the twinklers. Several bracelets, a number of solitaire rings and other trinkets, valued at $5,000, were stolen from the trunk of Mrs. Gen. Clinton P. Paine, of Baltimore, at the Hygeia Hotel, Old Point Comfort, last Saturday night, and Mrs. J. W. Knight, wife of the general solicitor of the Illinois Central Railroad, lost $4,000 worth of the beauties from her pocket, while walking on Michigan avenue, Chicago, with her husband, on Sunday. They reside in Dubuque, Iowa, and were visiting Chicago. Mrs. Knight had her diamonds with her and was afraid to leave them at the hotel, and for safekeeping put them in her pocket. It is supposed she drew them out with her handkerchief. A good farm or dwelling would be more substantial and reliable property, even if less likely to provoke envy.

It has been decided by President Hood, with the concurrence of the directors of the Western Maryland Railroad, that the Lutheran reunion cannot be held at Pen-Mar this year. The interruption to the regular freight, passenger and excursion business, on the occasion of these reunions, has been so great as to more than offset the advantages and gains to the railroad company.

Assistant Secretary Bussey has rendered an important decision in the matter of the claim of Joseph F. Smith for an increase of pension on the ground of new disabilities, in which he overrules the action of the commissioner of pensions in allowing an attorney's fee of $10. The claim for increase was made under the Act of June 27, 1890, and the assistant secretary holds that all such claims should be treated as strictly increase claims whether new liabilities are claimed or not, for which a fee of only $2 can be allowed. It is said that probably 200,000 claims will be affected by this decision.

Louis H Lohman, a young man employed in the office of the general passenger agent of the B. & O. R. R., in the central building, Baltimore, attempted to board an electric car to which a trailer was attached, on Sunday last, but missed his footing and fell with his neck across the rail, and the wheels of the trailer severed his head from his body. It was the young man's twenty-first birthday and he was on his way, with a party of friends, to celebrate it by a trip to Curtis Bay.

The news comes from the Eastern Shore of Maryland that the town of Galena in Kent county was almost wiped out by fire on Friday morning of last week. It was a village of some 800 inhabitants, with several stores, churches and a goodly number of residences. Like most towns of its size, there was no fire department and no appliances for fighting a conflagration. As a consequence, the place was doomed from the moment that the fire started.

Cumberland had two big fires on Tuesday evening, which destroyed a large amount of valuable property. By one of the fires thirteen buildings were destroyed on Baltimore and Mechanic streets, in the heart of the city. The second fire destroyed twelve buildings, of less value, in the southern portion of the city. The entire loss is estimated at $350,000.

President Cleveland has appointed Hannis Taylor, of Alabama, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Spain, and Judge William Lochren, of Minnesota, commissioner of pensions. Judge Lochren was endorsed by the Minnesota Legislature, by a unanimous vote.

The municipal election in Frostburg Monday resulted in the election of the entire Republican ticket. For mayor, Chas. H. Wade had 143 majority over John B. Wright. New councilmen elected to serve for two years are: Robert Scott, Zacharias Krapp and Benjamin Jenkins.

The appointment of James S. Eckels, as Comptroller of the Currency, is being severely criticised. Eckels was not an applicant for the place, but sought another appointment. He is confessedly unfit for the place. His confirmation is doubtful.

Thirty or forty buildings, including dwellings, stores, warehouses, offices, a bank, a hotel, &c., in the business part of Clarksville, Va., were destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon, 1st inst., entailing an aggregate loss of $125,000 to $150,000.

Extensive forest fires in the mountain, near Catoctin Furnaces, Frederick county, were reported during the early days of this week. Hundreds of acres of valuable timber land were burned over and much damage done.

Gen. Hiram Berdan, the famous commander of the "Berdan Sharp-shooters," died very suddenly at the Metropolitan Club, Washington, D. C., Friday afternoon of last week.

Ten miners were suffocated by smoke from fire in the Neilson Colliery at Shamokin, Pa., on Saturday last. Their bodies were recovered.
