The Financial Situation.

The crowded condition of our columns this week prevents an extended reply to the article of the Advocate, last week, in relation to the cause of the existing financial embarrassment. A point or two, however, should be promptly referred to. 1. The Advocate was mistaken in alleging that the millions of silver in the Treasury vaults "has been paid for in gold." The silver purchasing act specifically provides for payment of the silver bullion purchased with bullion certificates, which are redeemable in gold or silver, at the option of the Secretary of the Treasury. 2. The Advocate was further mistaken in alleging that Ex-Secretary Foster did not attribute his failure to a change in the administration. He did say, in substance, that the general financial stress which compelled his assignment was due to the indefinite and uncertain financial policy of the present administration. Deferring further comment on the Advocate's article for the present, we respectfully call the attention of our neighbor to the following paragraph from the speech of Gov. McKinley, last week, before the Republican convention of Ohio, as containing the suggestion of an infallible remedy for the existing financial distress:

It may be said that the new Administration is not responsible for the condition which is upon us. It is so asserted, and will be again, that this condition ought not to be chargeable to it, because the Administration has done nothing to produce it and can do nothing to prevent it. I concede you, that if nothing can be done by the Administration or Congress to relieve the situation then the Administration should not be held accountable. But is this true? If today the President should officially and authoritatively announce that there would be no change in the industrial legislation of the country, and that the financial situation would be met and solved upon that standard of financial honor and National good faith which has guided the Republican party since its installation to power in 1861, confidence would at once come back. Would it not? Does anybody doubt it? Security would displace alarm. Faith in the future—so indispensible to easy money and good times—would be restored; gold would stay at home, and money would go from its hiding place into the great avenues to business, where it belongs.

It might be supposed that the language of the Chicago platform of the Democratic party on the subject of the tariff was sufficiently explicit to be clearly understood by men of ordinary ability. It clearly denounces protection as unconstitutional, leaving, apparently, no room for any other construction. But now the Advocate says the position of its party is the same to-day as it has always been, "a tariff for revenue, with such incidental protection as the levying of such a tariff will afford." He will be more skillful than a Chinese juggler who can make these propositions harmonize. There is no hint at protection, incidental or otherwise, in the platform and no Congressman accepting the theory it presents can conscientiously consider the effect of tariff duties on American industries. There is certainly no protection in the platform, whatever the attitude of the Democratic party on the subject may be at this time.

Wednesday last was the hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the "Star Spangled Banner," that day having marked a hundred and sixteen years from the period of its adoption as the National Flag and the symbol of American Liberty. It was suggested several years ago by the Baltimore American that peculiar honor should be accorded the flag on each recurring birthday, by displaying the colors wherever possible, and the custom is said to be growing. Unfortunately general attention was not called to the matter in this community and the occasion was suffered to pass without its observance to an appreciable extent. The American says that in the schools of New England the day is commemmorated by having "processions and singing patriotic songs, with simple recitations or declamations." It is a beautiful custom and might be introduced with benefit in this latitute. Any act that serves to stimulate patriotism and intensify love for this best of all governments and its flag will be of service to the country.

The trial of Miss Lizzie Borden for the murder of her father and step-mother, at Fall River, Mass., nearly a year ago, has been in progress at New Bedford during the last two weeks. It proves to be one of the most remarkable trials in the annals of crime. The police and detectives of Fall River evidently jumped promptly to the conclusion that Miss Borden was the murderess, and have bent every energy to prove the correctness of that assumption. The result, up to the present writing, is that the State has well nigh demonstrated that the accused could not possibily have committed the atrocious deed. The most important witnesses for the prosecution have, on cross-examination by Ex-Gov. Robinson, one of the counsel for Miss Borden, become involved in numerous self-contradictions and also contradicted each other. Unless the State is in possession of some stronger testimony than has yet been presented the accused will be acquitted and almost freed from even a suspicion of guilt.

William Pinkney, the escaped murderer of Francis M. Bowie, was recaptured within two miles of Upper Marlboro, at eight o'clock, Sunday night. His captors were Frank W. Jones, white, and Hillery Jackson and his son Edward, colored. The elder Jackson discovered a clue to Pinkney's whereabouts and followed it up until he located the murderer in a ravine on the farm of Charles J. Bonaparte only two miles from the county seat. He saw Pinkney lying down in the ravine, himself unseen, and sent his son Edward for Mr. Jones, upon whose arrival the capture was accomplished. Pinkney made no resistance and said he had intended to give himself up. He will be hanged on the 30th inst. His captors are entitled to the reward of $750 offered for his arrest.

The Washington Disaster.

The first stories of the collapse of a building in Washington, D. C., in which several hundred clerks were at work, on Friday morning of last week, were very much exaggerated. The truth concerning the affair, however, is bad enough. Twenty-one of the employes were either killed outright, or died soon after. Two of these were from Maryland, Messrs. Wm. Schreiver, of Prince George's county, and A. N. Girault, of Annapolis. Forty or fifty were severely wounded, and others slightly. The floors of a portion of the building, only, went down, the walls remaining practically intact. Superstitious people connect the disaster with the assassination of President Lincoln, as the building was Ford's old theatre in which that dire event occurred. The structure had been remodeled and floors put in with a foundation basis of piers which may or may not have been sufficient to sustain them with the added weight of hundreds of human beings, office furniture and accumulated documents. Certain it is, that for more than ten years the building has been regarded as unsafe, and the clerks occupying it were repeatedly cautioned against walking hurriedly and heavily over the floors. Notwithstanding this fact workmen were engaged excavating in the cellar for the purpose of introducing an electric light plant, and in pursuing this work further weakened the previously insufficient supports of the floors, making the collapse inevitable.

It has been brought out by the inquiry of a coroner's jury that the clerks employed in the building were in momentary expectation that the floors would go down. One of the clerks, named James A. Long, had his life life insured in consequence of his apprehensions and, acting further on his fears, obtained a leave of absence and was not present when the disaster occurred. It appears singular that the employees did not flatly refuse to enter the death trap, but they explained before the coroners's jury that they were deterred, even from making protests against being subjected to the peril involved, by their fears of dismissal from the service.

The building was occupied by the medical inspector's division of the war department and a pension records' division, of which Col. Ainsworth was chief. Many of the friends of the victims accuse him of the responsibility of causing the disaster, and during the investigation by the coroner's jury, at which he was present with counsel, on Monday, a number of the spectators who suffered the loss or wounding of friends, were wrought to a frenzy of resentment against him and made a violent and hostile demonstration toward him. For a time his life seemed in peril, as the angry crowd pressed around him with cries of, "Lynch him! hang him!" &c. He was finally compelled to withdraw and leave the jury to proceed with the inquiry without the constant interruption of objections by his counsel.

It may be, as charged, that Col. Ainsworth is immediately responsible for the catastrophe, but its real cause is to be found further back, in a course of action on the part of Congress, which the New York Tribune aptly terms "Holmanism." The insecure character of the collapsed building, and of several others occupied by government employees—notably the government printing office—has long been a matter of public notoriety and of official knowledge as well. Repeated reports of their condition have been made by competent architects and have been brought to the attention of Congress, but the cheese-paring economy of the Holmanites has prevented the necessary appropriations to provide proper and safe quarters for the imperiled clerks. The shocking disaster of Friday may work a reformation in this respect, but no future act of Congress can bring to life the dead victims of this false economy, or afford fatherly protection to the little children orphaned by the event.

Only men were employed in the building. Many of the victims leave helpless families of whom they were the sole support, and it has been ascertained that none of them were men of means.

The dreadful occurrence should be a lesson and a warning to those who by proper action might have averted the calamity, and to their successors as well.

For the SENTINEL.

Little Folks.

Men, who understand the principles of liberty, will insist with the little folks that the little folks have a "perfect moral and legal right to boycott the Fair." That little folks have a right to exhibit as little folks in their own affairs is undisputed. Attention is called to these pranks, merely that such of the little folks as have capacity for development might be purged of puerilities and become men. The right of self-denial is allowed by all; but, since ecclesiastics have ceased to be sole legislators, the claim to include the unwilling has generally been repudiated. In Sunday matters, however, the little folks continue to domineer. Intelligent men know that in the times of the Blue Laws and before, Sunday regulations were positive and compulsory. A manifest improvement is, that now they restrain only. But this restraint becomes more than irksome to men of liberal views, who without it would respect and even participate in a not obnoxious custom. Little folks have these laws, and in the World's Fair appropriation have engrafted a condition to sustain them. With childish pertinacity they point to the law and refuse to consider its grounds. In such cases when Liberty is ready to stride she justifiably tramples upon the text! No one conversant with the recent history of this country needs be told that the slaves were emancipated in disregard of legal and sacred texts, nor that the laws in affirmance of that just deed were made without the concurrence of those to whom the slaves had been repeatedly guaranteed as legitimate property. The evolution of English politics, which has reduced an almost absolute monarch to a mere figure-head, illustrates how the Goddess of Liberty deals with the laws of the little folks. Subjects with swords in their hands, and judges with laudable chicane did her service. Pembrokes and Hampdens are not anarchs!

The Sunday condition restrains the unwilling from the exercise of an undeniable right,—to do that which might be done without injury to the person or property of any one. It is but the scheme of the dullard of the pulpit to indirectly force an audience he cannot draw.

Congress voted the people's money, and the open Sundays demonstrate that a respectable proportion of the people demand that their share of it shall sustain a Sunday fair; while they will abide the eternal consequences and relieve the little folks of all officious responsibility. Congress voted the condition, as it voted the Geary law, at the ominous (to party men) instigation of little folks, and both equally deserve to be negatived if wit can work the evasion.

From Toledo Blade.

Well, Secretary Hoke Smith, and Pension Commissioner Lochren, talking about "purging" the pension lists of those drawing pensions unworthily, how about Hon. John C. Black, who receives a pension of $100 per month as a "total wreck" physically—but who was amply able, during Cleveland's former term, to "hold down" the chair Lochren now holds; and who is to-day receiving $5,000 per year as one of the two Congressmen-at-large from Illinois? Why not "purge" the pension lists in his case? The papers are burdened with a case of a pensioner under the law of 1890 who has had a pittance of $12 dollars a month taken away because he is not totally incapacitated for work. Black's case is a worse one—about eight and one-third times worse. Will some Democratic anti-pension paper answer why Black's pension should not be annulled? We pause for a reply.

Decoration services were held at Baust Church last Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. There were about 300 persons present to witness this impressive service. Burns Post, G. A. R., was well represented. The following program was followed: Chanting, "Our Fallen Heroes," by the church choir, led by Geo. C. Harman, an ex-soldier, Mr. Maurice Fleagle at the organ; prayer by Rev. M. L. Firor; singing, "My Country 'tis of Thee;" address, by Rev. G. W. Mr. Wm. Nusbaum, a highly respected and worthy citizen of our community, died suddenly on last Sunday night, at what hour is not known, as the family found him dead in his bed on Monday morning. It is supposed he died from heart trouble with which he was a sufferer for years. Mr. Nusbaum was born in Uniontown district, where he lived all his life of 68 years, 9 months and 7 days. He was a good husband and an indulgent father. A wife and seven children, all grown, survive him, and two preceded him to the spirit land. He was a very enthusiastic union man during the war, and subsequently an ardent Republican. In early years he connected himself with the Lutheran Church, of which he was a member till his death. Funeral services were held at Baust Church on Wednesday morning, Rev. J. R. Williams, assisted by Elder Solomon Stoner, officiating. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. H. Sell, J. C. Unger, John Benedict, Nathan Heck, David Myers and Randolph Leatherwood.

From this world of care and pain.

Dearest one God has called thee

Where an Angel band is waiting

And your loved ones all so dear
Now feel the loss that cold death made
When they parted from thee here.

All Who are Suffering with Piles, Read the Following.

BIRD HILL, MD., JUNE 5th, 1893.

Dr. John S. Mathias:

Dear Sir:—I feel as though it would be a duty left undone and one I owe to yourself and to suffering humanity—if I did not tell of the wonderful benefit I received from your kind treatment. I suffered for about twenty years with Piles—for the first seven or eight years, not so severely; but for the last twelve years I suffered more than I am able to describe on paper, indeed I had them in their severest form. I applied to a number of doctors, and tried every remedy that I heard of, only to be disappointed and in nearly every instance not even temporary relief.

Indeed, I was in a pitiful condition when I called on you. Think of nine large tumors protruding, capable of bleeding fully a pint at every time they bled. I was so weak and nervous from loss of blood and from intense suffering that I did not think life worth living any longer. But thanks to you and your kind treatment, I can say that the Piles are a thing of the past. I cannot find language to express my gratitude to you, for your kind treatment and attention in my case, and humbly pray to God that your life may be a long and prosperous one. Let me say in conclusion that I can with confidence recommend any sufferer, no matter how bad his case may be, to go Dr. John S. Mathias and be cured.

You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit. Every sufferer wishing to know more about my case, can find out by addressing at my postoffice.

Very truly yours,
HOWARD T. SMITH.

In New Windsor, Carroll county, Md.

By virtue of the power and authority contained in the last will and testament of Peter Baile, deceased, and of an order of sale passed by the Orphans' Court of Carroll county, the undersigned, as executrix named therein, will offer at Public Sale, on the premises occupied by the undersigned, situated on High street, in New Windsor, Carroll county, Md., on at 1 o'clock, P. M., that valuable lot or parcel of land fronting 58 feet on High street and running back about 216 feet to a public alley. The improvements consist of a LARGE DOUBLE TWO-STORY BRICK DWELLING HOUSE and back building with finished basement under the whole house; brick outbuildings, large frame stable, well of water with pump on the back porch and under roof, excellent fruit, with productive garden and everything about the premises in the most complete order and repair. There is no more attractive or desirable residence in the town, for it is complete, with every convenience that comfort demands.

At the same time and place will be offered the House and Lot adjoining the above, now occupied by Mr. Wm. Repp, fronting about 16 feet on High street and extending through to an alley in the rear. This lot is improved with a comfortable Frame and Weatherboarded Dwelling House, brick smoke house and other outbuildings, plenty of good fruit, &c.

These properties will be offered separately and together, and will be sold in the way most advantageous to the estate. The situation of these two properties is among the best in the town, and they are worthy the attention of persons desirous of locating in one of the most healthy and attractive towns in the State.

Persons desirous of viewing the premises can call upon the executrix, residing thereon, who will take pleasure in showing the same, and for further information call upon or address her at New Windsor, Md., or Wm. A. McKellip, Attorney-at-Law, Westminster, Md.

Terms of Sale.—One-third part of the purchase money to be paid in cash on the day of sale, or upon the ratification thereof by the court, (which will be in about four weeks thereafter;) balance in one and two years, credit payments to be secured to the satisfaction of the undersigned and bearing interest from the day of sale; or all cash at the option of the purchaser.

MARY J. BAILE,
Executrix of Peter Baile, deceased.
