JUNE'S NOONDAY.

Roses white and roses red ;
Rose vines tangled overhead ;
June her floral treasure flings ;
While above a robin sings.

Drowsy bees hang on the rose ;
Silently the river flows ;
Scented is the air, and high
Flies a swallow in the sky.

Love knocks at my lady's bower ;
Comes he with the regal flower ;
Cries he, "Rouse ye, and away,
Know ye not 'tis roses' day ?"
Albert Hardy in New England Magazine.

Railroads in Africa.

A recent engineering Magazine has an interesting survey of "Railroad Development in Africa," from the pen of Cyrus D. Adams. Only five years ago, he says, a magnificent harbor was discovered at the mouth of Pungwee river, about one hundred and fifteen miles below the Zambesi delta. It is about two miles wide and six miles long, and on its northern shore has risen the town of Beira, where five hundred Europeans, half of them British, are now living. Beira is one of Africa's latest marvels.

Probably no white man six years ago had ever seen the barren promontory of sand it occupies. November 28, 1892, a locomotive that had been put together in Beira puffed through one of the streets and a little way out of town ; for Beira is to be the port of Mashonaland, the region of mountain and plateau where British enterprise is opening new gold fields. A month ago thirty-five miles of the new railroad had been completed. The route for nearly half the way to Massikesse lies along the Busi river. Its total length is less than two hundred miles, its longest bridge has a span of about three hundred feet, and the cost of the road is estimated at about five million dollars. The Mozambique company, a Portuguese corporation, is carrying out the work, but, by arrangement, the British South Africa company is to have certain privileges in the management of the road, and will build an extension from the Portuguese frontier at Massikesse to Fort Salisbury, the seat of government in Mashonaland. The Portuguese line is to be completed by the end of this year, and then the British extension will be pushed foward. This line will give to Mashonaland—which, in agricultural and mineral resources and the salubrity of its climate, is one of the most favored parts of Africa—its shortest outlet to the sea. Beira is destined to be a port of large importance, and lots for business purposes are now selling for fifteen hundred to twenty-five hundred dollars apiece in a place which not many months ago was a barren waste. Five years ago only two or three white men had ever visited Mashonaland ; its present population includes three thousand white settlers.

Making a Bread Poultice.

From the New York Post.

The home nursing class was instructed in poultice making the other day, and one of the first things taught was how to make a poultice of bread and water, or bread and milk. Sufficient bread was freed from its crust and then crumbled into the boiling liquid und beaten together with a fork until the mass was soft and light. When the poultice was so thick that it would not run, it was spread upon a piece of cheesecloth considerably more than twice the size of the spot it was to cover. The remaining half of the cloth was then folded over it, and the edges basted together. Sometimes only folding is necessary, and again, when poultices have to be changed quickly and often, it is an advantage to put the mixture into bags of cheesecloth and baste them at one end.

Cheesecloth is so soft and poroous that it is well to keep a few yards laid by for poultice cloths. It is also so inexpensive that there need be no scruples against burning it after it has been once used. The poultice of flaxseed meal is made much like cornmeal mush, stirring the meal into hot water until it swells and becomes soft. Elm bark poultices are made in the same way.

An Unfortunate Exception.

Meddlesome folk generally preface their unwelcome remarks with the assertion that they never interfere in other people's affairs ; having so said, they immediately proceed to interfere as much as possible, and sometimes receive their reward.

"I have made it a rule through life, said a pompous man at table the other day to his neighbor, "never to meddle with another man's business."

"That's right—perfectly right," was the reply.

"But I see you have a new confidential clerk. He's a dreadful person ; I have seen him intoxicated a dozen times, and I wouldn't trust him out of my sight with a penny. Took him out of charity, eh ?"

"Well, not altogether, you know he happens to be my eldest son."

There was a period so painful that both wished that someone would shout "Fire !" to break it up.

It is hard to find people in misfortune who will not tell you that somebody else was to blame for it.

FELIX AGNUS, Manager and Publisher,
American Office, Baltimore, Md.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

1893.

Greatest of Republican Newspapers.

National in its aims and devoted to the welfare of the Masses of the American People.

The New York Tribune concedes the election of Grover Cleveland, but promises to defend the Republican policy on Finance and Protection, with all the ability it can command.

It was the discontent of the farmers which caused the Democratic victories of two years' ago. The Weekly Tribune, addressing itself directly to them for the past two years, has carried on a campaign of discussion for their benefit, almost unparalleled in American journalism ; and the result coupled with Whitelaw Reid's previous great service to farmers, has been seen in the fact that agricultural communities have stood faithful to the Republican party, in a campaign in which, in other localities the party went completely to pieces. This year, the Democratic leaders changed their tactics and excited discontent among workingmen. They pointed to the higher price of farm products, and assured the workingmen of Northern cities that the British tariff system, (that is to say, lessened protection to American Farming and Industry) would lower the prices of food and manufactured products, and the profits of "monopolists" in this country, while at the same time maintaining the wages of labor, tho' wages being now the highest ever known in the United States. By false pretence, deception, and a pandering to the lowest passions of uninformed men in large cities, they have carried the country and elected a Democratic President and Congress.

The Tribune confidently awaits the result. Not for one moment, however, will The Tribune yield one inch of ground in the battle for American policies.

Roswell G. Horr's great articles will be among the features of The Tribune, the coming year. Men of every political faith are invited to read them. They will state the Republican view with frankness, point out the probable consequences of a change in the tariff policy of the country, and evade no issue, and conceal no fact, bearing upon the subjects discussed. Their thorough treatment of fundamental principles will aid every reader to a better understanding of profound and important issues.

A page a week will be devoted during 1893, to war stories and news of interest to Union veterans. Old soldiers, who have some experience to tell, which has not yet been printed, are asked to send the story to The Tribune for publication.

Farming has now become such an enormous interest in the United States, that there is an imperative necessity for making more of a specialty of the business interests of the Farmers of the country at large. Plans have been formed which ought to make The Semi-Weekly and The Weekly Tribune absolutely indispensable to every tiller of the soil during 1893.

A large number of entertaining features of general interest will also appear. "How to succeed in Life," "Village Improvement," special articles by brilliant men and women of high reputation, Chess and Checkers, and a hundred other things which cannot be recited in a brief prospectus, will appear on the Tribune's pages during 1893. The paper will have less politics and more of the thousand and one things which refresh the mind, entertain the imagination, and guide the reader in the prosecution of his business and social life.

The Tribune asks for reports as to the operations of Village Improvement Societies, from those who are acquainted with their operations.

An illustrated catalogue of excellent premiums will be sent free on application.

The Semi-Weekly is particularly commended to the attention of general readers. It gives more of the keen, incisive editorials, book reviews, foreign letters and other valuable features of The Tribune, than there is room for in the Weekly. The large type and broad columns of the Tribune make it the easiest paper to read.

To all who subscribe during 1892 for one year, the paper will be sent free for the balance of this year. Sample copies free. Weekly, $1.00; Semi-Weekly, $2.00.

Friends of Agriculture, Industry and the Republican party, are invited to make up clubs for this paper in their localities. There are four years' of trial, of new experiment, of discussion of great national topics, and of observation of the effects of Democratic supremacy before the country. The Tribune will lead in the presentation of the Republican view. The friends of the splendid record of the Republican party, can aid in the final triumph of Republican principles by seeing that the people read the Republican side of the story.

THE TRIBUNE, New York.

St. Nicholas for Young Folks.

JOHN G. WHITTIER long ago wrote of St. Nicholas, "It is little to say of this magazine that it is the best children's periodical in the world." Edward Eggleston, the author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," says of it, "There is not one of the numbers that does not stir the curiosity, inform the memory, stimulate thought, and enlarge the range of the imagination." Founded in 1873, and from the first number edited by Mary Mapes Dodge, St. Nicholas is now entering upon its twentieth year. The most famous writers have contributed to its pages in the past, but never has its editor been able to offer a better program or a more distinguished list of contributors than for 1893.

There is to be a series of illustrated papers on "The Leading Cities of the United States," —the story of each city told by a prominent resident. Edward Clarence Stedman will write of New York ; Thomas W Higginson, of Boston ; New Orleans will be described by George W. Cable, and Baltimore by President Gilman, of the Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Lyman Abbott will tell the story of Brooklyn, and other cities will be treated by other famous men. There will be articles on the World's Fair, and a number of papers of funny pictures and humorous verses.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the well-known author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol," etc., will contribute the leading serial for St. Nicholas during the coming year. The November number opens with a three-page poem by John G. Whittier, which has in it some of the most beautiful lines the good Quaker poet has ever written, describing the visit of a party of young girls to his home.

The School Journal says, "Place St. Nicholas in your household, and you need have no fears for the lessons taught your children." The magazine is the greatest aid that the teacher and the conscientious parent can possibly have. It entertains, and at the same time educates and instructs. The subscription price is $3 a year. Remittances may be made directly to the publishers. The Century Co., 33 East 17th St. New York.

The Century Magazine

IN 1893.

It would be hard for a person who cares for good reading to make a better investment than a year's subscription to The Century Magazine. No region is too remote, no expense too great, if it will only produce what the Century's readers want. This is the policy that has made it, as the Pall Mall Budget, of London, says, "By far the best of the magazines, English or American."

The November number begins a new volume and contains the first chapters of a powerful novel of New York society, called "Sweet Bells Out of Tune," written by Mrs. Burton Harrison, the author of "The Anglomaniacs." In this story the fashionable wedding, the occupants of the boxes in the Metropolitan Opera House, the "smart set" in the country house are faithfully reflected, and the illustrations by Charles Dana Gibson, Life's well-known cartoonist, are as brillant as the novel.

In this November number begins also a great series of papers on "The Bible and Science," opening with "Does the Bible contain Scientific Errors?" by Prof. Shield, of Princeton, who takes decided ground that the Bible does not contain scientific errors of any moment, and who most interestingly states the case from his point of view. Other articles in this series will include one in the December (Christmas) number, "The Effect of Scientific Study upon Religious Beliefs."

An important series of letters that passed between General Sherman and his brother, Senator John Sherman, is also printed in November, which number contains also contributions from the most distinguished writers, including an article by James Russell Lowell, which was not quite completed at the time of his death. The suggestion which Bishop Potter makes in the November Century as to what could be done with the World's Fair if it were opened on Sunday, is one which seems the most practical solution of the problem yet offered.

The December Century is to be a great Christmas number,—full of Christmas stories, Christmas poems, and Christmas pictures,—and in it will begin the first chapters of a striking novel of life in Colorado, "Benefits Forgot," by Wolcott Balestier, who wrote "The Naulahka" with Rudyard Kipling.

Papers on good roads, the new educational methods, and city government are soon to come.

Four dollars will bring you this splendid magazine for one year, and certainly no cultivated home can afford to be without it. Subscribers can remit directly to the publishers, The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York. They should begin with November, and so get first chapters of all the serials, including "Sweet Bells Out of Tune."

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Weekly is acknowledged as standing first among illustrated weekly periodicals in America. It occupies a place between that of the hurried daily paper and that of the less timely monthly magazine. It includes both literature and news, and presents with equal force and felicity the real events of current history and the imaginative themes of fiction. On account of its very complete series of illustrations of the World's Fair, it will be not only the best guide to the great Exposition, but also its best souvenir. Every public event of general interest will be fully illustrated in its pages. Its contributions being from the best writers and artists in this country, it will continue to excel in literature, news and illustrations, all other publications of its class.
